
PATHS OF EARTH AND COMET TRAIL

Get up early next week!

NEW YORK (AP) — The planet Earth, on its journey around the sun, is plowing through a swarm of gravel and other space junk left behind by a comet. The result is about to be seen by earthlings everywhere.

The phenomenon is called a meteor shower, but some will see UFOs.

Romantics will see "shooting stars" in one of the most beautiful light shows nature has to offer.

Astronomers and physicists will observe the ice, gravel and dust that burn before they can touch the planet.

"It's just like Old Faithful," says Dr. Kenneth Franklin, astronomer of the Hayden Planeterium here.

The rain of fiery debris — known as the Perseid Meteor Shower — becomes most visible the same time each year, from after midnight until just before dawn on August 11, 12 and 13.

It is called Perseid because the meteors, about 50 every hour, seem to be streaming from the constellation Perseus. The space debris rides along the orbit of the Temple-Swift Comet, which last passed the Earth in 1967.

The comet headed around the sun and then back into the far reaches of our solar system. If it returns at all, Temple-Swift won't be back until 2072.

"It's a fairly defunct comet," says Franklin. "It might never return."

But in previous trips around the sun, Temple-Swift left chunks of ice and gravel in its orbital path, which crosses the orbit of the Earth. Other comets have done the same thing, creating several meteor showers each year. Some are remembered for their irregular but spectacular shows of light. Others, like the Perseid, are known more for their regularity.

Franklin says observatories and planeteriums frequently receive calls about UFOs directly after meteor showers.

"To the person who doesn't expect the meteor shower, it might seem scary," says Sten Odenwald, a graduate student worker at the Harvard College Observatory in Massachusetts. "... you'll see some lights flaring up and then dying, like stars exploding."

But Odenwald also observes, "It will be great for romantics, just lovely. I plan to watch the shower from Yosemite National Park." He says the best place to watch the shower is outside any city limits.

This year's Perseid promises to be a good show. There will be no moon, which means that light from the meteors will have little competition. For those who stay up to watch the whole show, there will be an added attraction near dawn. The brightest planet, Venus, and the brightest star, Sirius, will be shining in the sky with two lesser but still impressive bodies — Jupiter and Mars.

Franklin says that some scientists will be watching the meteor shower to collect data on the atmosphere. They also might do spectroscopic analyses to monitor the chemical composition of the debris. None of it is likely to reach the Earth because the gravel and ice are in small chunks that burn or melt in the upper atmosphere.

Carter asks liberalized marijuana laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter called today for the elimination of all federal criminal penalties for the possession of up to one ounce of marijuana.

But the President said in a message to Congress and an accompanying "fact sheet" that trafficking in marijuana should remain "a serious, federal criminal offense."

He called for tougher enforcement of federal laws regulating narcotics and ordered Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell to intensify investigations of links between organized crime and drug traffic.

But, in a section dealing with marijuana, the President said:

"Penalties against possession of a drug should not be more damaging to an individual than the use of the drug itself; and where they are, they should be changed."

He said it was time to implement the recommendations of the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, which concluded five years ago that marijuana use should be decriminalized.

"Therefore, I support legislation amending federal law to eliminate all federal criminal penalties for the possession of up to one ounce of marijuana," he said.

Carter asked the Justice Department to study, with the State and Treasury departments, the possibility of revoking passports of known major drug dealers and freezing the assets they have accumulated in illegal drug trading.

He asked Bell to look into proposals that would deny pretrial release to certain persons charged with drug dealings.

He also asked Bell to look into the adequacy of existing penalties for major drug offenses.

Kaiser to shut 3 plants here

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Kaiser Steel in Fontana will shut down three of its 11 rolling mills in the late fall, company officials announced Monday.

Three-hundred employes who work in the three mills may lose their jobs, one official said — however attempts will be made to place them elsewhere in the plant.

"We will make every effort to place the employes within the plant," said Joseph Clark, company spokesman. "If there are layoffs, we have agreements with the union to proceed on the basis of seniority."

The decision to shut down the three mills was made "reluctantly and only after careful study of all the economics of these particular mills and their relationship to overall operation of Kaiser Steel," said Mark T. Anthony, president and chief executive officer.

Clark noted the firm has been "as specific as we can be at this point," in regards to the exact date when the mills will close down. "All we can say now is late fall."

The three mills — a blooming mill, a structural mill and a merchant mill — had been "marginal operations" in the past, according to Anthony.

"However," he added in a press release, "the continuing flood of low-priced foreign steel into the western steel market has made it impossible for us to recover the greatly increased costs of labor and material and it has become impracticable for us to continue to operate them at all."

The three mills roll steel ingots into thinner shapes for use in various steel products, Clark explained.

He added that Kaiser has no intention at this time of reopening the mills once they are closed. "It would be a remote possibility that economic conditions would change so drastically that they could be reopened.

Dad rams daughter's car headon

A 38-year-old Montclair man arrested Monday afternoon is accused of ramming his car into another car headon and beating a teen-age girl, Montclair police reported.

Injured in the incident were Dianna K. Lee, 18, of Montclair and Rita Montano, 16, of Montclair, who was injured in the collision.

Both girls were undergoing treatment for their injuries at Kaiser's Fontana hospital this morning.

Booked in the West End jail for investigation of two counts of attempted murder is Joseph Henry Montano, the father of the 16-year-old girl. Bail for Montano was set at $25,000.

Montclair police said that the suspect, driving his car eastbound on Orchard Avenue, saw his ex-wife's car driven by his daughter coming in the opposite direction.

Police said the suspect swerved his vehicle and crashed headon into the other vehicle containing the two teen-agers.

Officers said the suspect then allegedly leaped from his car, pulled the Lee girl out of the other damaged car and beat her.

Witnesses told officers that the suspect suddenly stopped and fled.

Officers were able to arrest the suspect in the area minutes later.

S.B. Supervisors hike own pay 8%

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

San Bernardino County supervisors have repeatedly said they would rather not raise their own salaries.

But after discussing the matter during the past several months, supervisors Monday voted unanimously for an 8 per cent pay raise now and the possibility of more next January.

Supervisors, who have come under attack from angry taxpayers during discussions on pay raises for elected officials, decided a Grand Jury recommendation to increase supervisors' salaries by 8 per cent to $24,844 was justified.

They postponed a decision on a more controversial Grand Jury suggestion that supervisors be paid at the same level as the average paid supervisors in five other Southern California counties.

That matter and the issue of an additional cost-of-living raised to be based on the five county average will be discussed by supervisors next January.

The supervisors' salaries has been a controversial issue since board members voted themselves a 39.4 per cent pay raise last year. But following numerous taxpayers' protests, supervisors later rescinded that action.

Supervisors this year had the county Grand Jury investigate the issue and present recommendations how pay raises should be determined.

Following the Grand Jury report, numerous citizens and taxpayer groups criticized the suggestions regarding supervisors' salaries. Many suggested the issue be placed on a ballot so county residents could vote on pay raises for their representatives.

Some arguments were heard Monday, although most persons testifying favored supervisors getting the 8 per cent per cent raise.

Jim Ferguson, representing the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association, spoke in favor of the 8 per cent boost. But he opposed using other counties to set the salaries of San Bernardino County officials.

"We whole-heartedly endorse your obtaining an 8 per cent pay raise, but please limit it to that," he pleaded.

Jack Carnine, an Ontario resident and school official, disagreed. He said supervisors were entitled to be paid more that the 8 per cent. "It's a nominal salary increase, they (the supervisors) deserve more."

Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino said it was a difficult position for supervisors to vote their own salaries. He suggested the Grand Jury be asked to investigate the matter further so perhaps another method of setting salaries could be found.

Supervisor James Mayfield of Apple Valley asked for a resolution which seeks to repeal laws that almost forces local officials to set their own salaries. He said another governmental agency should be responsible for setting supervisors' salaries.

Townsend and Supervisor Joe Kamansky of Upland refused to support Mayfield's motion, and it was defeated by a 2-2 vote.

Kamansky, who voted for the 8 per cent raise and indicated support for a further cost-of-living raise, said he believed the $24,844 salary schedule was fair.

"In my West Valley area, they've accepted the fact I have worked long and hard in this job, and so have my fellow supervisors."

He agreed with Townsend that it was premature to seek a state law change until the Grand Jury has investigated the matter further.

Supervisor Dennis Hansberger of Yucaipa said he didn't like the idea of setting his own salary and wanted to see the law changed.

Supervisor Robert Hammock of San Bernardino was absent.

Warn of steel imports

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — The American steel market may be flooded with foreign steel because ore stockpiles will be exhausted if the strike by Midwestern iron ore workers lasts beyond four months.

"Anybody who's got steel to be delivered in the short run is going to get it and get it on time, (but) if this thing goes on for awhile, the long-term effect will be devastating," said one analyst in Pittsburgh.

'..If our mills are forced to shut down for lack of ore, imports will flood us because the whole world steel industry is flat on its face, and they're just looking for a market."

FBI breaks up $500,000 magnate kidnap plot

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Park Police officer and his brother were arrested today on a federal charge of conspiring to kidnap the board chairman of the Marriott Corp., J. Willard Marriott, or his wife.

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley announced that agents arrested Paul Dwain Shepherd of White Plains, Md., an 18-year veteran of the Park Police, and his brother Billy R. Shepherd, of Owings, Md.

The Shepherds allegedly planned to kidnap Marriott or his wife from their Washington home at midmorning today and demand $500,000 ransom from the Marriott family.

Marriott runs the corporation which operates a chain of hotels and restaurants.

The FBI said Paul Shepherd had outlined the alleged kidnap plot to an undercover FBI agent on several occasions. The undercover agent had pretended to have some interest in participating in the plot, the FBI said.

At one meeting, Paul Shepherd gave the undercover agent a park police uniform, a gun and a personal check for $24,000 "to show his, Shepherd's, sincerity and dedication to follow through with the kidnaping plan," the FBI said.

Paul Shepherd was arrested in the Superior Court for the District of Columbia when he reported for work there. He had been assigned to liaison duties between the court and the Park Police.

Billy Shepherd was arrested in Maryland. The FBI said Billy is an employe of the Calvert County School system.

The Shepherds were to be arraigned before a federal magistrate later today.

Younger, lawmen differ on gang influence

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of five articles detailing criminal activities of two California prison gangs, inside and outside prison walls.

Investigators from the office of state Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger do not think ex-convicts are primarily responsible for the increase in valley drug trafficking and street crime, primarily in Chino.

Valley law enforcement authorities think quite differently.

The attorney general's investigation reported that, "The primary source of this activity is the Chino Sinners gang. This is a long-established, local group comprised primarily of Chino natives.

"Although many older members have been in prison, it is not believed that their criminal activities are either directed by, or closely connected with, the major prison gangs, La Nuestra Familia (NF) or the Mexican Mafia (Eme) or prison drug traffic."

Younger said the investigation by his office had been requested by Sen. Ruben S. Ayala, D-Chino, a short time after May 17, 1976, when two members of an anti-vandalism patrol were gunned down in the courtyard of Our Lady of Guadalupe Church in Chino.

Younger said his investigators contacted city and county law enforcement agencies, the Department of Corrections, security and parole officers, local citizens and various other informational sources.

Much publicized U2 pilot killed in helicopter crash

'FRANK' POWERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A police official said today that Francis Gary Powers, who lived through the Cold War downing of his U2 spy plane, may have purposely plunged his helicopter into the ground Monday to avoid hitting boys playing softball.

Sgt. Dennis Ruegsegger, head of the command post set up after the crash which claimed the life of Powers and his cameraman, said it appeared Powers decided to crash rather than take a chance on hitting the boys trying to glide to a landing after running out of fuel.

"His flight direction was directly in line with the field where the boys were playing," Ruegsegger said. "He fell down about 50 yards from where the boys were, and I think he purposely nosed it down."

Ruegsegger said it appeared that Powers, who learned to fly a helicopter less than a year ago, committed the "unforgiveable sin" of running out of gas.

"We found no evidence of fuel on board, and the craft didn't burn. So from all appearances it would seem he ran out of gas. That's the unforgiveable pilot error."

Details of precisely what happened were thought to be on a tape recording which was in the aircraft when it crashed about noon Monday. KNBC officials said today the tape was absolutely blank and has been offered to the FAA.

Powers, 47, and cameraman George Spears, 43, were killed when KNBC's equipment-laden Bell Jet Ranger chopper plunged into a vacant baseball field while returning from videotaping a brushfire in Santa Barbara.

The stocky, softspoken Powers created an international furor in 1960 when his high-altitude reconnaisance plane was brought down by a surface-to-air missile some 1,200 miles inside the Soviet Union.

The incident, which exposed the CIA practice of spy flights over Russia, caused the collapse of a Big Four summit conference in Paris and cancellation of President Eisenhower's planned trip to Moscow.

Powers spent 21 months in prison before being exchanged in 1962 for Col. Rudolph Abel, the master Soviet spy arrested in New York. He said on his return to the United States that he experienced "a wave of condemnation" for neither destroying the U2 nor killing himself with a poison needle given him before the flight.

Powers, a civilian under contract to the CIA, later said he had been unable to reach the buttons connected to the plane's self-destruct system and that he had been told using the needle was his own choice. He was cleared by a CIA board of inquiry, which found he had lived up to "his obligations as an American under the circumstances in which he found himself."

Only one SoCal blaze still unchecked

By The Associated Press

With one fire controlled and another contained, fire fighters were focusing their attention today on the one remaining unchecked major brush blaze in Southern California — a 1,000 acre blaze near Santa Barbara.

A fire that destroyed 5,500 acres near Corona was controlled Monday by some 500 workers on the line, and a 50 acre blaze in rugged, nearly inaccessible Los Padres Forest terrain was reported contained as night fell.

The Corona fire started from an illegal campfire last Thursday and flames twice forced evacuation of several hundred people when the fire practically knocked on their back doors.

The 50-acre fire in Los Padres National Forest near Camuesa Peak, about eight miles north of last week's disastrous Santa Barbara fire, erupted after lightning struck the dense brush during a thunderstorm Sunday night. U.S. Forest Service spokesmen said fire retardant dropped by aerial tankers was apparently holding the fire.

It broke out while fire fighters were struggling against another fire in the Los Padres National Forest that had blackened 1,000 acres by Monday night and was still burning out of control.

33,000-acre fire near S.F. out of control

CLAYTON (AP) — Firefighters have "no hopes of containment" of a 33,000-acre timber and brush fire raging here today until the flames run their course through rural areas south of nearby Mt. Diablo.

"It's making some real runs," said Harry Harp, California Department of Forestry. "We have no hopes of containment until the south side burns through the brush and begins to hit roads."

The blaze was sparked by lightning Monday afternoon and soon spread from Mt. Diablo State Park, about 35 miles east of San Francisco, to rural ranch country. Some 50 homes near Clayton were evacuated early today, Harp said. No injuries or structural damages were reported immediately, but flames were reported lapping within 25 yards of homes.

Planes were expected to fight the fire from the air today.

WEAPONS USED

Chino Police Chief Jerry Doyle examines various weapons seized from local street gangs and state prison inmates during the past few years. Many of the weapons pictured have drawn blood. It is believed the prison gangs influence street gangs to an extent in the valley and use youths to carry out the orders of high ranking gang members.

Younger and gang influence...

Since this report, however, other sources have indicated that at least two different task forces, one from San Bernardino County and another from the Department of Corrections, have visited valley cities collecting information on a series of murders, shootings and stabbings that all seem linked to either the NF or the Eme.

In addition, in the wake of at least five murders, Los Angeles City Council members have requested police and Grand Jury investigations of the East Los Angeles Get-Going halfway house for ex-convict drug addicts believed to have been controlled by the Eme.

That investigation is continuing, as is the investigation of at least four valley murders believed connected with prison gang activity.

What are the thoughts of valley police investigators regarding prison gang influence on valley street gangs such as the Chino Sinners, the 12th Street Gang of Pomona and the Black Angels of Ontario?

Capt. Louis Moreno of the Chino Police Department says, "La Nuestra Familia and the Mexican Mafia were created in the joints by street people to take over the narcotic activity, or anything that is illegal, in the joints.

"Now they have almost total support in the prison system. In fact, in my opinion, the gangs have taken over the prison system.

"They control everything that goes in and everything that comes out. Who is going to get killed, stabbed or shanked. They're powerful organizations."

But what's happening in the valley, Moreno says, "is that people in the streets, who are nobodies trying to be somebodies, whenever they get busted and go into the joints, they make themselves a name, either through the Mafia or the Family.

"They become somebody. They become either powerful people or get one hell of a reputation."

Moreno told of one Chino "nobody" sent to prison in a "lightweight" situation. But once inside, he shanked and killed a man on a contract involving either the NF or the Eme.

"We took him to court, but lost on a technicality. The guy served four more months and then came back to Chino," Moreno said.

"He became a tremendous influence. I think that's what made our Chino Sinners and other groups so powerful. This guy became a major influence to people in their early 20s and younger, who looked up to him as some sort of hero.

"Just after that," Moreno continued, "we saw an influx of people going to the joint who were immediately tagged either NF or Eme.

"We have always said in law enforcement that the prison system was having a hell of an effect, not only on the local communities, but on other communities in the state as well. We have said that either one or the other prison gang is taking over major crimes in the streets."

Chino police detective Dave DeLeon, designated by the court as an expert on the Chino Sinners street gang, said, "They have had a great influence due to the fact that some of the members in the NF were in the Chino Sinners while they were growing up.

"And, because of the NF organizational structure, the job of the soldier (El Soldado) when he gets out of prison is to go back and recruit additional soldiers. For this, he goes back to the gang members he is familiar with."

DeLeon said that during several of his investigations into valley slayings, informants revealed that certain individuals — past or present members of the Chino Sinners — had contact with the NF. Tactics used in slayings in Chino are similar to those used by the NF in slayings throughout the state, DeLeon said.

He said prison gangs control or attempt to control major narcotics traffic in all major California cities. "Here in Chino they have taken over most of the drug traffic and they also have infiltrated the Chino Sinners to the point now that you have some type of organization within the gang. They have been organized."

He said there have been some parents of Chino Sinners members actively involved in applying political pressure at community meetings, "so the Sinners might be given a different image, instead of the gang they are."

Pomona police detective Larry Zambrano, who works in vice and narcotics squads, said, "We can substantiate that the Eme and the NF do have moderate amounts of influence on the Pomona street gangs, such as the 12th Street Gang and the Cherryville Gang.

"It's no secret that the prison gangs are trying . . . not only trying, but have controlled to some degree . . . the narcotics trafficking and the receiving of stolen property, particularly guns, which are valuable to the organizations," said Zambrano. "They are heavy receivers in stolen property."

Detective Gordon Roberts of the Ontario Police Department indicated that youth gangs, such as the Black Angels in Ontario, may have contact with the prison gang members through their parents, some of whom have spent time in state prisons and become members.

"They respect these people for whatever reasons, and will follow in their footsteps because they idolize them," said Roberts.

He said prison gang members often will not become involved in petty theft and burglaries in the communities, yet receive large quantities of stolen goods from the youths committing such crimes.

"We know for a fact that these prison gangs are heavily involved in gun trafficking," said Roberts. "They have to have an outlet for the guns. They may store up an arsenal for themselves or take them to Mexico to sell in the black market. The same would go for narcotics."

Roberts indicated the NF, "with the greatest influence in the area," is dealing with local street gangs such as the Black Angels, for the purchase of stolen property and to pick up recruits. "They learn who they can trust and who they can't," said Roberts.

He said prison gang members will use street gang members to commit crimes instead of commiting the crimes themselves. And, through the street gangs, the prison gangs create markets for their narcotics enterprises, he added.

"The gangs will purchase weapons from the street gangs and sell them on the black market in Mexico. The profit from the sales goes to purchase drugs and narcotics, which are smuggled back into the United States and sold on the streets, much of it to street gang members," said Roberts.

(Next: Gang violence is becoming more and more prevalent in the valley, authorities say. Methods of assassination or execution are similar to those police are investigating in Sacramento, Fresno, Modesto, Lancaster, East Los Angeles and San Diego.

Chino board to hold hearing

The Chino school board will hold a public hearing and consider adoption of a final 1977-78 budget at tonight's meeting.

Plea by victim's mother to 'Son of Sam'

NEW YORK (AP) — Stacy Moskowitz' mother appealed today to her daughter's killer — the gunman who calls himself Son of Sam — to end his rampage. "Don't make any mothers go through the same pain I have gone through," she said.

Holding back tears as she spoke in her Brooklyn apartment, Nyesa Moskowitz said, "I know what I have lost and I just don't want anyone to lose in the same way."

Her 20-year-old daughter died at 5:22 p.m. Monday, more than 36 hours after she and Robert Violante were gunned down as they sat in a car along a lovers' lane in Brooklyn.

Miss Moskowitz became the sixth person to die in the year-old rampage of the .44-caliber killer, who also has wounded seven others. The killer now commands the attention of 300 policemen, Chief of Detectives John Keenan said.

"An animal like this should get caught and I hope he suffers for the rest of his life," Mrs. Moskowitz said. "I would do anything right now to see him brought to justice. I would sacrifice a lot. It won't bring Stacy back, but it might make others safe."

The Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, meanwhile, issued a nationwide appeal for help in tracking down all people who own specially made Bulldog .44-caliber pistols, the kind police say Son of Sam used in all of the shootings. Only 28,000 of the guns have been manufactured.

At Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn, surgeons said Miss Moskowitz died of massive brain damage and swelling caused by one of two bullets which struck her skull, lodging in the base of her brain.

Doctors say Violante may never be able to identify the murderer — he has only a 10 per cent chance ever to see again. The bullet that passed through his head behind the bridge of his nose destroyed one eye and seriously damaged the other.

Dr. William Shuchart, director of the hospital's department of neurosurgery, said Miss Moskowitz' heart had stopped "at least a half dozen times" during the day.

"She would have been a vegetable had she survived," he said.

The victim's mother, Neysa Moskowitz, said, "... She loved life too much for that."

Jerry Moskowitz cried upon hearing of his daughter's death, but he said later, "The doctor has told us what to expect. I knew it was coming."

Despite his injuries, police said Violante was able to provide a comprehensive description of the assailant.

Keenan told reporters that Violante's new information might lead to a change in the police artist's composite sketch of the killer, but admitted law officers were no closer to making an arrest.

Sunday morning marked the first time the killer had struck outside of Queens and the Bronx where police had increased their patrols. Now, police said, they have to worry that the killer may strike anywhere in this city of eight million people.

D.B. hitchhiker gets ride, killed in crash

A Diamond Bar resident, John "Skip" Biegun, 28, was killed Monday evening in a traffic accident in Columbus, Ga.

According to the victim's father, Hank Biegun, owner of Abco Security Co., Pomona, Mr. Biegun and a companion, Jeff Smith of West Covina, were hitchhiking across the country this summer.

The two men were picked up by a motorist. The car in which they were riding was struck by a truck in a head-on collision. Smith is in critical condition.

Mr. Biegun is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hank Biegun, 418 Willapa Lane, Diamond Bar; two brothers, Tom and Hank Jr.; and two sisters, Angie and Cheryl, all of Diamond Bar.

Funeral services are pending at Blackman Pollock Memorial Chapel, Pomona.

Pomona man suffers 8 stab wounds

A Pomona man suffered numerous stab wounds Monday night in an attack that was apparently gang related.

Police said Jimmy Guillen, 21, was attacked and stabbed eight times in the upper chest by a lone assailant still being sought.

Guillen was reported to be in serious condition today in the intensive care unit of Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Police quoted Guillen as saying he was formerly a member of a Pomona gang, had recently resigned his membership in the gang and had moved from the gang's neighborhood in an attempt to end his involvement.

A member of the gang, police said, confronted Guillen at his residence at about 11 p.m. Monday night and a fight ensued.

Alta Loma woman knifed; female jailed

A 25-year-old Alta Loma woman was booked in the West End jail this morning for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon after another woman was stabbed at 9900 Placer Court, Alta Loma, sheriff's deputies report.

Deputies said Nancy Stapleton of the Placer Court address was arrested after a woman identified as Rina Nash, 20, Pomona, suffered a stab wound in one arm.

The victim told deputies she had gone to the home to recover some property that belonged to a friend. She said when she arrived the suspect denied her entrance and a struggle ensued.

Deputies said during the struggle Mrs. Nash was stabbed in the arm.

The case remains under investigation, deputies said.

Alta Loma store robbed

West End sheriff's deputies this morning were searching for a man who robbed the Sprouse-Reitz store at 8776 Base Line Road in Alta Loma of a small amount of cash Monday evening.

Deputies said the man entered the store about 7 p.m. with his hand in a jacket pocket. The robber told the clerks in the store he had a gun and wanted all the cash from the registers. The clerks handed the robber the cash and he fled on foot.

The robber was described as a black, in his 20s, 5 feet 9 of thin build. He had a short afro haircut, was clean shaven and wore dark-rimmed glasses.

Deputies said they found a discarded brown-striped, long-sleeved shirt believed worn by the robber outside of the store.

Driver of van hurt in Upland crash

A 52-year-old Upland man was injured Monday afternoon when a van was struck from behind by another vehicle in the northbound lanes of Euclid Avenue between 17th and 18th streets in Upland, police reported.

Upland police said the van, driven by Ralph Clineman, of 2500 N. Euclid Ave., was slowing down when the second vehicle, driven by Timothy Robert Streck, 17, of 1546 Kelley Ave., Upland, collided with it.

Clineman was listed in good condition this morning at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland where he is undergoing treatment for multiple injuries suffered in the accident.

Streck was not injured.

Ship tests sea boundary edict

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A South Korean ship carrying 465 passengers today reached a South Korean-held island off North Korea without interference in the first test of the Communist North's new "military sea boundary," a radio message said.

The radio said the 450-ton Ongjinho, escorted by South Korean naval vessels, docked at the island of Paengyong-do after an 11-hour voyage from the port of Inchon near Seoul.

Deputies probe fatal shooting of 16-year-old

Los Angeles County Sheriff's homicide detectives are continuing their investigation today into the mysterious shooting death of a 16-year-old on the campus of Bassett High School in La Puente.

The body of Anthony Arizmendi, of 13519 Moccasin St., La Puente, was found in some bushes on the high school campus at about 7:30 a.m. Monday.

Deputies said Arizmendi had been shot once in the chest with a small caliber gun. He was dead when found.

Driver injured in Pomona collision

A 68-year-old Pomona man suffered serious injuries Monday afternoon in a two-car collision at Rebecca and Fourth Streets in Pomona.

Charles R. Lampman, of 1302 N. Huntington Blvd., was reported to be in serious condition today in the intensive care unit of Pomona Valley Community Hospital. He suffered numerous broken bones, collapsed lungs and lacerations.

Lampman's car, westbound on Fourth Street, was struck by another vehicle driven northbound on Rebecca Street by Ricky H. Moe, 16, of 336 Aboedo St., Walnut.

Red Cross clinic

The Claremont Red Cross blood pressure clinic will be held Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. rather than the 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. schedule reported Monday in the Progress Bulletin. The clinic will be held at the chapter house, 2065 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

No decision on ballpark lighting

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Still up in the air over lighting ball diamonds in a new city park east of Cable Airport, Upland City Council members postponed any decisions until they meet again next Monday at 7 p.m.

At the Monday meeting in City Hall, council members heard representatives of both Little League and Hilltoppers Girls' Softball League agree that the proposed poles, as designed, may be a hazard to planes landing at the field.

The park is located east of Benson Avenue between 13th and 15th streets while the airport is west of Benson Avenue at 13th Street.

Dewey Cable, president of the airport, contends the 75-foot and 50-foot poles could endanger pilots who were somewhat out of the normal landing pattern.

Cable's stand was supported at the Monday council hearing by Dewey Richardson, chief of the aviation division of San Bernardino County, who displayed charts indicating the poles' entrance into a possible landing pattern airspace.

"I flew into the airport recently and was actually looking up at the top of a marker indicating where the poles were to be placed," Richardson said.

"I feel that action is a first phase in an attempt to close Cable Airport," continued the official. "But I'd like to remind the citizens that this airport contributes some $95,900 in taxes to Upland.

"Of this, the Cables pay $21,000 in property taxes. Another $62,000 comes from planes there and $11,700 from allied activities. Of this, one-third goes to support schools, one-third goes to the county and one-third to Upland."

Upland city officials blame "lack of communication" for the confusion over lighting one Little League ball diamond and two softball fields with such tall poles.

"I knew that some lighting was to be done, but no one ever explained that the poles were to be so tall," said Councilwoman Ina Petokas.

Dwayne Smith, representing the Foothill Little League, petitioned the council to offer location alternatives in the city within a week if the lights will not be allowed in Greenbelt Park.

Steve Bodnar, representing the softball league, agreed to moving their two fields north another 250 feet, thus removing it further from the flight pattern.

As it stands now, the two softball fields will probably be moved closer to 15th Street and the pole height will be reduced a few feet.

Both the airport operators and the softball league are agreeable to this action.

32-cent drop in Chaffey tax rate?

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Amid predictions of financial worries for the district next year, Chaffey school trustees Monday night adopted a $27.9 million final budget that estimates a 32-cent drop in the tax rate.

Asst. Supt. Russell Dickinson earlier had figured the tax cut to be about 25 cents in the 1977-78 budget. But he estimated Monday the total rate will drop from $2.62 to $2.30 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Despite the tax rate decrease, homeowners will still be paying higher tax bills because of a 29 per cent increase in the district's assessed valuation.

Dickinson explained that due to the increased assessed valuation, the district can lower the school tax rate. This is based on state formulas for figuring income.

Board members Monday were concerned over what officials called "deficit financing."

Dickinson noted the district will spend about $1 million more than it takes in in revenues during 1977-78. Total expenditures (not including reserves) are about $25.8 million, while total income is $24.8 million.

However, district reserves total a comfortable $2,054,960.

Dickinson said that with reserves, "We're all right. But you can only deficit spend for so long — and then you get in trouble."

Supt. Mike Dirksen agreed with a contention by board member Jack Carnine that the district is "headed toward a real chaotic situation a year from now."

Carnine noted, "We're spending a million more than we're taking in. We should be going back to check over the budget."

Dirksen blamed rising costs, higher employe salaries and a return to the six-period day for the increase in spending over last year — and "deficit financing." The $27,988,214 total budget is $700,000 higher than last year.

FORMER SPY PILOT DIES IN CRASH

Police officer examines wreckage of KNBC helicopter which crashed in Los Angeles Monday, killing former U2 pilot Gary Powers and another news employe.

'Nobody ever took care of Frank Powers'

BURBANK (AP) — "Frank" Powers had made many friends during his 10 months with KNBC-TV and his closest, anchorman Jess Marlow, broke into tears on the station's 5 p.m. news show as he reported the deaths of two staffers.

Marlow, a veteran newsman, struggled unsuccessfully to control his voice and bowed his head while other KNBC reporters looked on stony-faced. Their anguished silence contrasted sharply with a rising hum that had filled the newsroom before the show began.

The atmosphere had come full circle from the "morguelike gloom" videotape editor Bill Palm encountered shortly before 1 p.m. Monday when word came that Powers and cameraman George Spears had died in the crash of their equipment-laden helicopter. Although work on the story had begun within minutes, many staffers were relieved not to have drawn the assignment.

"It's different when it's at home," said cameraman Herman Conant. "A 'copter crashed the other day at a fire. We're out among that all time, and we do what we have to do, but I don't know if I could cover this."

Reporter John Marshall, working with Palm on a piece of tape shot earlier in the day, nodded agreement.

"These things are not supposed to happen to us," he said. "We get detached reporting on them happening to others."

For Marlow, the loss was more personal. He and Powers had been friends for years, and as he spoke to a reporter his wife was with Mrs. Powers.

"Without being maudlin, I'd like to think that he went out doing what he wanted to do," he said. "This last year was a very happy one for Frank. He loved flying that Telecopter and he had developed a real facility for reporting."

"People used to ask why he was flying a traffic plane (Powers' previous job). He did it because he needed a job. Frank never got a pension from the government, never got anything from the CIA. Nobody ever took care of Frank Powers."

Wallace denies divorce action

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace says "there's nothing" to documents which purport to be an as yet unfiled divorce petition drawn up on his behalf.

The Associated Press obtained the document Monday following a report from a Montgomery television station, WSFA-TV, that a divorce petition had been drawn up for the governor and his wife, Cornelia.

Mrs. Wallace could not be reached for comment on the documents.

The governor, through his deputy press secretary, Elvin Stanton, said only that "there's nothing to that."

Stanton said he personally had "no knowledge of any divorce proceedings."

The document, which is unsigned and dated only July 1977, says "the husband avers there exists such a complete incompatibility of temperament that the parties can no longer live together.

"The husband further avers there has been an irretrievable breakdown of the marriage and further attempts at reconciliation are impractical or futile and not in the best interests of the parties."

Teamster boss denies Nixon-Hoffa payoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell is being challenged to document published allegations by unidentified Justice Department sources that former President Richard M. Nixon received a Teamsters union payoff in exchange for preventing Jimmy Hoffa from returning to union office.

Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons angrily denied the charges carried in a published report, calling on Bell to produce evidence backing them up.

Fitzsimmons said on Monday that he never "paid one cent to the Nixon administration" as part of any deal to hold Hoffa at bay.

Unidentified Justice Department sources had been quoted by Time magazine as saying Fitzsimmons gave Nixon $1 million to prevent a Teamsters comeback by Hoffa, who is now missing and presumed dead.

Gypsies are a tribe of people who have been wanderers for nearly 1,000 years. They are associated with a carefree life, wandering as they will in brightly painted wagons, called vardos, or in buses and cars. Their clothing often includes gay clothes and bright jewelry.

No one knows much about the Gypsies' early history. Perhaps in the beginning they came out of India to wander from one country to another.

Some people thought they came from Egypt and called them "Gypsies." But the Gypsies call themselves "Romanies," and speak the Romany language, which is related to the language of India.

As they travel, Gypsy men often earn their living as craftsmen and traders. Gypsy women sometimes earn money as fortune tellers. Gypsies also perform as musicians and dancers.

Today, Gypsies live in Hungary, Spain, France and England, as well as in the Americas and other parts of the world.

Joyce Brothers

Peace and quiet

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My husband gets very angry with me because I like to get away from the family to be by myself for a couple of hours each weekend. He always asks a lot of guests to our home every weekend. While I don't mind doing most of the cooking, I find I really need time away. He feels this is rude and antisocial. If I do it his way (he seems tireless) I'm afraid I'll say something I don't mean, because I'm just tired of people. Not tired of individuals — just noise and talk, in general. How can I break my habit? — S.K.

Dear S.K.: Don't try to. I believe your husband should allow you to be yourself and to take care of your own needs. It sounds to me as if he's an extrovert and you're more of an introvert. There's nothing wrong with this. In fact, introverts are usually attracted to extroverts and marriages between the two work out well as long as each respects the other's needs.

Your husband obviously thrives on people and is much less disturbed by noise while you need much more peace and quiet. I'm sure your guests don't mind if you leave them during certain hours. They may actually welcome it and have similar needs for themselves.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My neighbor criticized me when she saw me hit my 8-year-old son because he'd done something I told him not to do. I don't see anything wrong with this. I was raised with many spankings and it didn't hurt me. In fact, my brothers were kept in line because my parents were very strict. If kids were more disciplined, there wouldn't be so many problems and so much violence. — A.R.

Dear A.R.: Studies indicate that you're wrong in your theories of how to discipline. I agree that discipline is necessary, in fact, essential. However, corporal punishment isn't justified, isn't necessary, and is always counterproductive because it creates fear and resentment in the child.

Violence begets violence. Violent individuals are almost always the children of violent parents. There's no doubt that children can, and do, arouse violent feelings, but when parents hurl this violence back at the children they're teaching, by example, that this is the proper way to handle problems. Spankings are mainly an outlet for the feelings of immature parents. It serves the purpose of the parents, not the child.

The most effective discipline is to give a child a choice of actions. When he does something well, he receives praise and reward so that he'll want to repeat that behavior in the future. If a child fully understands why he is to do something and then deliberately goes against his parent's wishes, the parent should first try to find out why, and then, as a punishment, withhold some privilege.

In the long run, parents who use this system will have better, healthier relations with their children.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I've had notoriously bad luck with three marriages but I never seem to give up. I'm now entering on the fourth round with another woman I love very much. I say "another" because I did love the others when I married them. One of my closest friends tells me to forget about marriage as an institution is, and should be, dead. I'm old-fashioned and still cling to the notion that this time will be the magic one. Is this naive for a 40-year-old? — M.M.

Dear M.M.: I'm just a trifle disturbed by the word "magic." To me, this indicates that you may still have romantic and unrealistic expectations about marriage, which may be one of the reasons you've had problems.

Even though an individual has had marital failures, there is always a chance for success if the person has matured and learned from the past failures.

Sociologist Norval Glenn and Charles Weaver feel that stability is the wrong yardstick for marital success. Flexibility might be a far better way to measure the viability of the institution of marriage.

Remarriage usually brings a completely new set of problems. There frequently are stepchildren, financial and emotional obligations to more than one family, in addition to the standard possibilities for incompatibility. These problems, however, can be offset by a greater maturity and more realistic expectations.

Don't pay too much attention to your friend. He may be expressing his own problems with marriage. He may have some ambivalent feelings about your situation he's not aware of. He may wish that he'd done as you're doing, or he may regret that he has acted in a similar manner. In either case, I'd guess that he's projecting his own problems onto your marriage and actually, they have little to do with you.

A Sequel: Ignorance Is 'Blitz In A Whiplash

Last week this column reported Dr. Fisher's warning of the consequences of ignoring treatment for whiplash injuries. In his view, it is foolhardy to forego examination following any auto accident or fall as the tell-tale symptoms of a whiplash can be hidden for days, or even weeks.

Dr. H.L. Fisher D.C.

However when a whiplash is ignored, at its incidence, it can be devastating in the final analysis.

How devastating? In what way?

We put those questions to Dr. Fisher and present here what would be considered a sequel to last week's article.

"Devastating is your word," said Dr. Fisher. "But it is a good one."

"Consider such problems as traumatic arthritis, nerve root compression, myofibrositis, chronic disc re-injury, to name only a few, all can result from an untreated whiplash," says Dr. Fisher. "And you can readily see 'how devastating'."

Dr. Fisher notes that following a whiplash, joint ligaments can heal with scar tissue if treatment is not sought following the injury.

"With scar tissue there is a loss of elasticity in the ligaments, which in itself can result in a loosened spinal joint," Dr. Fisher points out.

"If the loose joint becomes unstable, traumatic arthritis may well result," he adds.

"Myofibrositis occurs" says Dr. Fisher, "when the injured muscle and surrounding ligaments are replaced by scar tissue."

"The most common complication in whiplash is the afore-mentioned "nerve root compression."

"Nerve root pain is excruciating" says Dr. Fisher, "as it radiates over an entire area serviced by the particular spinal nerve."

"Chronic disc re-injury sounds to be a logical danger of the untreated whiplash."

"Of course, you're right," says Dr. Fisher. "A whiplash jolt can render the spine susceptible to any number of disc injuries from subsequent jolts and shocks."

In addition to the problems connected with untreated whiplashes as noted, Dr. Fisher points out many more. The list however, is too lengthy to detail here. He does say that neuritis of the neck, extreme nervousness, and even eventual brain and spinal injuries can result.

"I know it sounds as if I'm over-simplifying to say: 'to ignore a whiplash is to play with fire, says Dr. Fisher, "But that is such an accurate description."

In other words, don't compound problems or an accident with your own indifference.

"You know," says Dr. Fisher, "just about every day I see a patient whose difficulties are traceable to old accidental injuries. They ignored the warning signs and are paying for it. As far as I'm concerned," concluded Dr. Fisher, "their suffering is absolutely needless."

(Note: The whiplash symptoms, whether immediate or delayed are generally the stiff neck, head or neck pains, and an uneasiness - or tension - particularly upon awakening. The more serious symptoms such as restricted neck motions, headache, nausea, muscle spasms, etc. are considered absolute.)

'The Cheap Detective'

Shooting Bogart spoof not easy

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Things were moving slowly on the set of "The Cheap Detective." There are always little, annoying details that slow up shooting on a movie set. But, in this case, these minor matters seemed bigger than usual.

Director Robert Moore, who seemed to take everything very calmly, explained.

"For the last week or so," Moore said, "we've been shooting simple things in small sets. This is the first day we're here, and the first day we have so many things to contend with — cars, smoke, props, water, everything like that."

"The Cheap Detective" is a spoof of the old private eye movies of the '30s and 40s. Nobody is saying it, butthe character Peter Falk is playing is really an amalgam of all the private eyes that Humphrey Bogart ever played. That's the way Neil Simon wrote it, and that's the way Falk is playing it.

And here they were, shooting in front of a nightclub that was right out of "Casablanca." Outside, a garish red neon sign spelled out "Nix Place" — if you remember the movie, the club Bogart ran was called Rick's.

The inside was typical mid-Oriental nightclub — beaded curtains, fly fans, Moorish arches. And there was the piano at which Seatman Crothers would sing some song, just as Dooley Wilson sang "As Time Goes By" in the real "Casablanca."

The whole thing was so reminiscent that I overheard a couple of the crew whistling "As Time Goes By' as they went about their work.

But there are always cynics on movie sets, too. There was this overheard conversation between two crew members:

"It's all the old Bogart films rolled into one, right?"

"Right. But why would they want to make that again?"

"Neil Simon wrote it and he wrote 'Murder By Death' and that made some money so I guess that's why."

And presumably, that had a lot to do with it. In "Murder By Death," Simon parodied a handful of the screen's golden-oldie detectives. This time, he's zeroing in on just one.

The scene they were shooting in front of Nix Place was typical. Falk drives up in a cab, gets out, and is accosted by Phil Silvers, as an old rummy.

"Hello, Hoppy," says Falk, as detective Lou Peckinpaugh, "I thought I saw the last of you in Cuba."

And Silvers explains how he managed to get out of Cuba, by swimming away from the wreck. The sharks bit his knee cap, he says, but he fixed it with string and he can walk pretty good now.

Then he asks Falk for a drink, saying how the string hurts awful bad some times.

"How about a drink, Lou?" he says.

And Falk produces a drink — a highball, complete with a sprig of mint — from his topcoat pocket. Then the detective goes into the club, and Hoppy tries to follow, but the fez-topped doorman stops him. The detective returns, decks the doorman and says, "You do that again, you're going to have to bend over backwards to whistle for a cab."

End of scene.

But things kept going wrong. Small things.

The cab wouldn't start.

So they wound up having a couple of the crew push it, crouching so they wouldn't be seen as they pushed.

Across the street, a tugboat was moored to a pier. It had to be rocked by hand, so it looked like it was gently moving as the sea caught it. The rocking was hard to get at the right tempo.

Between takes, they watered the street down with a hose, so the street would look wet and mysterious. Moore liked the wetness to bubble up in certain spots, and that took time.

The fog machines were turned on just before the cameras rolled. They wanted enough fog, but not too much. That, too, was a balance that wasn't easy to achieve.

They rehearsed a few times, then tried a take.

"Boy, what a mess!" said the cameraman, and everybody laughed. Nothing had gone right. People missed their marks, blew their lines, too much fog, the cab was pushed in too far. A mess.

Another take was ruined when the man driving (supposedly) the cab forgot to turn the headlights on.

They did it again.

"Cut," said Moore. "Nearly adequate. We go again."

The next time: "We're getting better."

The next time: "We're surely improving."

And finally: "What's wrong with that?"

They did it a few more times, just to make sure they had everything just so. That's the difference between shooting movies and shooting television.

DRINKS ON ME — Phil Silvers is delighted with the highball Peter Falk drew from his pocket in a scene from "The Cheap Detective," now filming in Hollywood. It is Neil Simon's second movie.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fears that interest rates were headed higher sent stocks lower Tuesday in sluggish trading. Many investors retreated to the sidelines.

Analysts said the decline was in response to indications the Federal Reserve Board had tightened credit Monday following a $5 billion surge in the nation's basic money supply.

Observers said tighter credit would lead to higher interest rates. That would help slow the economy's growth rate that, judging by a 0.6 per cent slide in June's index of leading indicators, showed signs of weakening from its torrid firsthalf pace.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average was off 2.60 points to 889.21 shortly before noon EDT. Declines led advances, 768 to 364, among the 1,620 issues crossing the tape.

New York Stock Exchange volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 7,800,000 shares, down from the 8,130,000 traded during the same period Monday.

Steel issues were under renewed selling pressure in light of poor earnings reports, the industry's first strike in 18 years, and a rise in the price of molybdenum, which is used to convert ore into steel.

Bethlehem Steel was the most active NSSE issue, off 1 to 22¾ following a block trade of 200,000 shares at 22½. U.S. Steel was off ⅞ to 35⅛ and Armco ⅜ to 23⅝.

Eli Lilly was the second most active NYSE issue, off ½ to 35⅛ in trading that included a block of 122,900 shares at 35⅛. A major anaylst told the Wall Street Journal he viewed Lilly's "fundamental situation with concern and would avoid the stock."

Burlington Industries was the third most active issue, off ¼ to 23¼.

Prices were lower in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Garan was ahead 1. The firm reported higher third-quarter earnings.

Standard Oil profits increase 30 per cent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bolstered by sharp increases in foreign earnings, Standard Oil Co. of California reported profits for the first six months of 1977 were 30 per cent higher than for the same period last year.

The San Francisco-based company said Wednesday its earnings had jumped to $505 million for the first half, up from $388 million a year ago. Sales jumped 12.7 per cent to $10.9 billion.

Profits made outside the U.S. totaled $176 million for the second quarter, compared to $182 million during the second quarter of 1976.

On the domestic front, earnings hit $101 milion for the second quarter, down 2 per cent from a year ago. Earnings from domestic oil and gas operations incresed 6 per cent to $90 million.

L.V. man wins bank promotion

Bank of America has appointed John M. Bubrik of La Verne a vice president and senior account officer for the Los Angeles corporate service office of the North America Division.

Assigned to the financial institutions section of the wholesale banking operation which handles credit and account relationships with major corporate customers, Bubrik has responsibility for B of A's correspondent banking activities in 11 states. He had served as an assistant vice president and account officer since August 1975.

JOHN BUBRIK

Bubrik previously was assigned to the personnel administration at Los Angeles headquarters. In February 1971, he was placed in charge of all personnel matters for Los Angeles-based headquarters employes and, in February 1973, was appointed head of officer recruitment, employment and placement in Southern California, a position he held until his transfer to the corporate service office.

Bubrik has lived in La Verne with his wife, Lillian, and their two daughters since 1975.

Mint founded

On April 2, 1792 the U.S. government passed an act providing for a national coinage and the establishment of the first U.S. Mint, which, at the time, was in the nation's first capital, Philadelphia.

DEADLY — Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa., holds up an airbag canister containing sodium azide at a Washington news conference. Shuster said the sodium azide, a chemical compound used to inflate the airbag, is a poison so deadly that, if inhaled or exposed to cuts, can cause convulsions and death, according to the Library of Congress and the Office of Hazardous Materials. Shuster said that if the Mandatory airbag-passive restraint order stands for new cars, millions of traveling Americans could be exposed to the danger.

Second recall notice on defective detectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission has issued a second recall notice for defective smoke detectors that could fail to warn of fire and smoke danger.

The second notice was issued jointly by the agency and BRK Electronics, the manufacturer, because more than 80,000 of the detectors were not located after the first recall notice in January.

The detectors were marketed by BRK, American Machine & Foundry (AMF), I-T-E Imperial Corp. and Sears, Roebuck & Co.

The detectors being recalled were manufactured with resistors that could fail, BRK said.

The smoke detectors are being replaced free of charge by the Aurora, Ill.-based electronics firm.

The units subject to recall are 110-volt detectors that sold for a suggested retail price of $39.95.

The model numbers of the detectors are BRK: SS749AC, SS749ACS, SS749L, SS749SL; AMF: 2000AC,2000ACL; I-T-E: IT01-AC; Sears: 9-57049, 9-57047.

Camper firm's move to be discussed

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

A large turnout is expected today at 7:30 p.m. at the Thatcher Music Building when Claremont residents tell the City Council their concerns about a camper manufacturer moving to the city and a Planning Commission recommendation that a shopping center not be built at Base Line Road and Mills Avenue.

Residents are split on the recommendation that the area of Base Line Road from Mills Avenue east to Padua Avenue be designated as commercial-professional on the city's general plan, and not as highway commercial.

The commission has recommended the northeast and northwest corners at Claremont and Foothill boulevards be designated as highway commercial.

In another matter of interest, residents of neighborhoods bordering the Claremont Business Park on three sides will protest the coming of Chinook International to Claremont.

About 80 persons attended a neighborhood meeting at Wheeler Park Sunday night to discuss their concerns about possible problems with noise, odor and particle emissions from the plant proposed for the northwest 9.1 acres of the park. The plant would be built on Cambridge Avenue and make use of the Santa Fe railroad tracks for shipments.

The Claremont Architectural Commission has scheduled a special meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall to study an architectural and site plan review of the proposed plant.

The Thatcher Music Building is at the southeast corner of Fourth Street and College Avenue. The council meeting will be held in Lyman Hall which seats 250.

SMOLDERING BRUSH

Los Angeles County firefighters battle hot spots during a brush fire which broke out Monday afternoon at San Dimas Avenue just south of Arrow Highway in San Dimas. Three acres were burned and firemen still were watching hot spots at the scene this morning. A witness reported seeing three youths run from the scene as the fire started.

Another tax decrease set in Pomona

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

An additional tax rate decrease, concern over the district reserve fund and additional funds for the Child Care Center program highlighted the budget study session of the Pomona school board Monday evening at the Education Center.

Trustees concluded budget study for the 1977-78 program of service on a note to please taxpayers as they reached consensus on an additional four cent decrease in the district tax rate from $5.02 to $4.98 per $100 assessed valuation.

District Supt. Charles Carpenter said the decrease was made possible by information the district had received in the past four days from the Los Angeles County Superintendent of Schools, but he did not elaborate on what that information entailed.

The rate could have dropped another two cents had trustees not decided to up the tax rate for the Pomona Child Care Centers — the child development tax — by an additional two cents creating another approximately $47,000 for that program next year. The increase brings Child Care Center budget up to something in the neighborhood of $868,000 from a previously budgeted $820,000.

However, trustee C. J. Mendoza, noting that many California school districts are getting out of the child care area, approved an addition to his motion to increase the funding which stated simply that the Child Care Center program not be allowed any support from the district general fund during the 1977-78 school year.

The rider cutting the center off from general fund support was moved by trustee Eugene Whitlock.

The tax rate decrease, which is expected to win formal board approval at Wednesday evening's regular meeting, means a decrease of 12 cents to district taxpayers over last year's $5.10 cent tax rate.

Trustees did express concern, led by Whitlock, over the district's projected ending fund balance both for the general fund and the adult education program.

The adult education total budget of $2,500,000 includes an ending balance of only $14,000 and was called "a little too thin" by Whitlock who asked that the administration bring back an ending balance of $75,000 for the adult school at Wednesday's meeting when the public hearing and formal adoption of the budget are scheduled.

Almost before Whitlock could make the proposal, however, Carpenter said he would be bringing back a recommendation to the board on Wednesday for an increased ending balance in the adult education account.

Similar concerns were expressed by both Whitlock and board Vice President Francis Livingston over the general fund's projected ending balance of approximately $2,055,000 out of a total income of $32,800,000. The district will deficit finance — that is, spend money out of this year's ending balance — to the tune of $3 million this year. The $32.8 million income will be weighed against a $35.9 million expenditure.

Whitlock said he felt the district would need at least a $3 million ending balance this year to have sufficient carry over into 1978-79 to avoid layoffs of personnel. An informal survey indicates that a $2 million reserve weighed against declining state funds and inflation, might result in the need to layoff as many as 200 employes next year.

To increase the reserve, the board directed the administration to begin a 1 per cent across the board cutback realizing that no cutback may be possible in some areas while a 2 or 3 per cent cutback might be possible in others.

With that 1 per cent reduction, an additonal $400,000 could be made available for the ending balance.

If the district should receive an additional $600,000 from the adoption of the state school finance measure, the district's reserves could approach the $3 million mark.

No change in Montclair tax rate

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

For the fifth consecutive fiscal year, the City of Montclair set its property tax rate at $1.74 per $100 assessed valuation.

The Montclair City Council officially, and unanimously, set its tax rate for the 1977-78 year during its session Monday night. This rate was first set in the 1972-73 year. The action capped the months of budget meetings, deletions and additions to the new program of service within the city.

On June 30, the council approved a final budget of $6,776,244.

In recommending the adoption of the property rate, City Administrator Lauren Wasserman noted that it was in keeping with council philosophy to provide the highest level of service without any substantial increase in the tax rate.

In another matter, the council appointed eight persons to a new Citizens Participation Advisory Committee in order to meet new federal guidelines on the Community Development Block Grant Act.

Linda Alberico, Marc Cobb, James and Delia Cochran, Tom and Bonnie Deighan, Ed Hildebrand and Frank Perry were appointed by Mayor Harold Hayes with authorization from other council members.

The new committee's primary role will be to represent residents qualifying for the block grant program, a role previously fulfilled by the Community Action Committee. The new federal guideline requires the formation of a separate committee to deal with housing.

The committee members will also assist city staff in developing an outreach program for eligible residents; establish a priority list of projects and programs; make recommendations to city staff and council on objectives and resource allocation of funds for the 1978-79 Community Development Block Grant Program application; and develop a schedule of activities for the application period.

Lee McDougal, housing coordinator, reading from his written report, stated, "In summary, the intent of the appointment of a Citizens' Participation Advisory Committee is to insure the Community Development Act servicing community input on the programs that will be addressed through the grant."

No relief from heat in sight

Fill a glass with something over ice, find a shady spot if you can and try to keep cool.

There's no relief in sight yet, the weatherman says, from the sweltering heat or the smog.

National Weather Service forecast variable high cloudiness with chance of showers near the mountains and on the deserts. Highs today and Wednesday in Pomona-Walnut valleys are to remain in the mid 90's, with overnight lows near 70.

And, a first-stage smog alert was predicted for today.

A slight chance of showers was predicted for Pomona-Walnut valleys.

Hot and muggy, with eye-stinging smog. And that's the way it is.

Motorcyclist robbed by biker

A 20-year-old motorcyclist was confronted by six or seven other bikers and robbed early this morning on Mission Boulevard east of Central Avenue in the county area of Montclair, West End sheriff's deputies reported.

Deputies said that the motorcyclist was riding westbound on Mission Boulevard when six or seven other bikers he identified as being members of a motorcycle gang surrounded him.

The victim said that one of the bikers pulled a snub-nosed revolver out of his jacket and ordered him to pull into a vacant parking lot.

He also reported the motorcyclists demanded his cash. He complied and the robbers sped off westbound on Mission Boulevard.

The gunman was described as a white, with sandy, blond hair tied into a ponytail and a long beard. He was wearing a motorcycle club jacket and had the name "Spider" embroidered on the front.

DUANE MELLINGER, a 17-year veteran of the Montclair Fire Dept. and assistant chief since 1969, will take over as fire chief of the Central Valley Fire Protection District in the Fontana area on Aug. 22. His appointment has been confirmed by Robert Rigney, administrator of San Bernardino County's Environmental Improvement Agency.

'The Oakway Area'

San Dimas area battle brewing again

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Staff Writer

It's known at San Dimas City Hall as "The Oakway Area."

But residents refer to it variously as "Poverty Flats," "Tobacco Road" or "Poor White Trash Hollow."

For an area where some homes approach the $100,000 category and lots range from a fourth-acre to four and five acres, it can't be considered a ghetto.

But not is all quiet and calm in the hollow, reports city officials and sheriff's officers.

Under the aegis of City Manager Bob Poff and Sgt. Leonard Tyco, sheriff's community relations officer, an all-out effort was begun this week to bring warring factions in the neighborhood together before animosity escalates into something more serious.

So far, incidents have involved only name-calling, numerous protests to City Hall, dumping trash and garbage onto a resident's yard last New Year's Day, the slashing and puncturing of a child's basketball, and the subpoenaing of one resident whom the county health department has accused of sanitary violations involving his large chicken ranch.

One faction headed by Mrs. Pauline Ball, a long-time resident, charges the trouble lies with horseowners surrounding her property who do not maintain hygienic conditions which allows flies to breed. She is not a horse owner, but claims she is not against horses.

The other faction claims Mrs. Ball is ired because she can't sell her property for high-rise development since the area is now considered ripe for zoning as horse estates. This eliminates any high-rise development in the near future.

At City Hall, Planning Director Mark Goldberg said the whole problem boils down to a lack of understanding on both sides.

Poff said the squabble is not new, but has simmered for 20 years — long before the area was annexed by San Dimas.

Last week during a heated debate on a blanket zoning of the area into 16,000 square foot lots, both factions appeared in the council chambers to argue their sides.

After more than an hour of debate, councilmen followed Mayor Marvin Ersher's suggestion and delayed voting on the issue for two weeks.

Such a zoning ordinance would not force those with property under 16,000 square feet to move or increase the size of their property — an impossibility — but would give them the same rights as others in such a zone limited only by the number, if any, of animals such a property could maintain.

The day following the meeting, sheriff's deputies were sent to the area after egg rancher Neil Sheehan complained his child's basketball was returned by Mrs. Ball several hours after it bounced over her fence.

He said the ball was slashed and punctured when returned.

Mrs. Ball said she did return the basketball sometime after it fell into her yard, but denied damaging it.

Sheehan is scheduled to appear Aug. 17 in Pomona Municipal Court to answer health code charges involving his ranch. Among those subpoenaed to testify against him is Mrs. Ball.

Mrs. Ball said that as a result of flies in the neighborhood, her property has diminished in value from $85,000 to about $60,000; a condition which prevents her from selling and moving out.

Her daughter and family, who live next door, express similar feelings.

Mrs. Ball said that since manure is not controlled nor hauled off, it not only affects residents but also several hundred grade school children who eat lunch outside at nearby Arma J. Shull School. She said this creates a health hazard.

Horse owners Mrs. Joe LaRue and Mrs. Sal Macias said quite the opposite is true, with most horse owners maintaining regular cleanup and spraying programs to hold down the fly population.

Residents in Mrs. Ball's camp also claim the area has been allowed to deteriorate by City Hall. At last week's regular City Council meeting, councilmen ordered Ed Sneed to repair his abandoned cement block former egg storage building which now sits idle with broken windows.

Sneed charged that vandals damage the structure as soon as he repairs it. But councilmen ordered it be repaired or he would face legal action. Officials said this was a nuisance attractive to children.

The area in dispute lies north of Gladstone Street and south of Foothill Freeway, between Lone Hill and San Dimas avenues.

Poff and Sgt. Tyco hope their efforts can resolve the conflict. Residents believe a miracle is needed to remedy the situation.

Inflation spins its web

The most astonishing thing about inflation today is not that it is high or low, galloping or creeping.

It is that we seem to have come to accept inflation as a permanent and inevitable fact of life, and more and more are adjusting our lifestyles and workstyles to accommodate it.

Much of the current boom in new housing is attributed to young couples who are mortgaging themselves to the hilt in the thought that housing will never be "cheaper" but dollars will be.

The contracts of most major unions have long had automatic cost-of-living escalator clauses. Social Security recipients now enjoy the same "inflation insurance."

So does Congress — although its members are valiantly foregoing a scheduled cost-of-living supplement this year in favor of making do with a $12,900 increase in their basic salaries.

Now, if Congress passes an administration-proposed and labor-backed bill, the minimum wage will be "indexed" to the cost of living by being permanently pegged as a certain percentage of the average wage in manufacturing.

With each such step this country is institutionalizing inflation and weaving it more deeply into the social fabric.

With each such encouragement to the self-feeding aspects of inflation, Americans are forfeiting a little more control over their individual and collective destinies.

Insufficient postage

The 16,000 members of the National League of Postmasters are suing their boss, the U.S. Postal Service, to prevent the agency from making their salaries public.

The Postal Service has been releasing statewide lists of postmasters and their salaries to various newspapers, and this, the league contends, is a violation of the Privacy Act of 1974.

What the postmasters are really upset about, of course, is that people are discovering that their friendly local postmaster is very often a handsomely remunerated gentleman.

In small towns, especially, salaries on the order of $17,000 put the postmaster right up there with the president of the bank.

As the old saying goes, he who pays the piper calls the tune. In this case it is the American taxpayer and mail user who has every right to know what his public servants are earning.

The League of Postmasters' suit should be sent to the dead letter office.

Mother wears Army boots

One reason the volunteer Army may be resisting advice that it enlist more women to, ah, round out its ranks is their high casualty rate — on the field of love, that is.

In 1975, about 5.4 per cent of women in the U.S. Army were pregnant, a study by the Army found, and of these 40 per cent left the service after giving birth.

On the average, every pregnancy carried to term causes at least 105 days of lost time from the job, says the report. This impairs military efficiency and causes "personal turbulence."

Pending results of a new study, however, the Army has decided to continue its policy of allowing pregnant GIs to remain in the service if they wish.

A judge's dilemma

Dear Editor:

I recently received a shocking letter from Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Harry Peetris. He was pleading for mercy — mercy from California's current sentencing laws. You probably won't like what Judge Peetris said in his letter any more than I did . . . but I think you might be interested in reading it.

Judge Peetris told of a case which was recently heard in his court. The man was convicted of several brutal murders. The evidence was clear-cut. The man was criminally motivated, cold-blooded and completely without human compassion. So, what's the problem? The man obviously deserves the death penalty or at least life in prison without parole, right? What he deserves and what he gets under our current laws are two different things. Let's look at the details of this case:

This killer got started in 1966. His first victim was killed in his efforts to take over a prostitution business. The woman he killed was sitting in her living room. The killer placed a gun in her ear and pulled the trigger. Sitting on the couch witnessing this scene was the victim's 15-year-old son. Despite the boy's pleas for his life, the killer stuck a gun in the young man's ear and pulled the trigger. After all, the killer said later, he couldn't leave any eye witnesses. These two murders went unsolved for 10 years.

Up until 1971, the killer served time in prison for a parole violation. After he was released, he killed again. His victim was a cocaine dealer. Some people might think he did society a favor, but nonetheless he took another life.

Our enterprising killer thought he was becoming quite adept at his craft, so much so he decided to go professional. Now a hired killer, his fourth victim got the familiar gun in the ear. This time he fired three shots, but the woman somehow managed to live — even though she remained partially paralyzed and had to walk with a cane. Not wanting to jeopardize his professional standing, he returned two months later to finish the job. This time he fired the gun in her ear and in her eye. Then, just to be thorough, he fired at the back of her head and at her heart. The killer then jokingly said, "This time she's really dead." Somehow that's not funny to me!

Most people would agree that this cold-blooded killer should be put to death. Unfortunately, not enough legislators agree with the people. As a result of an 11th-hour bill passed last year, coupled with the Supreme Court's ruling against the death penalty, killers can now get off relatively easy. Let's look at what choices Judge Peetris faced in sentencing this professional killer.

The judge thought the proper punishment would be death. The court ruling against the death penalty came during the killer's trial. The Supreme Court said there was "no opportunity to consider mitigating circumstances!" So much for the sentence of death. The next lesser sentence would be life in prison without parole. That punishment is available for kidnapping for ransom with injury, trainwrecking with injury, and other similar crimes — but not for the crimes committed by this killer. So much for life in prison without parole.

The next lesser sentence would be to give consecutive sentences for each of the murders, to be served separately instead of running at the same time. In this case, the killer would not be eligible for parole for 35 years. Unfortunately, Section 669 of the Penal Code requires that all of the murder counts merge into one. As a result of our current laws in this case, this killer will be eligible for parole in five years and 10 months. Life is cheap in California!

Judge Peetris is frustrated and angry. He believes he can't impose a proper sentence, can't protect witnesses and can't protect society. Laws are what they are because the legislators choose to keep them as they are. Legislators are who they are because people elect them.

U.S. spy shenanigans

WASHINGTON — The James Bond industry has had its most embarrassing secrets broadcast from the rooftops. The beleaguered Central Intelligence Agency, for example, has received more publicity than government agencies that advertise. All this hoopla has brought acute distress to espionage officials who regard it sourly as "indecent exposure."

But now President Carter has assured us that the revelations are over and that the nation's intelligence operations have been fully aired. There are "no lingering, unresolved illegalities or improprieties," he declared, that remain uninvestigated.

The President, however, has overlooked the 7602 Air Intelligence Group at Ft. Belvoir, Va. Over the years, this obscure unit has conducted a bewildering number of cloak-and-dagger operations around the globe.

During the Indochina fighting, for example, the unit dispatched an intrepid, young major on a secret mission to Laos. The Pentagon had picked up disturbing reports that one of its favorite Laotian generals was a double agent, who posed as a right-wing militarist but was really a secret communist. There was the awkward possibility that he might be diverting his massive U.S. military shipments to the communist guerrillas.

The major's grim orders were to investigate the general and then kill him if the reports proved true. Dutifully, the undercover officer, though a married man with two children, courted the general's attractive daughter. The American spy and the Laotian beauty, inevitably, fell in love.

But the major, true to his trust, delivered a full, factual report to his superiors. He had learned from his romantic liaison that the general was totally corrupt. But there was no evidence that he was working for the communists. The honest officer also gave his bosses a frank report on his own romantic involvement.

The Air Force, taking a stern view of adultery if not murder, withdrew the major from the assignment and rushed over his wife and children to rehabilitate him. His mission was turned over to a replacement less susceptible to Laotian charms.

The confidential files also contain a report of another murder plot against a Loatian general. This general, too, was an Air Force favorite. According to the files, he would sneak down back trails, clogged with underbrush, from Laos to Thailand to provide the Air Force the latest intelligence.

But rival CIA spies somehow got the notion that the general wasn't true to the United States. Without bothering to inform his Air Force handlers, a CIA team ambushed the general on one of his visits but botched the assassination. The Air Force tenderly nursed the wounded general back to health at its Udorn base, but the aggrieved military men were unsuccessful in pressing charges against the CIA assassination team.

If U.S. authorities seemed unduly harsh on questionable generals, they pampered the loyal Laotian brass shamefully. The Air Force, for example, procured a large limousine for a Loatian mountaintop commander, who had a special fondness for big American cars. The luxurious limousine was deposited at the doorstep of his craggy sanctuary by a U.S. cargo helicopter.

W.I.F.E. spells "WIFE"

For breakfast the other morning — one of those most rare occasions when I have anything other than oatmeal — I had a cooked wheat cereal.

No recognizable name on this breakfast cereal.

It was not from a store-bought box.

It was from a plastic bag — straight from a Montana farm.

It cost less than a penny. It cost less then half a penny. It cost precisely three-tenths of one penny, is what it cost.

Because the farm wife who sent it to me charged me only what the wheat farmer is now getting for his product: $2.70 a bushel, 4 1/2 cents a pound — less than one-third of one cent per serving.

Mrs. Karen Mattson sent similar servings to some members of Congress. Her purpose is obvious.

America's farmers are too busy farming to call on their congressmen —or even to write. Their wives are taking on yet another chore. They have banded themselves together into an organization called W.I.F.E. Those letters stand for WOMEN INVOLVED IN FARM ECONOMICS.

They have seen the noisy minorities getting attention. They have watched their husbands grow prematurely old, working dark-to-dark for less than the national minimum wage. They figure it's time they make some noise.

Recently these wives of grain, beef and sheep farmers mobilized, have been on the attack.

A convoy of wheat farmers' wives trucked their crop to port purposely to protest increasing rail freight rates for their commodity. The women drove grain trucks, some as far as 1,500 miles.

The verdict is not in yet but the Interstate Commerce Commission was "impressed."

Farmers have been paying 70 cents a bushel to ship their grain from Joplin, Mont., to Portland, Ore.

Doing it themselves the grain was delivered for a fraction of that.

While other farm wives through this organization are seeking legislation or other relief for their cattlemen husbands and for each of several other crops, these wives of wheat farmers are getting attention to their near desperation situation by "spoon feeding congressmen" farm ground grain.

It now costs their husbands $4.33 a bushel to produce the wheat which they are having to sell for $2.70 a bushel!

But in-the-store cereal prices have not declined.

Should we arbitrarily increase wheat prices to $4.33 per bushel, it would cost the consumer only 15/100 of one cent per serving.

The average American consumes 112 pounds of cereal grain each year. If the farmers gave it away it would save consumers less than $5 a year!

William Jennings Bryan said it: "Burn down your cities and your cities will spring up again — but destroy our farms and grass will grow in the streets of every city."

Just in jest

The amazing wisdom and scintillating ad lib ability of TV sports announcers never ceases to amaze me. One member of that fast talking brotherhood was recently interviewing a major league baseball pitcher prior to the start of the game. His final comment regarding the possible outcome of the upcoming contest is typical of what it takes to become a successful sportscaster these days. — "If it turns out OK it will be OK," he pointed out profoundly.

But it isn't only the expertise of the sportscasters that has me shaking my head in amazed disbelief. Some of the utterances of our government experts also keep me in a state of almost perpetual confusion. One of the country's energy authorities, for instance, says we have enough oil and gas to meet our needs for at least another 50 years. Then along comes another authority who claims our energy sources are in such short supply that people may actually be walking instead of riding within 5 years. But then, why should we get all hot and bothered over all this sound and fury so obviously signifying nothing? After all it is a well known fact that in these days most everybody is talking and hardly anybody is listening.

Federal funds not that great

By EARL G. WATERS

Amid the great exclamations of joy which greeted the announcement of funding for $56 million in public works projects throughout the state, there is some anguish among state legislators.

The elation will be found among the 13,500 construction workers to be directly employed and another 40,000 workers who will find jobs as an indirect result of the program, according to Martin R. Glick, the state's Department of Employment director. Also clapping hands with glee over the prospects of receiving windfall projects, which might otherwise never have been undertaken, are the heads of various state and county agencies.

Altogether some 90 projects have been recommended for financing under the Federal Public Works Employment Act of 1977. Seemingly because of the funding they were selected more on the basis of the numbers which could be employed than on the priority of the projects over other needs.

It is that fact which causes the concern among the legislators. Having just concluded long months of budgetary reviews, which included screening nearly $100 million in capital outlay projects, they are now being confronted with seeing some which they rejected being undertaken anyway. Also some projects have been recommended by Glick which were never even submitted to the legislature.

While it is true the money for the projects will come from the federal government rather than out of state funds, "It is," as Assemblyman Mike Cullen, chairman of the Legislative Audit Committee observed, "going to cost California taxpayers $1.10 for every dollar going into the projects from this roundabout source."

"The point is," he said, "that regardless of where the money comes from, it should be used for those projects with the highest priorities and not frittered away on programs which the legislature would not have approved regardless of how much money we might have."

As an example he cited $2 million for a new adult prison in Imperial County and $1.3 million for a juvenile home in Lake County. "The legislature," he said, "considered requests for new prisons and rejected them."

Not only does such bypassing of the legislature enable the administration to build facilities not approved by it but it stands to commit the legislature to the expenditure of additional monies for something it didn't want in the first place. For a new prison cannot be built for $2 million but once undertaken it will be difficult for the legislature to refuse money at a later date for its completion.

Other projects recommended in the $56 million program may also raise questions once the first blush of prospective employment wears off. Among these might be the near $5 million recommended to rehabilitate residential rentals held by the state in Sacramento.

The properties were acquired as part of the State Capitol Complex with the intent to raze them to make way for new state office buildings. Pending actual construction the apartment dwellings were spared and rented by the state. Because of the freeze put on the capitol plan when Ronald Reagan became governor, the rental period strung out far beyond the time intended with the result the buildings have deteriorated. But the question now should be whether the state should continue in the rental business or dispose of the property or at least that which it now seems clear cannot be used for its intended purpose in the foreseeable future. That is a question which it now seems the legislature won't have the opportunity to consider.

Other expenditures point clearly to the disregard for priority of needs as in the case of the $425,000 allocated to solar heat a swimming pool at Long Beach State University. "Such things," the assemblyman observed; "make a shambles of our budgetary process."

Canine colic? Look at bowl

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our dog got a very mysterious stomach upset that wouldn't go away — not until I quit using a beautiful ceramic bowl I'd bought him. I've since found out that these bowls can have poison in the glaze, and that's why they can make dogs sick. Shouldn't you warn other dog owners not to use poison-glazed pottery dishes for their pets? — N.L.

DEAR N.L.: Since some glazed pottery contains dangerous chemicals which may leach into food or water, you're quite right. I should indeed warn pet owners concerning this hazard. In fact, I just did.

DEAR DR. MILLER: The sand in the bottom of my aquarium has accumulated a lot of junk on it, and I'm trying to figure the best way to clean it. A friend of mine said (with a straight face) she uses a vacuum cleaner to clean the bottom of her tank? She's got to be kidding, doesn't she? — J.O.

DEAR J.O.: There are good reasons for not using a standard, household-type vacuum cleaner in a fish tank. However, there are small battery-operated aquarium vacuum cleaners which are made for that specific purpose and do an effective housecleaning job on tank bottoms.

INFORMATION FOR THE BIRDS' DOCTOR

When taking your bird to its doctor, whether for just a general checkup or for an actual illness, bring its cage, too. Leave the cage uncleaned, including the papers on the floor. Dump out any water just before leaving, but leave the dish in the cage. Wrap a towel (or plastic, or what-have-you) around the cage to prevent drafts during the trip, but don't cover it tightly in hot weather. This cage will provide valuable information on the type and quality of food fed and approximate amount consumed in 24 hours, whether empty seed hulls are accumulating on the tops of seed cups, whether the water dish is washed daily, whether the type of cage is suitable in size and construction for the bird, whether there are too many (or the wrong kind of) perches or toys.

Droppings provide clues as to the amount and kind of food consumed and the general condition of the digestive and urinary tracts. Too, the cage could contain external parasites, mites in particular, and several free-floating feathers could point to plumage problems. The cage, then, is an important part of the examination. The veterinarian is deprived of much of this first-hand knowledge if the bird's brought in without it.

Don't overlook any chances to acquire additional knowledge in your chosen field this coming year. Anything you learn will be to your financial and personal advantage.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Financial maneuverings bring out the best in you today. You're extremely resourceful even if working with methods heretofore unfamiliar to you. Having trouble finding a career? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's paramount to your success to be secretive today. If you're doing something important, take no one into your confidence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The key to your attainment is a natural one for you today. Subdue your self-interests and advance the cause of others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22) Set aside your anxieties today. Accentuate the positive. You can accomplish whatever you want to by heeding this axiom.

SGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You function exceptionally well with a limited number of people today. You may lose your effectiveness if you take on too many assistants.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Set your sights on what you know is attainable today, not on what others think you can do. What you achieve could still be rather remarkable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Refrain from being critical of others today. Try to say what you feel will inspire them and lift their sagging spirits.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be willing to extend yourself if looking for reward for your labors. Forget about leaning on others. You don't need them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be a leader and manager of events today. Don't let them dictate to you. So long as you are up front, things will go your way.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Keep a low profile today while looking out for those under your wing. Let them think they're the masters of their own fate.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're exceptionally good today at heading up committees. There may be some slackers, but you'll know how to handle them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Pull out all the stops today if you're working to advance your career or make money. That's the only way you'll overcome the obstacles.

Nurses who look sexy panned

Dear Ann Landers: I am sorry you backed down and apologized to the nurses. Please, Ann, take back your apology:

I'm a 28-year-old male — and no sex maniac. Recently I was a hospital patient so I speak from experience. The young nurses did not look like bunnies. They looked like chorus girls. I refer to the ones who wore mini-skirt uniforms, and a lot of them did. When they stooped over the view was — well — as you say, "On a clear day you can see Catalina." It was even worse when they sat down.

Temptation is hard on a young male who is away from his wife for three weeks. So please, Ann, tell those nurses not to blame the patient if he gets a bit randy.

Nurses who want to be respected should strive to look professional and not sexy. Thank God for pantsuits. — G.M. of Santa Monica

Dear Santa: I'm not about to open up THAT can of worms again — but thanks for your letter.

Dear Ann Landers: In answer to Mrs. U.S.A. who wants to know how we can get families away from TV, let me say this:

It is better to have your husband home watching TV than to wonder if he is out with another woman, down at the bar getting drunk or at a gambling place losing his badly needed paycheck.

It is better to have your son at home in front of the boob tube than to wonder if he is out smoking dope, drunk behind the wheel of a car, committing vandalism or maybe even mugging and raping.

Your daughter can't get into too much trouble at home glued to the idiot box.

Two thousand years ago, a woman cut off John the Baptist's head and put it on a platter. Herod had a sword run through all male children under two years of age. An angry mob put a crown of thorns on Jesus' head and nailed him to a cross. None of them got the idea from watching TV. But of course you'll never print this. — I.M. Annoyed

Dear U.R. Annoyed: The networks will love you. Here's your letter.

Dear Ann Landers: In response to the letter from "$10,000 Worth of Woman:"

A person whose life is to be insured must sign an application for the coverage unless he or she is a minor or otherwise lacks the capacity to contract. Among other things, the signature of the insured signifies his or her consent to the insurance. A policy which is obtained on the life of another person without his or her knowledge or express consent is illegal, fraudulent and voidable.

A smart husband may be one who insures his wife, but if he surprises her with a policy a smart wife had better ask him (or the insurance company) how he managed to obtain it without her knowledge and consent. — Concerned Home Office Underwriter

Dear Concerned: I ckecked with several insurance companies in Chicago and was told your information is fundamentally correct; in fact, the insured person must not only sign the application but must be seen by the agent — even a minor.

However — and here's the loophole — a small insurance company might allow the husband to fill out the forms in advance (without paying for the policy) and present an UNSIGNED policy to his wife as a gift. The policy would be valid only if signed.

A dog is different, you know

I'm as crazy about dogs as the next person, but long ago I realized we had inherent differences.

(a) When I mistrust people, I do not bite them on the leg; (b) I cannot shed all over the sofa and still expect my hostess to be a good sport; and (c) Newspapers are meant to be absorbed . . . not absorbent.

If I have one major criticism of orthodox dog lovers, it would be their inability to view their pets as they really are . . . animals. I have noted dog enthusiasts, in particular, have a couple of catchy phrases that seem to be universal.

"He won't bite." This would be reassuring if it weren't for the fact that the dog is rigid, his teeth are bared, there is a guttural sound coming out of his throat and he has just pencilled a bull's eye on the calf of your leg.

"I am going to leave the room so that you and Killer can get to be friends." That's a phrase that hasn't popped up since they gave Daniel a plastic bone and put him in the lion's den.

"Oops, you're sitting in King's chair." You already suspected that when you sat down and King covered you with his 90-pound body.

"Is that Fritz smelling up the room?" This is awkward as the only other person beside the host is you and Fritz doesn't look like he is going to admit to anything.

"He won't hurt you. He's just (check one) teething, playful, needs attention." Which is exactly what I told my doctor. "He didn't hurt me. I'm just bleeding, hysterical and need stitches."

"Get down, Brute. She's not used to dogs tearing her stockings." (Could you throw in licking my toes and eating my fountain pen?)

I had one friend who always admonished, "Don't make any sudden moves as Flossie is high strung." Sudden moves included chewing gum, swallowing and breathing in and out. In the eyes of the owner, Flossie had become human.

It became quite apparent one evening when a policeman knocked on the door at the request of my friend. He told him that the police were going to have to do something about all the male dogs who were arriving by bus and trains from as far as 80 miles away to court Flossie. "They are nothing but sex maniacs," said my friend, "And I want them off my property or I will have all of them arrested."

I breathed a sign of relief when Flossie refused to sign the complaint.

Dr. Lamb

What your pulse rate means

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would appreciate it if you would send me a write-up on pulse rate. A friend of mine and a relative said their doctor told them they both had a slow pulse rate — 60 beats.

Can anything be done with a slow rate or is nothing really necessary? Are there any symptoms with slow rates?

DEAR READER — It depends entirely on what causes it. A slow heart rate is often a sign of a healthy heart. A vigorous well-trained athlete may have a resting heart rate below 40 per minute. In fact most well-conditioned men have rates below 60 beats per minute at rest. Since there are so few individuals who are really in a state of optimal fitness and who do not smoke or drink coffee we have become accustomed to thinking of higher heart rates — which are the norm for our not-so-fit society.

Roger Bannister had a resting heart rate in the 70s when he began training for the four minute mile. When he was properly conditioned and ready to break the world's record his resting heart rate was in the 30s. That gave him the reserve he needed to make that enormous physical effort.

Some medicines slow heart rates too — as a side effect. And then there are people who have heart block who have very slow heart rates. Those with this medical problem who have rates that fall too low will have inadequate blood flow to the brain. This can lead to mental confusion or loss of consciousness or even convulsions. This can be dangerous. These individuals require a pacemaker to prevent the heart from beating too slowly.

There you have it, on one hand our healthiest people may have a slow heart rate as a sign of health and at the other extreme it can be a sign of heart disease. A rate of 60 by itself, though, is not likely to be of clinical significance. To give you more information on heart rates I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-8, Your Heart Rate: What It Means. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78292.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can one lose weight in the face by exercising and dieting? What is the nose made up of (the outside)Y Is it fat or muscle?

DEAR READER — As most people who have lost weight will tell you the first place it shows is in the face. The last place is around the waist and the places most people would like to reduce.

The bridge of the nose is bone and the tip of the nose is cartilage. That is why the tip is soft. There are a few tiny muscles attached to the cartilage. They help when you want to give someone the dilated nostril or they can be used to pull in the opening of the tip. These muscles are very small.

The nose doesn't have any significant fat so weight loss in the face will not do much to your nose. The nose may become fat in a medical condition resulting in a large bulbous red vascular nose. In these instances the deformity that results may require surgery if it is to be corrected.

If you are thinking you can affect the character of your nose with diet and weight loss I am afraid that won't work.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

One of the worst bids in bridge is what we call the "Ostrich" bid. Traditionally, the ostrich feels that if he sticks his head in the sand no one can see him and nothing bad can happen to him.

North's pass to West's two spades is an example of this type bid at its worst. As he explained after his opponents had chalked up 300 points by setting the five-diamond contract two tricks, he had hoped that by passing he would not encourage West and East to bid game.

That reasoning is fallacious at best. If East and West have a game they are looking at their own cards, know they have it and will bid it.

If East and West don't have enough to bid beyond two spades they will stop there and make a part score while a more enterprising North would either have pushed them too high or watched his partner make a part score of his own.

This time if North had bid three diamonds, East would still have bid four spades and South might well have doubled. Otherwise, he would pass and set them one trick undoubled provided North did not go berserk and bid five diamonds after having bid three diamonds earlier.

Ask the Jacobys

Lightning rings broken doorbell

Am sure you know that serendipity is what you call it when you find some sort of good fortune unexpectedly while looking for something else. These examples are a matter of record: A bank messenger in Oakland, Md., dropped a sackful of 9,000 pennies on the street and recovered 9,002. Lightning struck a house in St. Louis, Mo., and the doorbell, which hadn't worked for a year, worked just fine thereafter. In Milwaukee, Wisc., a burglar was finally scared away from a home after opening a window that had been stuck tight for more than 15 years.

NISEI

Q. "Isn't 'Nisei' just another word for American-born Japanese?"

A. Not exactly. Nisei are American-born children of Japanese immigrants, but not grandchildren, great-grandchildren, so on. Incidentally, the Japanese immigrants themesIves are Issei. And if they're American-born but educated in Japan, they're called Kibei.

Q. "In the days of the knights in shining armor, what was the average weight of the armor?"

A. About 55 pounds, probably.

If that mother dog is nursing five pups, she needs three times her ordinary amount of food, please note.

TOO MANY BLONDES

Most of the women in The Netherlands, who have their hair colored, choose some shade of brown. A survey of beauty salons there indicates such. There's not just an abundance but an overabundance of natural blondes thereabouts, according to one Amsterdam hairdresser.

A Los Angeles street was roped off for a Shriners' parade. All cars were rerouted, except those with signs which read "Potentate" and "Past Potentate" and so on. Wouldn't you know a humorist might get into the act? Police blandly waved through a car labeled "Past Participle."

Nobody of Italian extraction should fail to note it was likewise an Italian who gave Thomas Jefferson that "all men are created equal" line. Philip Mazzei was the fellow. In 1773, working under the penname of "Furioso" for the Virginia Gazette, he wrote: "All men are by nature created free and independent . . . equal to each other in natural rights."

If you don't weigh about 40 times as much as your brain, you're just not average.

Rain stopped too soon for Dodgers

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

NEW YORK — The Dodgers didn't think Monday night's game with the Mets would be played because a hard rain was still falling when the team bus reached Shea Stadium an hour before the game.

When the Mets came back three times to tie and won the contest, 8-7, in 12 innings, they wished it hadn't.

The game started 29 minutes late and required three hours and 48 minutes to play.

"We got seven runs and it wasn't enough to win," lamented manager Tommy Lasorda.

Dodger hitters pounded 12 hits, but they were supplied by the first five batters in the lineup.

Davey Lopes and Reggie Smith had two each. Bill Russell had three. Ron Cey had four hits including a two-run home run and two-run triple and batted in five runs.

Steve Garvey hit his 25th home run following Cey's 21st. But the rest of the lineup went 0-for-18. Cey was coming back from a 13-for-80 draught since July 4.

If it wasn't for the official scorer, he would have also had a double and hit for the cycle.

The stocky third baseman also made the fielding play of the game for the Angelenos would have lost in 11 innings.

Davey Lopes' seventh homer had given the Dodgers a 7-6 lead in the top of the 11th.

With Mike Garman (4-2) on the mound, a hit batter (bitterly contested by the Dodgers), and two singles tied the score, 7-7.

Lee Mazzilli represented the winning run at third base and there was only one out.

Bruce Boisclair lifted a foul ball way down the third base line and Cey took off in pursuit. He caught ball running away from home plate and Mazzilli tagged up and sprinted for the plate. Cey whirled and threw to Steve Yeager to nip the sliding Mazzilli for an unusual double play.

"You have to go for the out in a situation like that," commented the Penguin. "You don't want to give the batter a second chance.

."I was fortunate to catch the ball because it was wet and muddy there. I planted my foot, turned and threw."

"I said to myself if he (Cey) catches it, that bleep of a bleep will try to score," said Lasorda. "He made a hell of a play."

Cey was sorry the Dodgers lost and unhappy with the scoring.

"I think it was a tacky call," he said. "If it was daytime, it would have been called a hit."

When a New York writer explained that Steve Henderson, the Mets' leftfielder, had called for the ball and then pulled up and let it fall between he and Mazzilli, Cey did not back off.

"It still would have been a hit in the daytime," he said. "There is a mixup in communications lots of times. You can't penalize guys for it."

In New York, unlike Dodger Stadium, you can and do.

Lasorda didn't like the call either. But he was more burned up by the call by home plate umpire Andy Olsen that Garman hit leadoff batter John Stearns.

"Garvey said Stearns told him (when he got to first base) that the pitch didn't hit him," said the irate Dodger manager.

The win went to Skip Lockwood (2-6) who was unhittable except for Lopes' homer in 5 and 2/3 innings. He gave up one other single (Russell), struck out seven and walked one and that was intentional.

Garman's ERA was 0.47 in 18 and 1/3 innings prior to Monday night. In fact, the Dodger bullpen had allowed only four earned runs in its last 28 innings for a 1.29 ERA prior to Monday night.

Don Sutton failed for the fifth straight time to win his 11th game. The Dodger ace hasn't won since July 4. In 5 and 2/3 innings against the Mets Monday night, he was battered for nine hits including a home run, a triple and two doubles while walking five and fanning two.

"Sutton was going with only three day's rest," offered Lasorda. It may have had a little effect on him."

Henderson liked Sutton's pitching. He hit a triple and his seventh homer while the Dodger ace was in the game.

It was impressive because Sutton had twice spun the youngster out of the batter's box in the first inning and then Henderson tripled.

DODGER DATA — Tommy John (11-4) and Jerry Koosman (8-10), two lefties, go at it tonight. Wednesday afternoon, it will be two more portsiders, Doug Rau (12-2) matches up with Jon Matlack (6-12).

Henderson Monday was named National League Player of the Week. He was 9-for-23 (.391) last week with eight runs batted in and seven scored.

Four of Henderson's nine hits were for extra bases, two doubles, a triple and a home run, as he led the Mets to five wins in six games played last week.

LIFE IN THE BIG APPLE — According to N.Y. Post columnist Paul Zimmerman, New York's bid for the 1984 Olympics is a giant ripoff. Zimmerman claims only New York and Los Angeles are interested in staging the '84 event.

Writing in the N.Y. Times, Murray Chass says, "The Yankees, instead of playing games, hold meetings. The owner meets with the manager, the manager meets with the players, the players meet with the owner.

"In meeting after meeting, the Yankees clear the air. They clear the air in the clubhouse and they clear the air in the hotel. They clear the air before games and they clear the air after games.

"They're supposed to be a baseball team, but they've cleared more air than a smog remover."

Both Don Gullett and Catfish Hunter are reported to have arm and shoulder problems and both will see, or have seen, Dr. Frank Jobe while the Yanks are in Anaheim to play the Angels.

It could only happen in New York City: Seen on the news on television was a two-minute film report showing people plagued by dog droppings all over the sidewalks using a device to pick up and clean up. Official name of the device, believe it or not, is a "Pooper-Scooper." Needless to say, it seemed to work super duper.

Goodwin bet paying off

ANAHEIM (AP) — In June 1975 the California Angels bet $100,000 that Danny Goodwin was the best amateur baseball player in the nation.

They may have lost the bet, but it wasn't a totally wasted investment.

Goodwin tripled home the winning run in the fifth inning, scored the third run and put a fourth run in scoring position in the seventh inning Monday night to lift the Angels to a 4-1 victory over the New York Yankees before a crowd of 34,852 at Anaheim Stadium.

Goodwin went into the game batting .196 and it appeared for awhile that the Angels' $100,000 bonus investment in him was bad money.

After signing as the No. 1 pick in the nation, Goodwin had developed a sore arm and become so erratic as a thrower he was seldom used as a catcher in the minors before being called up a month ago.

Frank Robinson, California's batting coach, thinks Goodwin has the best swing on the club. Goodwin's triple missed being a home run by about a foot.

"I didn't get as much wood on it as I wanted," said Goodwin. "I saw it hit the fence and then drop to the ground, so I kept running."

The triple scored Rance Mullinkis, who had reached base on an error by Chris Chambliss. It put the Angels ahead, 2-1, and proved to be the winning run.

Goodwin scored on a sacrifice fly by Terry Humphrey.

Ken Brett outdueled Catfish Hunter and picked up his third straight win on a six-hitter.

The Angels are winning a gamble with Brett, too, after neary having to write off their investment in him. Minutes before the trading deadline on June 15, the Angels sent $400,000 and pitchers Don Kirkwood and John Verhoeven to the Chicago White Sox for Brett.

He lost his first four decisions before turning it around with his current win streak.

Miami waives drug suspects

By The Associated Press

Randy Crowder and Don Reese, the Miami Dolphins linemen who were suspended last May when they were arrested on drug charges, have been placed on waivers.

The team responded Monday to an order by the National Football League's Player-Club Relations Committee that the two be traded, reinstated or waived.

Crowder and Reese were suspended after their arrests. They argued that their suspensions were unfair because they hadn't yet been proven guilty.

Any team that picks the players up would have to pay the Dolphins a third-round draft choice or work out some other mutually satisfactory compensation.

In other NFL training camps, the Dallas Cowboys reported that All-Pro offensive tackle Rayfield Wright had undergone surgery on his knee. Three incisions were made to free a constricted area that was pressing on a nerve.

Doctors said Wright would be out of action for at least two months. His convalescence, coupled with the retirement of veteran guard Blaine Nye, have been a major headache for the Cowboys.

At Green Bay, 11-year veteran offensive lineman Bob Hyland, the last active link to the Green Bay Packer championship teams of the Vince Lombardi era, was placed on waivers at his own request.

"Bob felt he wasn't making the progress that he felt he should be making and that we did," said Bart Starr, the team's coach and general manager who quarterbacked the Lombardi-coached Packers to three consecutive NFL championships in the mid 1960s.

The Packers signed guard Tom Lyons, a free agent who was released two weeks ago by the Denver Broncos, to replace Hyland.

In another development, the Packers announced the retirement of quarterback Don Milan, who has been plagued by injuries.

Brad Van Pelt, who'd played out the option year of his contract with the New York Giants, then reported nine days late for camp, agreed to terms with the club. Giants operations director Andy Robustelli said Van Pelt would play on a multiyear contract.

Ray White, a starter at middle linebacker last year, ended his dispute with the St. Louis Cardinals, signing a series of one-year contracts. The club also announced the signing of free agent punter Mike Wedman of the University of Colorado.

NBA free agents wait, hope

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association players are finding that free agency is not all it was cracked up to be.

Most of the 55 players who became free agents at the close of last season have discovered little interest in the marketplace for their talents. Only three have changed teams. Two signed with their old clubs. The rest sit and wait—anxiously, since training camp is barely more than a month away.

Larry Fleisher, executive director of the NBA Players Association, is not happy about this lack of movement and has raised the possibility of court action unless the situation improves.

"We're all concerned and unhappy," Fleisher said Monday. "I'm not certain where it's going to lead."

One place might be the courtroom of U.S. District Judge Robert L. Carter. He's the judge who approved the longterm agreement signed last year between the NBA and its Players Association.

Under that agreement, a player got the right to play out the final year of his contract and become a free agent, but through the 1980 season any team signing such a free agent must give his old team compensation. If the clubs can't agree on compensation, then Commissioner Larry O'Brien makes the decision.

The first free agent to change hands this winter was Len Robinson, the muscular young forward who went from Atlanta to New Orleans, signing a fouryear contract for a reported $1.6 million. The clubs have been unable to agree on compensation, but O'Brien has not yet made a ruling.

Would a decision by the commissioner on the Robinson compensation issue open up the free agent logjam?

"That works on the assumption that there is legitimacy on the part of the clubs," said Fleisher, "and that one of the reasons they're not signing players is that they don't know what kind of compensation they're going to have to pay. I'm not convinced that's the only reason they're not signing players. I think that's one of two reasons. The other is that they simply don't want to sign any players."

That is why Fleisher is considering legal action. He feels the agreement between the NBA and the Players Association, which had been hailed as a landmark among sports-labor pacts, is being violated.

Take the case of Bobby Dandridge, the forward who was Milwaukee's top scorer the past two years and has averaged between 18.4 points and 21.5 points per game in each of the past seven seasons. At the age of 30, with a number of good years left, Dandridge has been unable to sell his services for what he feels they are worth since becoming a free agent.

"Things just aren't working out the way they were supposed to," said Dandridge. "At first I thought I'd be with Washington. Now I don't care. I just want to get the thing worked out. It's disappointing to be in limbo."

To win a court case, however, Fleisher would have to show intent among NBA club owners to keep hands off free agents—in effect, to prove conspiracy.

"We would have to show that there is bad faith and that there is intent on the part of all the teams not to sign players," said Fleisher.

Does he think such a conspiracy exists?

"It would sure look that way, wouldn't it?" he replied. "I would think so."

Thinking it is one thing; proving it is something else.

"That's a very difficult thing to do," conceded Fleisher. "Particularly when you get a case like Bobby (Dandridge), who at least on the surface has received a couple of offers. You get into the problem of measuring how much he's worth. That's a tough line to draw."

Of the 55 free agents at the end of last season, Robinson went from Atlanta to New Orleans, Jamaal Wilkes moved from Golden State to Los Angeles and Glenn Hansen went from Kansas City to New Orleans. The Kings will receive a draft choice as compensation for Hansen, a reserve guard-forward. The case of Wilkes, a first-rate forward, is unresolved and may wind up before O'Brien.

Following are the 50 National Basketball Assocation players who had become free agents and remain unsigned:

Atlanta (3) — Randy Denton, Geoff Petrie, Claude Terry.

Kramer organizes tennis tournament

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The first Southern California Tennis Championships, carrying a purse of $100,000, will be played Sept. 16-26 at the Los Angeles Tennis Club, it was announced Monday.

The event moves into the time that had been used for the Pacific Southwest tournament, a Grand Prix circuit fixture that has been moved to late March and is now played indoors at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion.

Jack Kramer of the Southern California Tennis Assocation Association said in announcing the new tournament that Arthur Ashe, Stan Smith, Roscoe Tanner and Raul Ramirez had already signed entry forms.

Kramer said he hopes the event will be added to the Grand Prix circuit next year, and added that tournament officials want to move it at the same time from the 3,300-seat Los Angeles Tennis Club to the suburban Calabassas Park Tennis Club, which seats nearly double that.

Cotton Fitzsimmons named Braves coach

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Cotton Fitzsimmons has beaten out at least two other candidates for the head coaching position of the Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association.

Braves President Norm Sonju confirmed to the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle that the 45-year-old former coach of the Phoenix Suns and Atlanta Hawks had been selected for the NBA's only vacant head coaching position.

"We just need a few contract details completed," Sonju said. "We'll announce it soon, probably this week."

The newspaper reported that the former junior college coach from Moberly, Mo., was picked over ex-Milwaukee Bucks Coach Larry Costello and Braves Director of Player Personnel Bob MacKinnon.

Fitzsimmons, last year's director of player personnel for the Golden State Warriors, reportedly was offered a three-year, non-guaranteed contract, or a two-year, guaranteed contract with a two-year, non-guaranteed option.

"John Y. Brown (the Braves' owner) and I both felt strongly that we need a strong, agressive coach with a good courtside appearance," Sonju said. "We wanted someone who was strong on the X's and O's and who conducted organized workouts, but also someone who was exciting.

"We looked for someone in the mold of Bill Fitch, Kevin Loughery or Larry Brown. We think Cotton fits that mold."

Fitzsimmons had a 97-67 record with the Suns and a 140-180 showing in four seasons with Atlanta. He was conducting a basketball camp in Hannibal, Mo., Monday and was unavailable for comment.

Pro soccer now faces union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Johnny Kerr has played soccer in the United States since 1968 and believes the time is right for the players to organize in the union. The National Football League Players Association agrees with him.

Kerr, who toiled for the Cosmos, the Detroit Cougars and most recently for the Washington Diplomats, has been feeling out members of the North American Soccer League to find out if they are interested in becoming a member of the union.

Apparently they are. Some 265 of a minimum 306 have signed authorization cards permitting the NFL players Association to be their representative in talks with management on wages, hours and working conditions.

A meeting of player representatives of the 18 teams and alternates, soon to be elected, will be held in Washington on Aug. 29.

Kerr gave a personal recollection as an example for the need of a union.

He said in 1969-70 season he was fined $15 by the then Washington Darts because he and several other players refused to practice in the rain when, he said, there were no shower facilities available near the playing field.

"I was only a semi-pro at the time and we were practicing three or four times a week," said Kerr, who has been spearheading the organization of the union. "I complained about the lack of facilities, but to no avail. When the coach fined me, the only recourse I had was to appeal to the general manager who backed the coach.

"Then the only thing I could do was go to the commissioner," he said. "Naturally he backed the team."

Typical of the comments by the other players in the league was one by Alan Merrick, team captain of Minnesota Kicks who is quoted as saying the issue is not the club but the players' position in the league.

"The standard contract in the NASL is one-sided for the club," said Merrick. "If (Kick's Coach) Freddy Goodwin decided he didn't want me, I could be terminated tomorrow without further pay."

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, said he was amazed at the response the union had received from the players in the soccer league.

"We needed only 30 per cent or 100 players in order to force an election if necessary," he said, "to our amazement, over two-thirds responded favorably."

TENNIS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Topseeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina came from behind to post a 1-6, 6-0, 6-1 victory over second-seeded Eddie Dibbs in the finals of the $125,000 Louisville International Tennis Classic.

Vilas could do little right in the opening set, but was almost flawless thereafter. The 24year-old Vilas, who won his third title here in four years, suffered a service break in the opening game of the match. Dibbs, a 5-foot-7 battler from Miami Beach, Fla. made quick work of the Argentinian for the rest of the set.

In the third set, Dibbs held his first serve, but the relentless Vilas ripped a bushel of passing shots in winning the final six games and the match. Vilas collected $20,000 for his victory while Dibbs picked up $10,000.

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. — Defending champion Jimmy Connors defeated Jim Delaney of Potomac, Md. 6-3, 6-3 in the first round of a $125,000 international tennis tournament.

Connors withstood a last-minute challenge by Delaney, just as a thunderstorm began to drench the red clay court.

No. 10 seed Bob Lutz won easily over Jan Norbac of Sweden 6-0, 6-1 and fifth-seeded Harold Solomon defeated Wilhelm Trinsloo of South Africa, 6-1, 6-2.

BARCELONA — Corado Barazzutti beat Manuel Orantes 7-5, 7-5, 6-1 to give Italy a 3-2 victory over Spain in their European B zone finals of the Davis Cup tennis tournament.

Italy will meet France in the European inter-zone finals next month.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. — John McEnroe, the 18-year-old who shocked the tennis world last month with sensational play at Wimbledon, continued his hot streak by defeating Bruce Nichols 6-3, 6-0 in firstround action at an $85,000 tennis tournament.

BOWLING

DAVENPORT, Iowa — Mike Berlin of nearby Muscatine, Iowa, captured his third Professional Bowlers Association title with a runaway 237-pin victory over Tommy Hudson in the $60,000 Quad Cities Open at Plaza Bowl North.

The victory enabled Berlin, 33, to join Mark Roth with four victories and Hudson with three victories as the only multiple winners on the tour this year.

The $6,000 first prize boosted Berlin's earnings for the year to $40,515 and moved him from seventh to fifth on the money list.

He finished with a match play record of 18-6, the best of the 24 finalists, and a 42-game pinfall of 9,722. Hudson finished with 9,485.

Elks win marathon contest

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Baseball fans at Ralph Welch Park Monday night saw the Elks (National No. 1) squad defeat the Pomona Police (American No. 2) 10-6 in 11 innings to conclude a wild night of Little League baseball which also featured a donnybrook on the Northeast diamond.

The Elks scored four times in the 11th to wrap up a four hour and 40 minute contest which began at 7:30 p.m. The final out was recorded at 12:08 a.m. on a strikeout.

There were three other games played in the Pomona City Senior Division Tournament Monday night along with the Elks-Pomona Police contest. Straw Hat Pizza (American No. 1) picked up a six inning 9-0 victory over the Northwest Dodgers and will meet the Elks squad Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the winners bracket.

In the losers bracket, Taco Rita defeated Ted Greene's No. 1 squad, 2-1, and the Southwest D.A.V's defeated the Northwest A's, 5-3. Taco Rita (Southwest No. 2) will meet the Northwest Dodgers tonight in a 6:30 p.m. contest. The Pomona Police face the D.A.V squad at 6:30 on the Southwest diamond.

Chuck Mikel rapped a single with the bases loaded to break up a 6-6 deadlock in the 11th. He was credited with two RBI. Before the Pomona Police could retire the Elks' batters four runs had crossed the plate. The Elks had loaded the bases on two walks and a bunt single by Mike Johnson.

The Elks had led 6-2 entering the sixth frame when the Pomona Police scored three times to cut the National squad's lead to 6-5. A Don Williamson base hit in the seventh sent the game into overtime at 6-6.

Robbie Kato had three hits in five at bats for the Pomona Police as they stranded 14 base runners in 11 innings. They missed opportunities to win the contest in both the eighth and ninth stanzas. A total of 23 base runners were stranded as the Elks left nine men on base.

The Falgout brothers (Lloyd and Sean) led Straw Hat Pizza to its 9-0 win. The game ended in the sixth when a king size brawl broke out.

John Dennis was the hero in the D.A.V.'s victory with a three-run double in the sixth as Stan Conley struck out 11 Northwest A's in recording the win.

AL opens sectional

SAN BERNARDINO—The Section 6 Little League Tournament gets under way tonight at the L.L. Western Regional Headquarters, with Alta Loma (the District 21 champs) slated to meet Northview of Covina (the District 19 titlist).

Tonight's contest and the other three tilts in the tourney will start at 7 p.m. at the Regional Headquarters diamond. Alta Loma is expected to start Chris Spiker, who won two games in District competition, on the hill tonight.

Wednesday night's game pits Chino National (the District 23 champion) vs. Bassett (the District 60 champ). After an off-day Thursday, Pomona American (the District 20 titlist) will meet the winner of tonight's Alta Loma-Northview game on Friday.

The Sectional finale is slated to go Saturday night.

Local golfer wins

CALABASAS — Andy Koppel of Upland fired a one-under par 71 Monday to win the seventh tournament on the Western Amateur Golf Association summer tour.

Koppel, 20, a student at Cal Poly Pomona, birdied the 18th hole to win by one stroke over seven other golfers in the field of 122.

Koppel, who shot a 36-35 for his 71 round, recorded three birdies and 12 pars on the Calabasas Park course. It was his first triumph in the Western Amateur summer tour.

There are four tourneys remaining on the tour.

Tied at 72 Monday were Matt Ellison, Ventura; Alex Petric, Vista; Bill Viele, Hemet; Gary Backlund, Calabasas; Tom Gorrell, Long Beach; and Dave Stanley, Bakersfield.

In a playoff, Ellison finished second, Petric third.

Superintendent's pay raise approved

The Pomona school board has approved a 6 per cent pay hike for Supt. Charles Carpenter, increasing his annual salary from $40,000 to $42,400.

The raise was given as a personnel item during a recent budget study session. Carpenter became superintendent a year ago. The raise was effective Monday.

The increase makes the superintendent's salary competitive with those salaries in other school districts in Los Angeles County.

These include the Hacienda La Puente Unified School District, $42,000 last year; Palos Verdes Unified School District, $46,000; Charter Oak School District, $40,000; Los Angeles City School District, $58,000; Beverly Hills School District, $52,000; and Glendale School District, $49,000.

Children's films to be shown

Three free children's films will be shown Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. at the San Dimas library.

The films are "Granny Lives in Galway," "Morris the Midget Moose," and "Parade of Bugs." The library is located at 145 N. Walnut Ave.

Display of prostheses planned

A display of prostheses for women who have had mastectomies is planned at the Pomona office of the American Cancer Society on Thursday.

A volunteer from Reach-to-Recovery will be present from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to discuss the items on display.

The Pomona office is at 111 W. Center St.

ALL IT TOOK TO GET REAL TASTE IN A LOW 'TAR' WAS TEN YEARS, A FEW GOOD MEN AND STUBBORNNESS BEYOND BELIEF.

In Decade we've accomplished something that many thought impossible: delivering real cigarette taste with only 5 mg. of tobacco 'tar.'

Of course, like all things worthwhile, it wasn't easy. The final ecstatic shout of, "Eureka, we did it!" was a long time coming —ten years, in fact. But when you succeed in doing the impossible, who counts the years?

The Decade "Total System"

How were we able to keep the taste in a low 'tar' when so many others have failed? Mainly by developing our unique "Total System" in which every part of a Decade cigarette is arranged in perfect balance with each other. The tobacco, the filter, and even the paper. Only by concentrating on these parts were we able to perfect the whole.

The Tobacco. "Flavor Packing",™ plus fifteen tobaccos boost taste.

Take the tobacco, for example. Its taste is boosted by a very unique method called "Flavor Packing" which allows us to concentrate a special patented tobacco flavorant in each Decade cigarette.

The Filter. Unique "Taste Channel" gives first puff impact.

Our filtration process is also unique. Simply, we've created a "Taste Channel" within the filter to give you that first puff impact you've come to expect from only the higher 'tar' cigarettes.

The Paper. High porosity paper controls burn rate.

Even our high porosity paper is specifically designed to give an efficient burn rate that delivers optimum taste with a minimum of 'tar.'

The result. A completely new kind of low 'tar' cigarette.

So try a pack for yourself. Regular or Menthol. And who knows, after you smoke your first Decade, you may shout "Eureka" too.

PATHS OF EARTH AND COMET TRAIL

Get up early next week!

NEW YORK (AP) — The planet Earth, on its journey around the sun, is plowing through a swarm of gravel and other space junk left behind by a comet. The result is about to be seen by earthlings everywhere.

The phenomenon is called a meteor shower, but some will see UFOs.

Romantics will see "shooting stars" in one of the most beautiful light shows nature has to offer.

Astronomers and physicists will observe the ice, gravel and dust that burn before they can touch the planet.

"It's just like Old Faithful," says Dr. Kenneth Franklin, astronomer of the Hayden Planeterium here.

The rain of fiery debris — known as the Perseid Meteor Shower — becomes most visible the same time each year, from after midnight until just before dawn on August 11, 12 and 13.

It is called Perseid because the meteors, about 50 every hour, seem to be streaming from the constellation Perseus. The space debris rides along the orbit of the Temple-Swift Comet, which last passed the Earth in 1967.

The comet headed around the sun and then back into the far reaches of our solar system. If it returns at all, Temple-Swift won't be back until 2072.

"It's a fairly defunct comet," says Franklin. "It might never return."

But in previous trips around the sun, Temple-Swift left chunks of ice and gravel in its orbital path, which crosses the orbit of the Earth. Other comets have done the same thing, creating several meteor showers each year. Some are remembered for their irregular but spectacular shows of light. Others, like the Perseid, are known more for their regularity.

Franklin says observatories and planeteriums frequently receive calls about UFOs directly after meteor showers.

"To the person who doesn't expect the meteor shower, it might seem scary," says Sten Odenwald, a graduate student worker at the Harvard College Observatory in Massachusetts. "... you'll see some lights flaring up and then dying, like stars exploding."

But Odenwald also observes, "It will be great for romantics, just lovely. I plan to watch the shower from Yosemite National Park." He says the best place to watch the shower is outside any city limits.

This year's Perseid promises to be a good show. There will be no moon, which means that light from the meteors will have little competition. For those who stay up to watch the whole show, there will be an added attraction near dawn. The brightest planet, Venus, and the brightest star, Sirius, will be shining in the sky with two lesser but still impressive bodies — Jupiter and Mars.

Franklin says that some scientists will be watching the meteor shower to collect data on the atmosphere. They also might do spectroscopic analyses to monitor the chemical composition of the debris. None of it is likely to reach the Earth because the gravel and ice are in small chunks that burn or melt in the upper atmosphere.

Carter asks liberalized marijuana laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter called today for the elimination of all federal criminal penalties for the possession of up to one ounce of marijuana.

But the President said in a message to Congress and an accompanying "fact sheet" that trafficking in marijuana should remain "a serious, federal criminal offense."

He called for tougher enforcement of federal laws regulating narcotics and ordered Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell to intensify investigations of links between organized crime and drug traffic.

But, in a section dealing with marijuana, the President said:

"Penalties against possession of a drug should not be more damaging to an individual than the use of the drug itself; and where they are, they should be changed."

He said it was time to implement the recommendations of the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, which concluded five years ago that marijuana use should be decriminalized.

"Therefore, I support legislation amending federal law to eliminate all federal criminal penalties for the possession of up to one ounce of marijuana," he said.

Carter asked the Justice Department to study, with the State and Treasury departments, the possibility of revoking passports of known major drug dealers and freezing the assets they have accumulated in illegal drug trading.

He asked Bell to look into proposals that would deny pretrial release to certain persons charged with drug dealings.

He also asked Bell to look into the adequacy of existing penalties for major drug offenses.

Kaiser to shut 3 plants here

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Kaiser Steel in Fontana will shut down three of its 11 rolling mills in the late fall, company officials announced Monday.

Three-hundred employes who work in the three mills may lose their jobs, one official said — however attempts will be made to place them elsewhere in the plant.

"We will make every effort to place the employes within the plant," said Joseph Clark, company spokesman. "If there are layoffs, we have agreements with the union to proceed on the basis of seniority."

The decision to shut down the three mills was made "reluctantly and only after careful study of all the economics of these particular mills and their relationship to overall operation of Kaiser Steel," said Mark T. Anthony, president and chief executive officer.

Clark noted the firm has been "as specific as we can be at this point," in regards to the exact date when the mills will close down. "All we can say now is late fall."

The three mills — a blooming mill, a structural mill and a merchant mill — had been "marginal operations" in the past, according to Anthony.

"However," he added in a press release,"the continuing flood of low-priced foreign steel into the western steel market has made it impossible for us to recover the greatly increased costs of labor and material and it has become impracticable for us to continue to operate them at all."

The three mills roll steel ingots into thinner shapes for use in various steel products, Clark explained.

He added that Kaiser has no intention at this time of reopening the mills once they are closed. "It would be a remote possibility that economic conditions would change so drastically that they could be reopened.

Dad rams daughter's car headon

A 38-year-old Montclair man arrested Monday afternoon is accused of ramming his car into another car headon and beating a teen-age girl, Montclair police reported.

Injured in the incident were Dianna K. Lee, 18, of Montclair and Rita Montano, 16, of Montclair, who was injured in the collision.

Both girls were undergoing treatment for their injuries at Kaiser's Fontana hospital this morning.

Booked in the West End jail for investigation of two counts of attempted murder is Joseph Henry Montano, the father of the 16-year-old girl. Bail for Montano was set at $25,000.

Montclair police said that the suspect, driving his car eastbound on Orchard Avenue, saw his ex-wife's car driven by his daughter coming in the opposite direction.

Police said the suspect swerved his vehicle and crashed headon into the other vehicle containing the two teen-agers.

Officers said the suspect then allegedly leaped from his car, pulled the Lee girl out of the other damaged car and beat her.

Witnesses told officers that the suspect suddenly stopped and fled.

Officers were able to arrest the suspect in the area minutes later.

S.B. Supervisors hike own pay 8%

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

San Bernardino County supervisors have repeatedly said they would rather not raise their own salaries.

But after discussing the matter during the past several months, supervisors Monday voted unanimously for an 8 per cent pay raise now and the possibility of more next January.

Supervisors, who have come under attack from angry taxpayers during discussions on pay raises for elected officials, decided a Grand Jury recommendation to increase supervisors' salaries by 8 per cent to $24,844 was justified.

They postponed a decision on a more controversial Grand Jury suggestion that supervisors be paid at the same level as the average paid supervisors in five other Southern California counties.

That matter and the issue of an additional cost-of-living raised to be based on the five county average will be discussed by supervisors next January.

The supervisors' salaries has been a controversial issue since board members voted themselves a 39.4 per cent pay raise last year. But following numerous taxpayers' protests, supervisors later rescinded that action.

Supervisors this year had the county Grand Jury investigate the issue and present recommendations how pay raises should be determined.

Following the Grand Jury report, numerous citizens and taxpayer groups criticized the suggestions regarding supervisors' salaries. Many suggested the issue be placed on a ballot so county residents could vote on pay raises for their representatives.

Some arguments were heard Monday, although most persons testifying favored supervisors getting the 8 per cent per cent raise.

Jim Ferguson, representing the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association, spoke in favor of the 8 per cent boost. But he opposed using other counties to set the salaries of San Bernardino County officials.

"We whole-heartedly endorse your obtaining an 8 per cent pay raise, but please limit it to that," he pleaded.

Jack Carnine, an Ontario resident and school official, disagreed. He said supervisors were entitled to be paid more that the 8 per cent. "It's a nominal salary increase, they (the supervisors) deserve more."

Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino said it was a difficult position for supervisors to vote their own salaries. He suggested the Grand Jury be asked to investigate the matter further so perhaps another method of setting salaries could be found.

Supervisor James Mayfield of Apple Valley asked for a resolution which seeks to repeal laws that almost forces local officials to set their own salaries. He said another governmental agency should be responsible for setting supervisors' salaries.

Townsend and Supervisor Joe Kamansky of Upland refused to support Mayfield's motion, and it was defeated by a 2-2 vote.

Kamansky, who voted for the 8 per cent raise and indicated support for a further cost-of-living raise, said he believed the $24,844 salary schedule was fair.

"In my West Valley area, they've accepted the fact I have worked long and hard in this job, and so have my fellow supervisors."

He agreed with Townsend that it was premature to seek a state law change until the Grand Jury has investigated the matter further.

Supervisor Dennis Hansberger of Yucaipa said he didn't like the idea of setting his own salary and wanted to see the law changed.

Supervisor Robert Hammock of San Bernardino was absent.

Warn of steel imports

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — The American steel market may be flooded with foreign steel because ore stockpiles will be exhausted if the strike by Midwestern iron ore workers lasts beyond four months.

"Anybody who's got steel to be delivered in the short run is going to get it and get it on time, (but) if this thing goes on for awhile, the long-term effect will be devastating," said one analyst in Pittsburgh.

'..If our mills are forced to shut down for lack of ore, imports will flood us because the whole world steel industry is flat on its face, and they're just looking for a market."

FBI breaks up $500,000 magnate kidnap plot

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Park Police officer and his brother were arrested today on a federal charge of conspiring to kidnap the board chairman of the Marriott Corp., J. Willard Marriott, or his wife.

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley announced that agents arrested Paul Dwain Shepherd of White Plains, Md., an 18-year veteran of the Park Police, and his brother Billy R. Shepherd, of Owings, Md.

The Shepherds allegedly planned to kidnap Marriott or his wife from their Washington home at midmorning today and demand $500,000 ransom from the Marriott family.

Marriott runs the corporation which operates a chain of hotels and restaurants.

The FBI said Paul Shepherd had outlined the alleged kidnap plot to an undercover FBI agent on several occasions. The undercover agent had pretended to have some interest in participating in the plot, the FBI said.

At one meeting, Paul Shepherd gave the undercover agent a park police uniform, a gun and a personal check for $24,000 "to show his, Shepherd's, sincerity and dedication to follow through with the kidnaping plan," the FBI said.

Paul Shepherd was arrested in the Superior Court for the District of Columbia when he reported for work there. He had been assigned to liaison duties between the court and the Park Police.

Billy Shepherd was arrested in Maryland. The FBI said Billy is an employe of the Calvert County School system.

The Shepherds were to be arraigned before a federal magistrate later today.

Younger, lawmen differ on gang influence

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of five articles detailing criminal activities of two California prison gangs, inside and outside prison walls.

Investigators from the office of state Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger do not think ex-convicts are primarily responsible for the increase in valley drug trafficking and street crime, primarily in Chino.

Valley law enforcement authorities think quite differently.

The attorney general's investigation reported that, "The primary source of this activity is the Chino Sinners gang. This is a long-established, local group comprised primarily of Chino natives.

"Although many older members have been in prison, it is not believed that their criminal activities are either directed by, or closely connected with, the major prison gangs, La Nuestra Familia (NF) or the Mexican Mafia (Eme) or prison drug traffic."

Younger said the investigation by his office had been requested by Sen. Ruben S. Ayala, D-Chino, a short time after May 17, 1976, when two members of an anti-vandalism patrol were gunned down in the courtyard of Our Lady of Guadalupe Church in Chino.

Younger said his investigators contacted city and county law enforcement agencies, the Department of Corrections, security and parole officers, local citizens and various other informational sources.

Much publicized U2 pilot killed in helicopter crash

'FRANK' POWERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A police official said today that Francis Gary Powers, who lived through the Cold War downing of his U2 spy plane, may have purposely plunged his helicopter into the ground Monday to avoid hitting boys playing softball.

Sgt. Dennis Ruegsegger, head of the command post set up after the crash which claimed the life of Powers and his cameraman, said it appeared Powers decided to crash rather than take a chance on hitting the boys trying to glide to a landing after running out of fuel.

"His flight direction was directly in line with the field where the boys were playing," Ruegsegger said. "He fell down about 50 yards from where the boys were, and I think he purposely nosed it down."

Ruegsegger said it appeared that Powers, who learned to fly a helicopter less than a year ago, committed the "unforgiveable sin" of running out of gas.

"We found no evidence of fuel on board, and the craft didn't burn. So from all appearances it would seem he ran out of gas. That's the unforgiveable pilot error."

Details of precisely what happened were thought to be on a tape recording which was in the aircraft when it crashed about noon Monday. KNBC officials said today the tape was absolutely blank and has been offered to the FAA.

Powers, 47, and cameraman George Spears, 43, were killed when KNBC's equipment-laden Bell Jet Ranger chopper plunged into a vacant baseball field while returning from videotaping a brushfire in Santa Barbara.

The stocky, softspoken Powers created an international furor in 1960 when his high-altitude reconnaisance plane was brought down by a surface-to-air missile some 1,200 miles inside the Soviet Union.

The incident, which exposed the CIA practice of spy flights over Russia, caused the collapse of a Big Four summit conference in Paris and cancellation of President Eisenhower's planned trip to Moscow.

Powers spent 21 months in prison before being exchanged in 1962 for Col. Rudolph Abel, the master Soviet spy arrested in New York. He said on his return to the United States that he experienced "a wave of condemnation" for neither destroying the U2 nor killing himself with a poison needle given him before the flight.

Powers, a civilian under contract to the CIA, later said he had been unable to reach the buttons connected to the plane's self-destruct system and that he had been told using the needle was his own choice. He was cleared by a CIA board of inquiry, which found he had lived up to "his obligations as an American under the circumstances in which he found himself."

Only one SoCal blaze still unchecked

By The Associated Press

With one fire controlled and another contained, fire fighters were focusing their attention today on the one remaining unchecked major brush blaze in Southern California — a 1,000 acre blaze near Santa Barbara.

A fire that destroyed 5,500 acres near Corona was controlled Monday by some 500 workers on the line, and a 50 acre blaze in rugged, nearly inaccessible Los Padres Forest terrain was reported contained as night fell.

The Corona fire started from an illegal campfire last Thursday and flames twice forced evacuation of several hundred people when the fire practically knocked on their back doors.

The 50-acre fire in Los Padres National Forest near Camuesa Peak, about eight miles north of last week's disastrous Santa Barbara fire, erupted after lightning struck the dense brush during a thunderstorm Sunday night. U.S. Forest Service spokesmen said fire retardant dropped by aerial tankers was apparently holding the fire.

It broke out while fire fighters were struggling against another fire in the Los Padres National Forest that had blackened 1,000 acres by Monday night and was still burning out of control.

33,000-acre fire near S.F. out of control

CLAYTON (AP) — Firefighters have "no hopes of containment" of a 33,000-acre timber and brush fire raging here today until the flames run their course through rural areas south of nearby Mt. Diablo.

"It's making some real runs," said Harry Harp, California Department of Forestry. "We have no hopes of containment until the south side burns through the brush and begins to hit roads."

The blaze was sparked by lightning Monday afternoon and soon spread from Mt. Diablo State Park, about 35 miles east of San Francisco, to rural ranch country. Some 50 homes near Clayton were evacuated early today, Harp said. No injuries or structural damages were reported immediately, but flames were reported lapping within 25 yards of homes.

Planes were expected to fight the fire from the air today.

Younger and gang influence...

Since this report, however, other sources have indicated that at least two different task forces, one from San Bernardino County and another from the Department of Corrections, have visited valley cities collecting information on a series of murders, shootings and stabbings that all seem linked to either the NF or the Eme.

In addition, in the wake of at least five murders, Los Angeles City Council members have requested police and Grand Jury investigations of the East Los Angeles Get-Going halfway house for ex-convict drug addicts believed to have been controlled by the Eme.

That investigation is continuing, as is the investigation of at least four valley murders believed connected with prison gang activity.

What are the thoughts of valley police investigators regarding prison gang influence on valley street gangs such as the Chino Sinners, the 12th Street Gang of Pomona and the Black Angels of Ontario?

Capt. Louis Moreno of the Chino Police Department says, "La Nuestra Familia and the Mexican Mafia were created in the joints by street people to take over the narcotic activity, or anything that is illegal, in the joints.

"Now they have almost total support in the prison system. In fact, in my opinion, the gangs have taken over the prison system.

"They control everything that goes in and everything that comes out. Who is going to get killed, stabbed or shanked. They're powerful organizations."

But what's happening in the valley, Moreno says, "is that people in the streets, who are nobodies trying to be somebodies, whenever they get busted and go into the joints, they make themselves a name, either through the Mafia or the Family.

"They become somebody. They become either powerful people or get one hell of a reputation."

Moreno told of one Chino "nobody" sent to prison in a "lightweight" situation. But once inside, he shanked and killed a man on a contract involving either the NF or the Eme.

"We took him to court, but lost on a technicality. The guy served four more months and then came back to Chino," Moreno said.

"He became a tremendous influence. I think that's what made our Chino Sinners and other groups so powerful. This guy became a major influence to people in their early 20s and younger, who looked up to him as some sort of hero.

"Just after that," Moreno continued, "we saw an influx of people going to the joint who were immediately tagged either NF or Eme.

"We have always said in law enforcement that the prison system was having a hell of an effect, not only on the local communities, but on other communities in the state as well. We have said that either one or the other prison gang is taking over major crimes in the streets."

Chino police detective Dave DeLeon, designated by the court as an expert on the Chino Sinners street gang, said, "They have had a great influence due to the fact that some of the members in the NF were in the Chino Sinners while they were growing up.

"And, because of the NF organizational structure, the job of the soldier (El Soldado) when he gets out of prison is to go back and recruit additional soldiers. For this, he goes back to the gang members he is familiar with."

DeLeon said that during several of his investigations into valley slayings, informants revealed that certain individuals — past or present members of the Chino Sinners — had contact with the NF. Tactics used in slayings in Chino are similar to those used by the NF in slayings throughout the state, DeLeon said.

He said prison gangs control or attempt to control major narcotics traffic in all major California cities. "Here in Chino they have taken over most of the drug traffic and they also have infiltrated the Chino Sinners to the point now that you have some type of organization within the gang. They have been organized."

He said there have been some parents of Chino Sinners members actively involved in applying political pressure at community meetings, "so the Sinners might be given a different image, instead of the gang they are."

Pomona police detective Larry Zambrano, who works in vice and narcotics squads, said, "We can substantiate that the Eme and the NF do have moderate amounts of influence on the Pomona street gangs, such as the 12th Street Gang and the Cherryville Gang.

"It's no secret that the prison gangs are trying . . . not only trying, but have controlled to some degree . . . the narcotics trafficking and the receiving of stolen property, particularly guns, which are valuable to the organizations," said Zambrano. "They are heavy receivers in stolen property."

Detective Gordon Roberts of the Ontario Police Department indicated that youth gangs, such as the Black Angels in Ontario, may have contact with the prison gang members through their parents, some of whom have spent time in state prisons and become members.

"They respect these people for whatever reasons, and will follow in their footsteps because they idolize them," said Roberts.

He said prison gang members often will not become involved in petty theft and burglaries in the communities, yet receive large quantities of stolen goods from the youths committing such crimes.

"We know for a fact that these prison gangs are heavily involved in gun trafficking," said Roberts. "They have to have an outlet for the guns. They may store up an arsenal for themselves or take them to Mexico to sell in the black market. The same would go for narcotics."

Roberts indicated the NF, "with the greatest influence in the area," is dealing with local street gangs such as the Black Angels, for the purchase of stolen property and to pick up recruits. "They learn who they can trust and who they can't," said Roberts.

He said prison gang members will use street gang members to commit crimes instead of commiting the crimes themselves. And, through the street gangs, the prison gangs create markets for their narcotics enterprises, he added.

"The gangs will purchase weapons from the street gangs and sell them on the black market in Mexico. The profit from the sales goes to purchase drugs and narcotics, which are smuggled back into the United States and sold on the streets, much of it to street gang members," said Roberts.

(Next: Gang violence is becoming more and more prevalent in the valley, authorities say. Methods of assassination or execution are similar to those police are investigating in Sacramento, Fresno, Modesto, Lancaster, East Los Angeles and San Diego.

Plea by victim's mother to 'Son of Sam'

NEW YORK (AP) — Stacy Moskowitz' mother appealed today to her daughter's killer — the gunman who calls himself Son of Sam — to end his rampage. "Don't make any mothers go through the same pain I have gone through," she said.

Holding back tears as she spoke in her Brooklyn apartment, Nyesa Moskowitz said, "I know what I have lost and I just don't want anyone to lose in the same way."

Her 20-year-old daughter died at 5:22 p.m. Monday, more than 36 hours after she and Robert Violante were gunned down as they sat in a car along a lovers' lane in Brooklyn.

Miss Moskowitz became the sixth person to die in the year-old rampage of the .44-caliber killer, who also has wounded seven others. The killer now commands the attention of 300 policemen, Chief of Detectives John Keenan said.

"An animal like this should get caught and I hope he suffers for the rest of his life," Mrs. Moskowitz said. "I would do anything right now to see him brought to justice. I would sacrifice a lot. It won't bring Stacy back, but it might make others safe."

The Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, meanwhile, issued a nationwide appeal for help in tracking down all people who own specially made Bulldog .44-caliber pistols, the kind police say Son of Sam used in all of the shootings. Only 28,000 of the guns have been manufactured.

At Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn, surgeons said Miss Moskowitz died of massive brain damage and swelling caused by one of two bullets which struck her skull, lodging in the base of her brain.

Doctors say Violante may never be able to identify the murderer — he has only a 10 per cent chance ever to see again. The bullet that passed through his head behind the bridge of his nose destroyed one eye and seriously damaged the other.

Dr. William Shuchart, director of the hospital's department of neurosurgery, said Miss Moskowitz' heart had stopped "at least a half dozen times" during the day.

"She would have been a vegetable had she survived," he said.

The victim's mother, Neysa Moskowitz, said, "... She loved life too much for that."

Jerry Moskowitz cried upon hearing of his daughter's death, but he said later, "The doctor has told us what to expect. I knew it was coming."

Despite his injuries, police said Violante was able to provide a comprehensive description of the assailant.

Keenan told reporters that Violante's new information might lead to a change in the police artist's composite sketch of the killer, but admitted law officers were no closer to making an arrest.

Sunday morning marked the first time the killer had struck outside of Queens and the Bronx where police had increased their patrols. Now, police said, they have to worry that the killer may strike anywhere in this city of eight million people.

D.B. hitchhiker gets ride, killed in crash

A Diamond Bar resident, John "Skip" Biegun, 28, was killed Monday evening in a traffic accident in Columbus, Ga.

According to the victim's father, Hank Biegun, owner of Abco Security Co., Pomona, Mr. Biegun and a companion, Jeff Smith of West Covina, were hitchhiking across the country this summer.

The two men were picked up by a motorist. The car in which they were riding was struck by a truck in a head-on collision. Smith is in critical condition.

Mr. Biegun is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hank Biegun, 418 Willapa Lane, Diamond Bar; two brothers, Tom and Hank Jr.; and two sisters, Angie and Cheryl, all of Diamond Bar.

Funeral services are pending at Blackman Pollock Memorial Chapel, Pomona.

Pomona man suffers 8 stab wounds

A Pomona man suffered numerous stab wounds Monday night in an attack that was apparently gang related.

Police said Jimmy Guillen, 21, was attacked and stabbed eight times in the upper chest by a lone assailant still being sought.

Guillen was reported to be in serious condition today in the intensive care unit of Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Police quoted Guillen as saying he was formerly a member of a Pomona gang, had recently resigned his membership in the gang and had moved from the gang's neighborhood in an attempt to end his involvement.

A member of the gang, police said, confronted Guillen at his residence at about 11 p.m. Monday night and a fight ensued.

Alta Loma woman knifed; female jailed

A 25-year-old Alta Loma woman was booked in the West End jail this morning for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon after another woman was stabbed at 9900 Placer Court, Alta Loma, sheriff's deputies report.

Deputies said Nancy Stapleton of the Placer Court address was arrested after a woman identified as Rina Nash, 20, Pomona, suffered a stab wound in one arm.

The victim told deputies she had gone to the home to recover some property that belonged to a friend. She said when she arrived the suspect denied her entrance and a struggle ensued.

Deputies said during the struggle Mrs. Nash was stabbed in the arm.

The case remains under investigation, deputies said.

Deputies probe fatal shooting of 16-year-old

Los Angeles County Sheriff's homicide detectives are continuing their investigation today into the mysterious shooting death of a 16-year-old on the campus of Bassett High School in La Puente.

The body of Anthony Arizmendi, of 13519 Moccasin St., La Puente, was found in some bushes on the high school campus at about 7:30 a.m. Monday.

Deputies said Arizmendi had been shot once in the chest with a small caliber gun. He was dead when found.

Alta Loma store robbed

West End sheriff's deputies this morning were searching for a man who robbed the Sprouse-Reitz store at 8776 Base Line Road in Alta Loma of a small amount of cash Monday evening.

Deputies said the man entered the store about 7 p.m. with his hand in a jacket pocket. The robber told the clerks in the store he had a gun and wanted all the cash from the registers. The clerks handed the robber the cash and he fled on foot.

The robber was described as a black, in his 20s, 5 feet 9 of thin build. He had a short afro haircut, was clean shaven and wore dark-rimmed glasses.

Deputies said they found a discarded brown-striped, long-sleeved shirt believed worn by the robber outside of the store.

Driver injured in Pomona collision

A 68-year-old Pomona man suffered serious injuries Monday afternoon in a two-car collision at Rebecca and Fourth Streets in Pomona.

Charles R. Lampman, of 1302 N. Huntington Blvd., was reported to be in serious condition today in the intensive care unit of Pomona Valley Community Hospital. He suffered numerous broken bones, collapsed lungs and lacerations.

Lampman's car, westbound on Fourth Street, was struck by another vehicle driven northbound on Rebecca Street by Ricky H. Moe, 16, of 336 Aboedo St., Walnut.

Driver of van hurt in Upland crash

A 52-year-old Upland man was injured Monday afternoon when a van was struck from behind by another vehicle in the northbound lanes of Euclid Avenue between 17th and 18th streets in Upland, police reported.

Upland police said the van, driven by Ralph Clineman, of 2500 N. Euclid Ave., was slowing down when the second vehicle, driven by Timothy Robert Streck, 17, of 1546 Kelley Ave., Upland, collided with it.

Clineman was listed in good condition this morning at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland where he is undergoing treatment for multiple injuries suffered in the accident.

Streck was not injured.

Ship tests sea boundary edict

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A South Korean ship carrying 465 passengers today reached a South Korean-held island off North Korea without interference in the first test of the Communist North's new "military sea boundary," a radio message said.

The radio said the 450-ton Ongjin-ho, escorted by South Korean naval vessels, docked at the island of Paengyong-do after an 11-hour voyage from the port of Inchon near Seoul.

Red Cross clinic

The Claremont Red Cross blood pressure clinic will be held Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. rather than the 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. schedule reported Monday in the Progress Bulletin. The clinic will be held at the chapter house, 2065 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

No decision on ballpark lighting

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Still up in the air over lighting ball diamonds in a new city park east of Cable Airport, Upland City Council members postponed any decisions until they meet again next Monday at 7 p.m.

At the Monday meeting in City Hall, council members heard representatives of both Little League and Hilltoppers Girls' Softball League agree that the proposed poles, as designed, may be a hazard to planes landing at the field.

The park is located east of Benson Avenue between 13th and 15th streets while the airport is west of Benson Avenue at 13th Street.

Dewey Cable, president of the airport, contends the 75-foot and 50-foot poles could endanger pilots who were somewhat out of the normal landing pattern.

Cable's stand was supported at the Monday council hearing by Dewey Richardson, chief of the aviation division of San Bernardino County, who displayed charts indicating the poles' entrance into a possible landing pattern airspace.

"I flew into the airport recently and was actually looking up at the top of a marker indicating where the poles were to be placed," Richardson said.

"I feel that action is a first phase in an attempt to close Cable Airport," continued the official. "But I'd like to remind the citizens that this airport contributes some $95,900 in taxes to Upland.

"Of this, the Cables pay $21,000 in property taxes. Another $62,000 comes from planes there and $11,700 from allied activities. Of this, one-third goes to support schools, one-third goes to the county and one-third to Upland."

Upland city officials blame "lack of communication" for the confusion over lighting one Little League ball diamond and two softball fields with such tall poles.

"I knew that some lighting was to be done, but no one ever explained that the poles were to be so tall," said Councilwoman Ina Petokas.

Dwayne Smith, representing the Foothill Little League, petitioned the council to offer location alternatives in the city within a week if the lights will not be allowed in Greenbelt Park.

Steve Bodnar, representing the softball league, agreed to moving their two fields north another 250 feet, thus removing it further from the flight pattern.

As it stands now, the two softball fields will probably be moved closer to 15th Street and the pole height will be reduced a few feet.

Both the airport operators and the softball league are agreeable to this action.

32-cent drop in Chaffey tax rate?

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Amid predictions of financial worries for the district next year, Chaffey school trustees Monday night adopted a $27.9 million final budget that estimates a 32-cent drop in the tax rate.

Asst. Supt. Russell Dickinson earlier had figured the tax cut to be about 25 cents in the 1977-78 budget. But he estimated Monday the total rate will drop from $2.62 to $2.30 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Despite the tax rate decrease, homeowners will still be paying higher tax bills because of a 29 per cent increase in the district's assessed valuation.

Dickinson explained that due to the increased assessed valuation, the district can lower the school tax rate. This is based on state formulas for figuring income.

Board members Monday were concerned over what officials called "deficit financing."

Dickinson noted the district will spend about $1 million more than it takes in in revenues during 1977-78. Total expenditures (not including reserves) are about $25.8 million, while total income is $24.8 million.

However, district reserves total a comfortable $2,054,960.

Dickinson said that with reserves, "We're all right. But you can only deficit spend for so long — and then you get in trouble."

Supt. Mike Dirksen agreed with a contention by board member Jack Carnine that the district is "headed toward a real chaotic situation a year from now."

Carnine noted, "We're spending a million more than we're taking in. We should be going back to check over the budget."

Dirksen blamed rising costs, higher employe salaries and a return to the six-period day for the increase in spending over last year — and "deficit financing." The $27,988,214 total budget is $700,000 higher than last year.

FORMER SPY PILOT DIES IN CRASH

Police officer examines wreckage of KNBC helicopter which crashed in Los Angeles Monday, killing former U2 pilot Gary Powers and another news employe.

'Nobody ever took care of Frank Powers'

BURBANK (AP) — "Frank" Powers had made many friends during his 10 months with KNBC-TV and his closest, anchorman Jess Marlow, broke into tears on the station's 5 p.m. news show as he reported the deaths of two staffers.

Marlow, a veteran newsman, struggled unsuccessfully to control his voice and bowed his head while other KNBC reporters looked on stony-faced. Their anguished silence contrasted sharply with a rising hum that had filled the newsroom before the show began.

The atmosphere had come full circle from the "morguelike gloom" videotape editor Bill Palm encountered shortly before 1 p.m. Monday when word came that Powers and cameraman George Spears had died in the crash of their equipment-laden helicopter. Although work on the story had begun within minutes, many staffers were relieved not to have drawn the assignment.

"It's different when it's at home," said cameraman Herman Conant. "A 'copter crashed the other day at a fire. We're out among that all time, and we do what we have to do, but I don't know if I could cover this."

Reporter John Marshall, working with Palm on a piece of tape shot earlier in the day, nodded agreement.

"These things are not supposed to happen to us," he said. "We get detached reporting on them happening to others."

For Marlow, the loss was more personal. He and Powers had been friends for years, and as he spoke to a reporter his wife was with Mrs. Powers.

"Without being maudlin, I'd like to think that he went out doing what he wanted to do," he said. "This last year was a very happy one for Frank. He loved flying that Telecopter and he had developed a real facility for reporting."

"People used to ask why he was flying a traffic plane (Powers' previous job). He did it because he needed a job. Frank never got a pension from the government, never got anything from the CIA. Nobody ever took care of Frank Powers."

Wallace denies divorce action

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace says "there's nothing" to documents which purport to be an as yet unfiled divorce petition drawn up on his behalf.

The Associated Press obtained the document Monday following a report from a Montgomery television station, WSFA-TV, that a divorce petition had been drawn up for the governor and his wife, Cornelia.

Mrs. Wallace could not be reached for comment on the documents.

The governor, through his deputy press secretary, Elvin Stanton, said only that "there's nothing to that."

Stanton said he personally had "no knowledge of any divorce proceedings."

The document, which is unsigned and dated only July 1977, says "the husband avers there exists such a complete incompatibility of temperament that the parties can no longer live together.

"The husband further avers there has been an irretrievable breakdown of the marriage and further attempts at reconciliation are impractical or futile and not in the best interests of the parties."

Teamster boss denies Nixon-Hoffa payoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell is being challenged to document published allegations by unidentified Justice Department sources that former President Richard M. Nixon received a Teamsters union payoff in exchange for preventing Jimmy Hoffa from returning to union office.

Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons angrily denied the charges carried in a published report, calling on Bell to produce evidence backing them up.

Fitzsimmons said on Monday that he never "paid one cent to the Nixon administration" as part of any deal to hold Hoffa at bay.

Unidentified Justice Department sources had been quoted by Time magazine as saying Fitzsimmons gave Nixon $1 million to prevent a Teamsters comeback by Hoffa, who is now missing and presumed dead.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER
Q. "WHERE DO GYPSIES COME FROM?"
JANE WOLFF CLEVELAND, OH
A. GYPSIES MIGRATED TO OTHER LANDS FROM NORTHWEST INDIA ABOUT ONE THOUSAND YEARS AGO
DICK ROGERS

Gypsies are a tribe of people who have been wanderers for nearly 1,000 years. They are associated with a carefree life, wandering as they will in brightly painted wagons, called vardos, or in buses and cars. Their clothing often includes gay clothes and bright jewelry.

No one knows much about the Gypsies' early history. Perhaps in the beginning they came out of India to wander from one country to another.

Some people thought they came from Egypt and called them "Gypsies." But the Gypsies call themselves "Romanies," and speak the Romany language, which is related to the language of India.

As they travel, Gypsy men often earn their living as craftsmen and traders. Gypsy women sometimes earn money as fortune tellers. Gypsies also perform as musicians and dancers.

Today, Gypsies live in Hungary, Spain, France and England, as well as in the Americas and other parts of the world.

Yves Saint-Laurent's contribution to the autumn-winter collection was an oriental-style gold brocade jacket, right, with Renaissance touches and mink trim worn with suede boots.

Joyce Brothers

Peace and quiet

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My husband gets very angry with me because I like to get away from the family to be by myself for a couple of hours each weekend. He always asks a lot of guests to our home every weekend. While I don't mind doing most of the cooking, I find I really need time away. He feels this is rude and antisocial. If I do it his way (he seems tireless) I'm afraid I'll say something I don't mean, because I'm just tired of people. Not tired of individuals — just noise and talk, in general. How can I break my habit? — S.K.

Dear S.K.: Don't try to. I believe your husband should allow you to be yourself and to take care of your own needs. It sounds to me as if he's an extrovert and you're more of an introvert. There's nothing wrong with this. In fact, introverts are usually attracted to extroverts and marriages between the two work out well as long as each respects the other's needs.

Your husband obviously thrives on people and is much less disturbed by noise while you need much more peace and quiet. I'm sure your guests don't mind if you leave them during certain hours. They may actually welcome it and have similar needs for themselves.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My neighbor criticized me when she saw me hit my 8-year-old son because he'd done something I told him not to do. I don't see anything wrong with this. I was raised with many spankings and it didn't hurt me. In fact, my brothers were kept in line because my parents were very strict. If kids were more disciplined, there wouldn't be so many problems and so much violence. — A.R.

Dear A.R.: Studies indicate that you're wrong in your theories of how to discipline. I agree that discipline is necessary, in fact, essential. However, corporal punishment isn't justified, isn't necessary, and is always counterproductive because it creates fear and resentment in the child.

Violence begets violence. Violent individuals are almost always the children of violent parents. There's no doubt that children can, and do, arouse violent feelings, but when parents hurl this violence back at the children they're teaching, by example, that this is the proper way to handle problems. Spankings are mainly an outlet for the feelings of immature parents. It serves the purpose of the parents, not the child.

The most effective discipline is to give a child a choice of actions. When he does something well, he receives praise and reward so that he'll want to repeat that behavior in the future. If a child fully understands why he is to do something and then deliberately goes against his parent's wishes, the parent should first try to find out why, and then, as a punishment, withhold some privilege.

In the long run, parents who use this system will have better, healthier relations with their children.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I've had notoriously bad luck with three marriages but I never seem to give up. I'm now entering on the fourth round with another woman I love very much. I say "another" because I did love the others when I married them. One of my closest friends tells me to forget about marriage as an institution is, and should be, dead. I'm old-fashioned and still cling to the notion that this time will be the magic one. Is this naive for a 40-year-old? — M.M.

Dear M.M.: I'm just a trifle disturbed by the word "magic." To me, this indicates that you may still have romantic and unrealistic expectations about marriage, which may be one of the reasons you've had problems.

Even though an individual has had marital failures, there is always a chance for success if the person has matured and learned from the past failures.

Sociologist Norval Glenn and Charles Weaver feel that stability is the wrong yardstick for marital success. Flexibility might be a far better way to measure the viability of the institution of marriage.

Remarriage usually brings a completely new set of problems. There frequently are stepchildren, financial and emotional obligations to more than one family, in addition to the standard possibilities for incompatibility. These problems, however, can be offset by a greater maturity and more realistic expectations.

Don't pay too much attention to your friend. He may be expressing his own problems with marriage. He may have some ambivalent feelings about your situation he's not aware of. He may wish that he'd done as you're doing, or he may regret that he has acted in a similar manner. In either case, I'd guess that he's projecting his own problems onto your marriage and actually, they have little to do with you.

A Sequel: Ignorance Is 'Blitz In A Whiplash

Last week this column reported Dr. Fisher's warning of the consequences of ignoring treatment for whiplash injuries. In his view, it is foolhardy to forego examination following any auto accident or fall as the tell-tale symptoms of a whiplash can be hidden for days, or even weeks.

Dr. H.L. Fisher D.C.

However when a whiplash is ignored, at its incidence, it can be devastating in the final analysis.

How devastating? In what way?

We put those questions to Dr. Fisher and present here what would be considered a sequel to last week's article.

"Devastating is your word," said Dr. Fisher. "But it is a good one."

"Consider such problems as traumatic arthritis, nerve root compression, myofibrositis, chronic disc re-injury, to name only a few, all can result from an untreated whiplash," says Dr. Fisher. "And you can readily see 'how devastating'."

Dr. Fisher notes that following a whiplash, joint ligaments can heal with scar tissue if treatment is not sought following the injury.

"With scar tissue there is a loss of elasticity in the ligaments, which in itself can result in a loosened spinal joint," Dr. Fisher points out.

"If the loose joint becomes unstable, traumatic arthritis may well result," he adds.

"Myofibrositis occurs" says Dr. Fisher, "when the injured muscle and surrounding ligaments are replaced by scar tissue."

"The most common complication in whiplash is the afore-mentioned "nerve root compression."

"Nerve root pain is excruciating" says Dr. Fisher, "as it radiates over an entire area serviced by the particular spinal nerve."

"Chronic disc re-injury sounds to be a logical danger of the untreated whiplash."

"Of course, you're right," says Dr. Fisher. "A whiplash jolt can render the spine susceptible to any number of disc injuries from subsequent jolts and shocks."

In addition to the problems connected with untreated whiplashes as noted, Dr. Fisher points out many more. The list however, is too lengthy to detail here. He does say that neuritis of the neck, extreme nervousness, and even eventual brain and spinal injuries can result.

"I know it sounds as if I'm over-simplifying to say: 'to ignore a whiplash is to play with fire, says Dr. Fisher, "But that is such an accurate description."

In other words, don't compound problems or an accident with your own indifference.

"You know," says Dr. Fisher, "just about every day I see a patient whose difficulties are traceable to old accidental injuries. They ignored the warning signs and are paying for it. As far as I'm concerned," concluded Dr. Fisher, "their suffering is absolutely needless."

(Note: The whiplash symptoms, whether immediate or delayed are generally the stiff neck, head or neck pains, and an uneasiness - or tension - particularly upon awakening. The more serious symptoms such as restricted neck motions, headache, nausea, muscle spasms, etc. are considered absolute.)

'The Cheap Detective'

Shooting Bogart spoof not easy

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Things were moving slowly on the set of "The Cheap Detective." There are always little, annoying details that slow up shooting on a movie set. But, in this case, these minor matters seemed bigger than usual.

Director Robert Moore, who seemed to take everything very calmly, explained.

"For the last week or so," Moore said, "we've been shooting simple things in small sets. This is the first day we're here, and the first day we have so many things to contend with — cars, smoke, props, water, everything like that."

"The Cheap Detective" is a spoof of the old private eye movies of the '30s and 40s. Nobody is saying it, butthe character Peter Falk is playing is really an amalgam of all the private eyes that Humphrey Bogart ever played. That's the way Neil Simon wrote it, and that's the way Falk is playing it.

And here they were, shooting in front of a nightclub that was right out of "Casablanca." Outside, a garish red neon sign spelled out "Nix Place" — if you remember the movie, the club Bogart ran was called Rick's.

The inside was typical mid-Oriental nightclub — beaded curtains, fly fans, Moorish arches. And there was the piano at which Seatman Crothers would sing some song, just as Dooley Wilson sang "As Time Goes By" in the real "Casablanca."

The whole thing was so reminiscent that I overheard a couple of the crew whistling "As Time Goes By' as they went about their work.

But there are always cynics on movie sets, too. There was this overheard conversation between two crew members:

"It's all the old Bogart films rolled into one, right?"

"Right. But why would they want to make that again?"

"Neil Simon wrote it and he wrote 'Murder By Death' and that made some money so I guess that's why."

And presumably, that had a lot to do with it. In "Murder By Death," Simon parodied a handful of the screen's golden-oldie detectives. This time, he's zeroing in on just one.

The scene they were shooting in front of Nix Place was typical. Falk drives up in a cab, gets out, and is accosted by Phil Silvers, as an old rummy.

"Hello, Hoppy," says Falk, as detective Lou Peckinpaugh, "I thought I saw the last of you in Cuba."

And Silvers explains how he managed to get out of Cuba, by swimming away from the wreck. The sharks bit his knee cap, he says, but he fixed it with string and he can walk pretty good now.

Then he asks Falk for a drink, saying how the string hurts awful bad some times.

"How about a drink, Lou?" he says.

And Falk produces a drink — a highball, complete with a sprig of mint — from his topcoat pocket. Then the detective goes into the club, and Hoppy tries to follow, but the fez-topped doorman stops him. The detective returns, decks the doorman and says, "You do that again, you're going to have to bend over backwards to whistle for a cab."

End of scene.

But things kept going wrong. Small things.

The cab wouldn't start.

So they wound up having a couple of the crew push it, crouching so they wouldn't be seen as they pushed.

Across the street, a tugboat was moored to a pier. It had to be rocked by hand, so it looked like it was gently moving as the sea caught it. The rocking was hard to get at the right tempo.

Between takes, they watered the street down with a hose, so the street would look wet and mysterious. Moore liked the wetness to bubble up in certain spots, and that took time.

The fog machines were turned on just before the cameras rolled. They wanted enough fog, but not too much. That, too, was a balance that wasn't easy to achieve.

They rehearsed a few times, then tried a take.

"Boy, what a mess!" said the cameraman, and everybody laughed. Nothing had gone right. People missed their marks, blew their lines, too much fog, the cab was pushed in too far. A mess.

Another take was ruined when the man driving (supposedly) the cab forgot to turn the headlights on.

They did it again.

"Cut," said Moore. "Nearly adequate. We go again."

The next time: "We're getting better."

The next time: "We're surely improving."

And finally: "What's wrong with that?"

They did it a few more times, just to make sure they had everything just so. That's the difference between shooting movies and shooting television.

DRINKS ON ME — Phil Silvers is delighted with the highball Peter Falk drew from his pocket in a scene from "The Cheap Detective," now filming in Hollywood. It is Neil Simon's second movie.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fears that interest rates were headed higher sent stocks lower Tuesday in sluggish trading. Many investors retreated to the sidelines.

Analysts said the decline was in response to indications the Federal Reserve Board had tightened credit Monday following a $5 billion surge in the nation's basic money supply.

Observers said tighter credit would lead to higher interest rates. That would help slow the economy's growth rate that, judging by a 0.6 per cent slide in June's index of leading indicators, showed signs of weakening from its torrid firsthalf pace.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average was off 2.60 points to 889.21 shortly before noon EDT. Declines led advances, 768 to 364, among the 1,620 issues crossing the tape.

New York Stock Exchange volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 7,800,000 shares, down from the 8,130,000 traded during the same period Monday.

Steel issues were under renewed selling pressure in light of poor earnings reports, the industry's first strike in 18 years, and a rise in the price of molybdenum, which is used to convert ore into steel.

Bethlehem Steel was the most active NSSE issue, off 1 to 22¾ following a block trade of 200,000 shares at 22½. U.S. Steel was off ⅞ to 35⅛ and Armco ⅜ to 23⅝.

Eli Lilly was the second most active NYSE issue, off ½ to 35⅛ in trading that included a block of 122,900 shares at 35⅛. A major anaylst told the Wall Street Journal he viewed Lilly's "fundamental situation with concern and would avoid the stock."

Burlington Industries was the third most active issue, off ¼ to 23¼.

Prices were lower in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Garan was ahead 1. The firm reported higher third-quarter earnings.

L.V. man wins bank promotion

Bank of America has appointed John M. Bubrik of La Verne a vice president and senior account officer for the Los Angeles corporate service office of the North America Division.

Assigned to the financial institutions section of the wholesale banking operation which handles credit and account relationships with major corporate customers, Bubrik has responsibility for B of A's correspondent banking activities in 11 states. He had served as an assistant vice president and account officer since August 1975.

Bubrik previously was assigned to the personnel administration at Los Angeles headquarters. In February 1971, he was placed in charge of all personnel matters for Los Angeles-based headquarters employes and, in February 1973, was appointed head of officer recruitment, employment and placement in Southern California, a position he held until his transfer to the corporate service office.

Bubrik has lived in La Verne with his wife, Lillian, and their two daughters since 1975.

Mint founded

On April 2, 1792 the U.S. government passed an act providing for a national coinage and the establishment of the first U.S. Mint, which, at the time, was in the nation's first capital, Philadelphia.

DEADLY — Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa., holds up an airbag canister containing sodium azide at a Washington news conference. Shuster said the sodium azide, a chemical compound used to inflate the airbag, is a poison so deadly that, if inhaled or exposed to cuts, can cause convulsions and death, according to the Library of Congress and the Office of Hazardous Materials. Shuster said that if the Mandatory airbag-passive restraint order stands for new cars, millions of traveling Americans could be exposed to the danger.

Second recall notice on defective detectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission has issued a second recall notice for defective smoke detectors that could fail to warn of fire and smoke danger.

The second notice was issued jointly by the agency and BRK Electronics, the manufacturer, because more than 80,000 of the detectors were not located after the first recall notice in January.

The detectors were marketed by BRK, American Machine & Foundry (AMF), I-T-E Imperial Corp. and Sears, Roebuck & Co.

The detectors being recalled were manufactured with resistors that could fail, BRK said.

The smoke detectors are being replaced free of charge by the Aurora, Ill.-based electronics firm.

The units subject to recall are 110-volt detectors that sold for a suggested retail price of $39.95.

The model numbers of the detectors are BRK: SS749AC, SS749ACS, SS749L, SS749SL; AMF: 2000AC,2000ACL; I-T-E: IT01-AC; Sears: 9-57049, 9-57047.

Standard Oil profits increase 30 per cent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bolstered by sharp increases in foreign earnings, Standard Oil Co. of California reported profits for the first six months of 1977 were 30 per cent higher than for the same period last year.

The San Francisco-based company said Wednesday its earnings had jumped to $505 million for the first half, up from $388 million a year ago. Sales jumped 12.7 per cent to $10.9 billion.

Profits made outside the U.S. totaled $176 million for the second quarter, compared to $182 million during the second quarter of 1976.

On the domestic front, earnings hit $101 milion for the second quarter, down 2 per cent from a year ago. Earnings from domestic oil and gas operations incresed 6 per cent to $90 million.

Camper firm's move to be discussed

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

A large turnout is expected today at 7:30 p.m. at the Thatcher Music Building when Claremont residents tell the City Council their concerns about a camper manufacturer moving to the city and a Planning Commission recommendation that a shopping center not be built at Base Line Road and Mills Avenue.

Residents are split on the recommendation that the area of Base Line Road from Mills Avenue east to Padua Avenue be designated as commercial-professional on the city's general plan, and not as highway commercial.

The commission has recommended the northeast and northwest corners at Claremont and Foothill boulevards be designated as highway commercial.

In another matter of interest, residents of neighborhoods bordering the Claremont Business Park on three sides will protest the coming of Chinook International to Claremont.

About 80 persons attended a neighborhood meeting at Wheeler Park Sunday night to discuss their concerns about possible problems with noise, odor and particle emissions from the plant proposed for the northwest 9.1 acres of the park. The plant would be built on Cambridge Avenue and make use of the Santa Fe railroad tracks for shipments.

The Claremont Architectural Commission has scheduled a special meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall to study an architectural and site plan review of the proposed plant.

The Thatcher Music Building is at the southeast corner of Fourth Street and College Avenue. The council meeting will be held in Lyman Hall which seats 250.

SMOLDERING BRUSH

Los Angeles County firefighters battle hot spots during a brush fire which broke out Monday afternoon at San Dimas Avenue just south of Arrow Highway in San Dimas. Three acres were burned and firemen still were watching hot spots at the scene this morning. A witness reported seeing three youths run from the scene as the fire started.

Another tax decrease set in Pomona

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

An additional tax rate decrease, concern over the district reserve fund and additional funds for the Child Care Center program highlighted the budget study session of the Pomona school board Monday evening at the Education Center.

Trustees concluded budget study for the 1977-78 program of service on a note to please taxpayers as they reached consensus on an additional four cent decrease in the district tax rate from $5.02 to $4.98 per $100 assessed valuation.

District Supt. Charles Carpenter said the decrease was made possible by information the district had received in the past four days from the Los Angeles County Superintendent of Schools, but he did not elaborate on what that information entailed.

The rate could have dropped another two cents had trustees not decided to up the tax rate for the Pomona Child Care Centers — the child development tax — by an additional two cents creating another approximately $47,000 for that program next year. The increase brings Child Care Center budget up to something in the neighborhood of $868,000 from a previously budgeted $820,000.

However, trustee C. J. Mendoza, noting that many California school districts are getting out of the child care area, approved an addition to his motion to increase the funding which stated simply that the Child Care Center program not be allowed any support from the district general fund during the 1977-78 school year.

The rider cutting the center off from general fund support was moved by trustee Eugene Whitlock.

The tax rate decrease, which is expected to win formal board approval at Wednesday evening's regular meeting, means a decrease of 12 cents to district taxpayers over last year's $5.10 cent tax rate.

Trustees did express concern, led by Whitlock, over the district's projected ending fund balance both for the general fund and the adult education program.

The adult education total budget of $2,500,000 includes an ending balance of only $14,000 and was called "a little too thin" by Whitlock who asked that the administration bring back an ending balance of $75,000 for the adult school at Wednesday's meeting when the public hearing and formal adoption of the budget are scheduled.

Almost before Whitlock could make the proposal, however, Carpenter said he would be bringing back a recommendation to the board on Wednesday for an increased ending balance in the adult education account.

Similar concerns were expressed by both Whitlock and board Vice President Francis Livingston over the general fund's projected ending balance of approximately $2,055,000 out of a total income of $32,800,000. The district will deficit finance — that is, spend money out of this year's ending balance — to the tune of $3 million this year. The $32.8 million income will be weighed against a $35.9 million expenditure.

Whitlock said he felt the district would need at least a $3 million ending balance this year to have sufficient carry over into 1978-79 to avoid layoffs of personnel. An informal survey indicates that a $2 million reserve weighed against declining state funds and inflation, might result in the need to layoff as many as 200 employes next year.

To increase the reserve, the board directed the administration to begin a 1 per cent across the board cutback realizing that no cutback may be possible in some areas while a 2 or 3 per cent cutback might be possible in others.

With that 1 per cent reduction, an additonal $400,000 could be made available for the ending balance.

If the district should receive an additional $600,000 from the adoption of the state school finance measure, the district's reserves could approach the $3 million mark.

No change in Montclair tax rate

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

For the fifth consecutive fiscal year, the City of Montclair set its property tax rate at $1.74 per $100 assessed valuation.

The Montclair City Council officially, and unanimously, set its tax rate for the 1977-78 year during its session Monday night. This rate was first set in the 1972-73 year. The action capped the months of budget meetings, deletions and additions to the new program of service within the city.

On June 30, the council approved a final budget of $6,776,244.

In recommending the adoption of the property rate, City Administrator Lauren Wasserman noted that it was in keeping with council philosophy to provide the highest level of service without any substantial increase in the tax rate.

In another matter, the council appointed eight persons to a new Citizens Participation Advisory Committee in order to meet new federal guidelines on the Community Development Block Grant Act.

Linda Alberico, Marc Cobb, James and Delia Cochran, Tom and Bonnie Deighan, Ed Hildebrand and Frank Perry were appointed by Mayor Harold Hayes with authorization from other council members.

The new committee's primary role will be to represent residents qualifying for the block grant program, a role previously fulfilled by the Community Action Committee. The new federal guideline requires the formation of a separate committee to deal with housing.

The committee members will also assist city staff in developing an outreach program for eligible residents; establish a priority list of projects and programs; make recommendations to city staff and council on objectives and resource allocation of funds for the 1978-79 Community Development Block Grant Program application; and develop a schedule of activities for the application period.

Lee McDougal, housing coordinator, reading from his written report, stated, "In summary, the intent of the appointment of a Citizens' Participation Advisory Committee is to insure the Community Development Act servicing community input on the programs that will be addressed through the grant."

No relief from heat in sight

Fill a glass with something over ice, find a shady spot if you can and try to keep cool.

There's no relief in sight yet, the weatherman says, from the sweltering heat or the smog.

National Weather Service forecast variable high cloudiness with chance of showers near the mountains and on the deserts. Highs today and Wednesday in Pomona-Walnut valleys are to remain in the mid 90's, with overnight lows near 70.

And, a first-stage smog alert was predicted for today.

A slight chance of showers was predicted for Pomona-Walnut valleys.

Hot and muggy, with eye-stinging smog. And that's the way it is.

Motorcyclist robbed by biker

A 20-year-old motorcyclist was confronted by six or seven other bikers and robbed early this morning on Mission Boulevard east of Central Avenue in the county area of Montclair, West End sheriff's deputies reported.

Deputies said that the motorcyclist was riding westbound on Mission Boulevard when six or seven other bikers he identified as being members of a motorcycle gang surrounded him.

The victim said that one of the bikers pulled a snub-nosed revolver out of his jacket and ordered him to pull into a vacant parking lot.

He also reported the motorcyclists demanded his cash. He complied and the robbers sped off westbound on Mission Boulevard.

The gunman was described as a white, with sandy, blond hair tied into a ponytail and a long beard. He was wearing a motorcycle club jacket and had the name "Spider" embroidered on the front.

DUANE MELLINGER, a 17-year veteran of the Montclair Fire Dept. and assistant chief since 1969, will take over as fire chief of the Central Valley Fire Protection District in the Fontana area on Aug. 22. His appointment has been confirmed by Robert Rigney, administrator of San Bernardino County's Environmental Improvement Agency.

'The Oakway Area'

San Dimas area battle brewing again

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Staff Writer

It's known at San Dimas City Hall as "The Oakway Area."

But residents refer to it variously as "Poverty Flats," "Tobacco Road" or "Poor White Trash Hollow."

For an area where some homes approach the $100,000 category and lots range from a fourth-acre to four and five acres, it can't be considered a ghetto.

But not is all quiet and calm in the hollow, reports city officials and sheriff's officers.

Under the aegis of City Manager Bob Poff and Sgt. Leonard Tyco, sheriff's community relations officer, an all-out effort was begun this week to bring warring factions in the neighborhood together before animosity escalates into something more serious.

So far, incidents have involved only name-calling, numerous protests to City Hall, dumping trash and garbage onto a resident's yard last New Year's Day, the slashing and puncturing of a child's basketball, and the subpoenaing of one resident whom the county health department has accused of sanitary violations involving his large chicken ranch.

One faction headed by Mrs. Pauline Ball, a long-time resident, charges the trouble lies with horseowners surrounding her property who do not maintain hygienic conditions which allows flies to breed. She is not a horse owner, but claims she is not against horses.

The other faction claims Mrs. Ball is ired because she can't sell her property for high-rise development since the area is now considered ripe for zoning as horse estates. This eliminates any high-rise development in the near future.

At City Hall, Planning Director Mark Goldberg said the whole problem boils down to a lack of understanding on both sides.

Poff said the squabble is not new, but has simmered for 20 years — long before the area was annexed by San Dimas.

Last week during a heated debate on a blanket zoning of the area into 16,000 square foot lots, both factions appeared in the council chambers to argue their sides.

After more than an hour of debate, councilmen followed Mayor Marvin Ersher's suggestion and delayed voting on the issue for two weeks.

Such a zoning ordinance would not force those with property under 16,000 square feet to move or increase the size of their property — an impossibility — but would give them the same rights as others in such a zone limited only by the number, if any, of animals such a property could maintain.

The day following the meeting, sheriff's deputies were sent to the area after egg rancher Neil Sheehan complained his child's basketball was returned by Mrs. Ball several hours after it bounced over her fence.

He said the ball was slashed and punctured when returned.

Mrs. Ball said she did return the basketball sometime after it fell into her yard, but denied damaging it.

Sheehan is scheduled to appear Aug. 17 in Pomona Municipal Court to answer health code charges involving his ranch. Among those subpoenaed to testify against him is Mrs. Ball.

Mrs. Ball said that as a result of flies in the neighborhood, her property has diminished in value from $85,000 to about $60,000; a condition which prevents her from selling and moving out.

Her daughter and family, who live next door, express similar feelings.

Mrs. Ball said that since manure is not controlled nor hauled off, it not only affects residents but also several hundred grade school children who eat lunch outside at nearby Arma J. Shull School. She said this creates a health hazard.

Horse owners Mrs. Joe LaRue and Mrs. Sal Macias said quite the opposite is true, with most horse owners maintaining regular cleanup and spraying programs to hold down the fly population.

Residents in Mrs. Ball's camp also claim the area has been allowed to deteriorate by City Hall. At last week's regular City Council meeting, councilmen ordered Ed Sneed to repair his abandoned cement block former egg storage building which now sits idle with broken windows.

Sneed charged that vandals damage the structure as soon as he repairs it. But councilmen ordered it be repaired or he would face legal action. Officials said this was a nuisance attractive to children.

The area in dispute lies north of Gladstone Street and south of Foothill Freeway, between Lone Hill and San Dimas avenues.

Poff and Sgt. Tyco hope their efforts can resolve the conflict. Residents believe a miracle is needed to remedy the situation.

Inflation spins its web

The most astonishing thing about inflation today is not that it is high or low, galloping or creeping.

It is that we seem to have come to accept inflation as a permanent and inevitable fact of life, and more and more are adjusting our lifestyles and workstyles to accommodate it.

Much of the current boom in new housing is attributed to young couples who are mortgaging themselves to the hilt in the thought that housing will never be "cheaper" but dollars will be.

The contracts of most major unions have long had automatic cost-of-living escalator clauses. Social Security recipients now enjoy the same "inflation insurance."

So does Congress — although its members are valiantly foregoing a scheduled cost-of-living supplement this year in favor of making do with a $12,900 increase in their basic salaries.

Now, if Congress passes an administration-proposed and labor-backed bill, the minimum wage will be "indexed" to the cost of living by being permanently pegged as a certain percentage of the average wage in manufacturing.

With each such step this country is institutionalizing inflation and weaving it more deeply into the social fabric.

With each such encouragement to the self-feeding aspects of inflation, Americans are forfeiting a little more control over their individual and collective destinies.

Insufficient postage

The 16,000 members of the National League of Postmasters are suing their boss, the U.S. Postal Service, to prevent the agency from making their salaries public.

The Postal Service has been releasing statewide lists of postmasters and their salaries to various newspapers, and this, the league contends, is a violation of the Privacy Act of 1974.

What the postmasters are really upset about, of course, is that people are discovering that their friendly local postmaster is very often a handsomely remunerated gentleman.

In small towns, especially, salaries on the order of $17,000 put the postmaster right up there with the president of the bank.

As the old saying goes, he who pays the piper calls the tune. In this case it is the American taxpayer and mail user who has every right to know what his public servants are earning.

The League of Postmasters' suit should be sent to the dead letter office.

Mother wears Army boots

One reason the volunteer Army may be resisting advice that it enlist more women to, ah, round out its ranks is their high casualty rate — on the field of love, that is.

In 1975, about 5.4 per cent of women in the U.S. Army were pregnant, a study by the Army found, and of these 40 per cent left the service after giving birth.

On the average, every pregnancy carried to term causes at least 105 days of lost time from the job, says the report. This impairs military efficiency and causes "personal turbulence."

Pending results of a new study, however, the Army has decided to continue its policy of allowing pregnant GIs to remain in the service if they wish.

Just in jest

The amazing wisdom and scintillating ad lib ability of TV sports announcers never ceases to amaze me. One member of that fast talking brotherhood was recently interviewing a major league baseball pitcher prior to the start of the game. His final comment regarding the possible outcome of the upcoming contest is typical of what it takes to become a successful sportscaster these days. — "If it turns out OK it will be OK," he pointed out profoundly.

But it isn't only the expertise of the sportscasters that has me shaking my head in amazed disbelief. Some of the utterances of our government experts also keep me in a state of almost perpetual confusion. One of the country's energy authorities, for instance, says we have enough oil and gas to meet our needs for at least another 50 years. Then along comes another authority who claims our energy sources are in such short supply that people may actually be walking instead of riding within 5 years. But then, why should we get all hot and bothered over all this sound and fury so obviously signifying nothing? After all it is a well known fact that in these days most everybody is talking and hardly anybody is listening.

A judge's dilemma

Dear Editor:

I recently received a shocking letter from Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Harry Peetris. He was pleading for mercy — mercy from California's current sentencing laws. You probably won't like what Judge Peetris said in his letter any more than I did . . . but I think you might be interested in reading it.

Judge Peetris told of a case which was recently heard in his court. The man was convicted of several brutal murders. The evidence was clear-cut. The man was criminally motivated, cold-blooded and completely without human compassion. So, what's the problem? The man obviously deserves the death penalty or at least life in prison without parole, right? What he deserves and what he gets under our current laws are two different things. Let's look at the details of this case:

This killer got started in 1966. His first victim was killed in his efforts to take over a prostitution business. The woman he killed was sitting in her living room. The killer placed a gun in her ear and pulled the trigger. Sitting on the couch witnessing this scene was the victim's 15-year-old son. Despite the boy's pleas for his life, the killer stuck a gun in the young man's ear and pulled the trigger. After all, the killer said later, he couldn't leave any eye witnesses. These two murders went unsolved for 10 years.

Up until 1971, the killer served time in prison for a parole violation. After he was released, he killed again. His victim was a cocaine dealer. Some people might think he did society a favor, but nonetheless he took another life.

Our enterprising killer thought he was becoming quite adept at his craft, so much so he decided to go professional. Now a hired killer, his fourth victim got the familiar gun in the ear. This time he fired three shots, but the woman somehow managed to live — even though she remained partially paralyzed and had to walk with a cane. Not wanting to jeopardize his professional standing, he returned two months later to finish the job. This time he fired the gun in her ear and in her eye. Then, just to be thorough, he fired at the back of her head and at her heart. The killer then jokingly said, "This time she's really dead." Somehow that's not funny to me!

Most people would agree that this cold-blooded killer should be put to death. Unfortunately, not enough legislators agree with the people. As a result of an 11th-hour bill passed last year, coupled with the Supreme Court's ruling against the death penalty, killers can now get off relatively easy. Let's look at what choices Judge Peetris faced in sentencing this professional killer.

The judge thought the proper punishment would be death. The court ruling against the death penalty came during the killer's trial. The Supreme Court said there was "no opportunity to consider mitigating circumstances!" So much for the sentence of death. The next lesser sentence would be life in prison without parole. That punishment is available for kidnapping for ransom with injury, trainwrecking with injury, and other similar crimes — but not for the crimes committed by this killer. So much for life in prison without parole.

The next lesser sentence would be to give consecutive sentences for each of the murders, to be served separately instead of running at the same time. In this case, the killer would not be eligible for parole for 35 years. Unfortunately, Section 669 of the Penal Code requires that all of the murder counts merge into one. As a result of our current laws in this case, this killer will be eligible for parole in five years and 10 months. Life is cheap in California!

Judge Peetris is frustrated and angry. He believes he can't impose a proper sentence, can't protect witnesses and can't protect society. Laws are what they are because the legislators choose to keep them as they are. Legislators are who they are because people elect them.

U.S. spy shenanigans

WASHINGTON — The James Bond industry has had its most embarrassing secrets broadcast from the rooftops. The beleaguered Central Intelligence Agency, for example, has received more publicity than government agencies that advertise. All this hoopla has brought acute distress to espionage officials who regard it sourly as "indecent exposure."

But now President Carter has assured us that the revelations are over and that the nation's intelligence operations have been fully aired. There are "no lingering, unresolved illegalities or improprieties," he declared, that remain uninvestigated.

The President, however, has overlooked the 7602 Air Intelligence Group at Ft. Belvoir, Va. Over the years, this obscure unit has conducted a bewildering number of cloak-and-dagger operations around the globe.

During the Indochina fighting, for example, the unit dispatched an intrepid, young major on a secret mission to Laos. The Pentagon had picked up disturbing reports that one of its favorite Laotian generals was a double agent, who posed as a right-wing militarist but was really a secret communist. There was the awkward possibility that he might be diverting his massive U.S. military shipments to the communist guerrillas.

The major's grim orders were to investigate the general and then kill him if the reports proved true. Dutifully, the undercover officer, though a married man with two children, courted the general's attractive daughter. The American spy and the Laotian beauty, inevitably, fell in love.

But the major, true to his trust, delivered a full, factual report to his superiors. He had learned from his romantic liaison that the general was totally corrupt. But there was no evidence that he was working for the communists. The honest officer also gave his bosses a frank report on his own romantic involvement.

The Air Force, taking a stern view of adultery if not murder, withdrew the major from the assignment and rushed over his wife and children to rehabilitate him. His mission was turned over to a replacement less susceptible to Laotian charms.

The confidential files also contain a report of another murder plot against a Loatian general. This general, too, was an Air Force favorite. According to the files, he would sneak down back trails, clogged with underbrush, from Laos to Thailand to provide the Air Force the latest intelligence.

But rival CIA spies somehow got the notion that the general wasn't true to the United States. Without bothering to inform his Air Force handlers, a CIA team ambushed the general on one of his visits but botched the assassination. The Air Force tenderly nursed the wounded general back to health at its Udorn base, but the aggrieved military men were unsuccessful in pressing charges against the CIA assassination team.

If U.S. authorities seemed unduly harsh on questionable generals, they pampered the loyal Laotian brass shamefully. The Air Force, for example, procured a large limousine for a Loatian mountaintop commander, who had a special fondness for big American cars. The luxurious limousine was deposited at the doorstep of his craggy sanctuary by a U.S. cargo helicopter.

Federal funds not that great

By EARL G. WATERS

Amid the great exclamations of joy which greeted the announcement of funding for $56 million in public works projects throughout the state, there is some anguish among state legislators.

The elation will be found among the 13,500 construction workers to be directly employed and another 40,000 workers who will find jobs as an indirect result of the program, according to Martin R. Glick, the state's Department of Employment director. Also clapping hands with glee over the prospects of receiving windfall projects, which might otherwise never have been undertaken, are the heads of various state and county agencies.

Altogether some 90 projects have been recommended for financing under the Federal Public Works Employment Act of 1977. Seemingly because of the funding they were selected more on the basis of the numbers which could be employed than on the priority of the projects over other needs.

It is that fact which causes the concern among the legislators. Having just concluded long months of budgetary reviews, which included screening nearly $100 million in capital outlay projects, they are now being confronted with seeing some which they rejected being undertaken anyway. Also some projects have been recommended by Glick which were never even submitted to the legislature.

While it is true the money for the projects will come from the federal government rather than out of state funds, "It is," as Assemblyman Mike Cullen, chairman of the Legislative Audit Committee observed, "going to cost California taxpayers $1.10 for every dollar going into the projects from this roundabout source."

"The point is," he said, "that regardless of where the money comes from, it should be used for those projects with the highest priorities and not frittered away on programs which the legislature would not have approved regardless of how much money we might have."

As an example he cited $2 million for a new adult prison in Imperial County and $1.3 million for a juvenile home in Lake County. "The legislature," he said, "considered requests for new prisons and rejected them."

Not only does such bypassing of the legislature enable the administration to build facilities not approved by it but it stands to commit the legislature to the expenditure of additional monies for something it didn't want in the first place. For a new prison cannot be built for $2 million but once undertaken it will be difficult for the legislature to refuse money at a later date for its completion.

Other projects recommended in the $56 million program may also raise questions once the first blush of prospective employment wears off. Among these might be the near $5 million recommended to rehabilitate residential rentals held by the state in Sacramento.

The properties were acquired as part of the State Capitol Complex with the intent to raze them to make way for new state office buildings. Pending actual construction the apartment dwellings were spared and rented by the state. Because of the freeze put on the capitol plan when Ronald Reagan became governor, the rental period strung out far beyond the time intended with the result the buildings have deteriorated. But the question now should be whether the state should continue in the rental business or dispose of the property or at least that which it now seems clear cannot be used for its intended purpose in the foreseeable future. That is a question which it now seems the legislature won't have the opportunity to consider.

Other expenditures point clearly to the disregard for priority of needs as in the case of the $425,000 allocated to solar heat a swimming pool at Long Beach State University. "Such things," the assemblyman observed; "make a shambles of our budgetary process."

W.I.F.E. spells "WIFE"

For breakfast the other morning — one of those most rare occasions when I have anything other than oatmeal — I had a cooked wheat cereal.

No recognizable name on this breakfast cereal.

It was not from a store-bought box.

It was from a plastic bag — straight from a Montana farm.

It cost less than a penny. It cost less then half a penny. It cost precisely three-tenths of one penny, is what it cost.

Because the farm wife who sent it to me charged me only what the wheat farmer is now getting for his product: $2.70 a bushel, 4 1/2 cents a pound — less than one-third of one cent per serving.

Mrs. Karen Mattson sent similar servings to some members of Congress. Her purpose is obvious.

America's farmers are too busy farming to call on their congressmen —or even to write. Their wives are taking on yet another chore. They have banded themselves together into an organization called W.I.F.E. Those letters stand for WOMEN INVOLVED IN FARM ECONOMICS.

They have seen the noisy minorities getting attention. They have watched their husbands grow prematurely old, working dark-to-dark for less than the national minimum wage. They figure it's time they make some noise.

Recently these wives of grain, beef and sheep farmers mobilized, have been on the attack.

A convoy of wheat farmers' wives trucked their crop to port purposely to protest increasing rail freight rates for their commodity. The women drove grain trucks, some as far as 1,500 miles.

The verdict is not in yet but the Interstate Commerce Commission was "impressed."

Farmers have been paying 70 cents a bushel to ship their grain from Joplin, Mont., to Portland, Ore.

Doing it themselves the grain was delivered for a fraction of that.

While other farm wives through this organization are seeking legislation or other relief for their cattlemen husbands and for each of several other crops, these wives of wheat farmers are getting attention to their near desperation situation by "spoon feeding congressmen" farm ground grain.

It now costs their husbands $4.33 a bushel to produce the wheat which they are having to sell for $2.70 a bushel!

But in-the-store cereal prices have not declined.

Should we arbitrarily increase wheat prices to $4.33 per bushel, it would cost the consumer only 15/100 of one cent per serving.

The average American consumes 112 pounds of cereal grain each year. If the farmers gave it away it would save consumers less than $5 a year!

William Jennings Bryan said it: "Burn down your cities and your cities will spring up again — but destroy our farms and grass will grow in the streets of every city."

Canine colic? Look at bowl

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our dog got a very mysterious stomach upset that wouldn't go away — not until I quit using a beautiful ceramic bowl I'd bought him. I've since found out that these bowls can have poison in the glaze, and that's why they can make dogs sick. Shouldn't you warn other dog owners not to use poison-glazed pottery dishes for their pets? — N.L.

DEAR N.L.: Since some glazed pottery contains dangerous chemicals which may leach into food or water, you're quite right. I should indeed warn pet owners concerning this hazard. In fact, I just did.

DEAR DR. MILLER: The sand in the bottom of my aquarium has accumulated a lot of junk on it, and I'm trying to figure the best way to clean it. A friend of mine said (with a straight face) she uses a vacuum cleaner to clean the bottom of her tank? She's got to be kidding, doesn't she? — J.O.

DEAR J.O.: There are good reasons for not using a standard, household-type vacuum cleaner in a fish tank. However, there are small battery-operated aquarium vacuum cleaners which are made for that specific purpose and do an effective housecleaning job on tank bottoms.

INFORMATION FOR THE BIRDS' DOCTOR

When taking your bird to its doctor, whether for just a general checkup or for an actual illness, bring its cage, too. Leave the cage uncleaned, including the papers on the floor. Dump out any water just before leaving, but leave the dish in the cage. Wrap a towel (or plastic, or what-have-you) around the cage to prevent drafts during the trip, but don't cover it tightly in hot weather. This cage will provide valuable information on the type and quality of food fed and approximate amount consumed in 24 hours, whether empty seed hulls are accumulating on the tops of seed cups, whether the water dish is washed daily, whether the type of cage is suitable in size and construction for the bird, whether there are too many (or the wrong kind of) perches or toys.

Droppings provide clues as to the amount and kind of food consumed and the general condition of the digestive and urinary tracts. Too, the cage could contain external parasites, mites in particular, and several free-floating feathers could point to plumage problems. The cage, then, is an important part of the examination. The veterinarian is deprived of much of this first-hand knowledge if the bird's brought in without it.

Nurses who look sexy panned

Dear Ann Landers: I am sorry you backed down and apologized to the nurses. Please, Ann, take back your apology:

I'm a 28-year-old male — and no sex maniac. Recently I was a hospital patient so I speak from experience. The young nurses did not look like bunnies. They looked like chorus girls. I refer to the ones who wore mini-skirt uniforms, and a lot of them did. When they stooped over the view was — well — as you say, "On a clear day you can see Catalina." It was even worse when they sat down.

Temptation is hard on a young male who is away from his wife for three weeks. So please, Ann, tell those nurses not to blame the patient if he gets a bit randy.

Nurses who want to be respected should strive to look professional and not sexy. Thank God for pantsuits. — G.M. of Santa Monica

Dear Santa: I'm not about to open up THAT can of worms again — but thanks for your letter.

Dear Ann Landers: In answer to Mrs. U.S.A. who wants to know how we can get families away from TV, let me say this:

It is better to have your husband home watching TV than to wonder if he is out with another woman, down at the bar getting drunk or at a gambling place losing his badly needed paycheck.

It is better to have your son at home in front of the boob tube than to wonder if he is out smoking dope, drunk behind the wheel of a car, committing vandalism or maybe even mugging and raping.

Your daughter can't get into too much trouble at home glued to the idiot box.

Two thousand years ago, a woman cut off John the Baptist's head and put it on a platter. Herod had a sword run through all male children under two years of age. An angry mob put a crown of thorns on Jesus' head and nailed him to a cross. None of them got the idea from watching TV. But of course you'll never print this. — I.M. Annoyed

Dear U.R. Annoyed: The networks will love you. Here's your letter.

Dear Ann Landers: In response to the letter from "$10,000 Worth of Woman:"

A person whose life is to be insured must sign an application for the coverage unless he or she is a minor or otherwise lacks the capacity to contract. Among other things, the signature of the insured signifies his or her consent to the insurance. A policy which is obtained on the life of another person without his or her knowledge or express consent is illegal, fraudulent and voidable.

A smart husband may be one who insures his wife, but if he surprises her with a policy a smart wife had better ask him (or the insurance company) how he managed to obtain it without her knowledge and consent. — Concerned Home Office Underwriter

Dear Concerned: I ckecked with several insurance companies in Chicago and was told your information is fundamentally correct; in fact, the insured person must not only sign the application but must be seen by the agent — even a minor.

However — and here's the loophole — a small insurance company might allow the husband to fill out the forms in advance (without paying for the policy) and present an UNSIGNED policy to his wife as a gift. The policy would be valid only if signed.

A dog is different, you know

I'm as crazy about dogs as the next person, but long ago I realized we had inherent differences.

(a) When I mistrust people, I do not bite them on the leg; (b) I cannot shed all over the sofa and still expect my hostess to be a good sport; and (c) Newspapers are meant to be absorbed . . . not absorbent.

If I have one major criticism of orthodox dog lovers, it would be their inability to view their pets as they really are . . . animals. I have noted dog enthusiasts, in particular, have a couple of catchy phrases that seem to be universal.

"He won't bite." This would be reassuring if it weren't for the fact that the dog is rigid, his teeth are bared, there is a guttural sound coming out of his throat and he has just pencilled a bull's eye on the calf of your leg.

"I am going to leave the room so that you and Killer can get to be friends." That's a phrase that hasn't popped up since they gave Daniel a plastic bone and put him in the lion's den.

"Oops, you're sitting in King's chair." You already suspected that when you sat down and King covered you with his 90-pound body.

"Is that Fritz smelling up the room?" This is awkward as the only other person beside the host is you and Fritz doesn't look like he is going to admit to anything.

"He won't hurt you. He's just (check one) teething, playful, needs attention." Which is exactly what I told my doctor. "He didn't hurt me. I'm just bleeding, hysterical and need stitches."

"Get down, Brute. She's not used to dogs tearing her stockings." (Could you throw in licking my toes and eating my fountain pen?)

I had one friend who always admonished, "Don't make any sudden moves as Flossie is high strung." Sudden moves included chewing gum, swallowing and breathing in and out. In the eyes of the owner, Flossie had become human.

It became quite apparent one evening when a policeman knocked on the door at the request of my friend. He told him that the police were going to have to do something about all the male dogs who were arriving by bus and trains from as far as 80 miles away to court Flossie. "They are nothing but sex maniacs," said my friend, "And I want them off my property or I will have all of them arrested."

I breathed a sign of relief when Flossie refused to sign the complaint.

Dr. Lamb

What your pulse rate means

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would appreciate it if you would send me a write-up on pulse rate. A friend of mine and a relative said their doctor told them they both had a slow pulse rate — 60 beats.

Can anything be done with a slow rate or is nothing really necessary? Are there any symptoms with slow rates?

DEAR READER — It depends entirely on what causes it. A slow heart rate is often a sign of a healthy heart. A vigorous well-trained athlete may have a resting heart rate below 40 per minute. In fact most well-conditioned men have rates below 60 beats per minute at rest. Since there are so few individuals who are really in a state of optimal fitness and who do not smoke or drink coffee we have become accustomed to thinking of higher heart rates — which are the norm for our not-so-fit society.

Roger Bannister had a resting heart rate in the 70s when he began training for the four minute mile. When he was properly conditioned and ready to break the world's record his resting heart rate was in the 30s. That gave him the reserve he needed to make that enormous physical effort.

Some medicines slow heart rates too — as a side effect. And then there are people who have heart block who have very slow heart rates. Those with this medical problem who have rates that fall too low will have inadequate blood flow to the brain. This can lead to mental confusion or loss of consciousness or even convulsions. This can be dangerous. These individuals require a pacemaker to prevent the heart from beating too slowly.

There you have it, on one hand our healthiest people may have a slow heart rate as a sign of health and at the other extreme it can be a sign of heart disease. A rate of 60 by itself, though, is not likely to be of clinical significance. To give you more information on heart rates I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-8, Your Heart Rate: What It Means. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78292.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can one lose weight in the face by exercising and dieting? What is the nose made up of (the outside)Y Is it fat or muscle?

DEAR READER — As most people who have lost weight will tell you the first place it shows is in the face. The last place is around the waist and the places most people would like to reduce.

The bridge of the nose is bone and the tip of the nose is cartilage. That is why the tip is soft. There are a few tiny muscles attached to the cartilage. They help when you want to give someone the dilated nostril or they can be used to pull in the opening of the tip. These muscles are very small.

The nose doesn't have any significant fat so weight loss in the face will not do much to your nose. The nose may become fat in a medical condition resulting in a large bulbous red vascular nose. In these instances the deformity that results may require surgery if it is to be corrected.

If you are thinking you can affect the character of your nose with diet and weight loss I am afraid that won't work.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

One of the worst bids in bridge is what we call the "Ostrich" bid. Traditionally, the ostrich feels that if he sticks his head in the sand no one can see him and nothing bad can happen to him.

North's pass to West's two spades is an example of this type bid at its worst. As he explained after his opponents had chalked up 300 points by setting the five-diamond contract two tricks, he had hoped that by passing he would not encourage West and East to bid game.

That reasoning is fallacious at best. If East and West have a game they are looking at their own cards, know they have it and will bid it.

If East and West don't have enough to bid beyond two spades they will stop there and make a part score while a more enterprising North would either have pushed them too high or watched his partner make a part score of his own.

This time if North had bid three diamonds, East would still have bid four spades and South might well have doubled. Otherwise, he would pass and set them one trick undoubled provided North did not go berserk and bid five diamonds after having bid three diamonds earlier.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader wants to know if we would double an adverse one-spade bid for takeout with:

♠ A K x ♥x ♦ K Q 10 xxx ♣xxx

The answer is a decided "No." We would simply overcall with two diamonds. You should be very careful about doubling one major suit when you can't stand the other one.

Lightning rings broken doorbell

Am sure you know that serendipity is what you call it when you find some sort of good fortune unexpectedly while looking for something else. These examples are a matter of record: A bank messenger in Oakland, Md., dropped a sackful of 9,000 pennies on the street and recovered 9,002. Lightning struck a house in St. Louis, Mo., and the doorbell, which hadn't worked for a year, worked just fine thereafter. In Milwaukee, Wisc., a burglar was finally scared away from a home after opening a window that had been stuck tight for more than 15 years.

NISEI

Q. "Isn't 'Nisei' just another word for American-born Japanese?"

A. Not exactly. Nisei are American-born children of Japanese immigrants, but not grandchildren, great-grandchildren, so on. Incidentally, the Japanese immigrants themeslves are Issei. And if they're American-born but educated in Japan, they're called Kibei.

Q. "In the days of the knights in shining armor, what was the average weight of the armor?"

A. About 55 pounds, probably.

If that mother dog is nursing five pups, she needs three times her ordinary amount of food, please note.

TOO MANY BLONDES

Most of the women in The Netherlands, who have their hair colored, choose some shade of brown. A survey of beauty salons there indicates such. There's not just an abundance but an overabundance of natural blondes thereabouts, according to one Amsterdam hairdresser.

A Los Angeles street was roped off for a Shriners' parade. All cars were rerouted, except those with signs which read "Potentate" and "Past Potentate" and so on. Wouldn't you know a humorist might get into the act? Police blandly waved through a car labeled "Past Participle."

Nobody of Italian extraction should fail to note it was likewise an Italian who gave Thomas Jefferson that "all men are created equal" line. Philip Mazzei was the fellow. In 1773, working under the penname of "Furioso" for the Virginia Gazette, he wrote: "All men are by nature created free and independent . . . equal to each other in natural rights."

If you don't weigh about 40 times as much as your brain, you're just not average.

Rain stopped too soon for Dodgers

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

NEW YORK — The Dodgers didn't think Monday night's game with the Mets would be played because a hard rain was still falling when the team bus reached Shea Stadium an hour before the game.

When the Mets came back three times to tie and won the contest, 8-7, in 12 innings, they wished it hadn't.

The game started 29 minutes late and required three hours and 48 minutes to play.

"We got seven runs and it wasn't enough to win," lamented manager Tommy Lasorda.

Dodger hitters pounded 12 hits, but they were supplied by the first five batters in the lineup.

Davey Lopes and Reggie Smith had two each. Bill Russell had three. Ron Cey had four hits including a two-run home run and two-run triple and batted in five runs.

Steve Garvey hit his 25th home run following Cey's 21st. But the rest of the lineup went 0-for-18. Cey was coming back from a 13-for-80 draught since July 4.

If it wasn't for the official scorer, he would have also had a double and hit for the cycle.

The stocky third baseman also made the fielding play of the game for the Angelenos would have lost in 11 innings.

Davey Lopes' seventh homer had given the Dodgers a 7-6 lead in the top of the 11th.

With Mike Garman (4-2) on the mound, a hit batter (bitterly contested by the Dodgers), and two singles tied the score, 7-7.

Lee Mazzilli represented the winning run at third base and there was only one out.

Bruce Boisclair lifted a foul ball way down the third base line and Cey took off in pursuit. He caught ball running away from home plate and Mazzilli tagged up and sprinted for the plate. Cey whirled and threw to Steve Yeager to nip the sliding Mazzilli for an unusual double play.

"You have to go for the out in a situation like that," commented the Penguin. "You don't want to give the batter a second chance.

. "I was fortunate to catch the ball because it was wet and muddy there. I planted my foot, turned and threw."

"I said to myself if he (Cey) catches it, that bleep of a bleep will try to score," said Lasorda. "He made a hell of a play."

Cey was sorry the Dodgers lost and unhappy with the scoring.

"I think it was a tacky call," he said. "If it was daytime, it would have been called a hit."

When a New York writer explained that Steve Henderson, the Mets' leftfielder, had called for the ball and then pulled up and let it fall between he and Mazzilli, Cey did not back off.

"It still would have been a hit in the daytime," he said. "There is a mixup in communications lots of times. You can't penalize guys for it."

In New York, unlike Dodger Stadium, you can and do.

Lasorda didn't like the call either. But he was more burned up by the call by home plate umpire Andy Olsen that Garman hit leadoff batter John Stearns.

"Garvey said Stearns told him (when he got to first base) that the pitch didn't hit him," said the irate Dodger manager.

The win went to Skip Lockwood (2-6) who was unhittable except for Lopes' homer in 5 and 2/3 innings. He gave up one other single (Russell), struck out seven and walked one and that was intentional.

Garman's ERA was 0.47 in 18 and 1/3 innings prior to Monday night. In fact, the Dodger bullpen had allowed only four earned runs in its last 28 innings for a 1.29 ERA prior to Monday night.

Don Sutton failed for the fifth straight time to win his 11th game. The Dodger ace hasn't won since July 4. In 5 and 2/3 innings against the Mets Monday night, he was battered for nine hits including a home run, a triple and two doubles while walking five and fanning two.

"Sutton was going with only three day's rest," offered Lasorda. It may have had a little effect on him."

Henderson liked Sutton's pitching. He hit a triple and his seventh homer while the Dodger ace was in the game.

It was impressive because Sutton had twice spun the youngster out of the batter's box in the first inning and then Henderson tripled.

DODGER DATA — Tommy John (11-4) and Jerry Koosman (8-10), two lefties, go at it tonight. Wednesday afternoon, it will be two more portsiders, Doug Rau (12-2) matches up with Jon Matlack (6-12).

Henderson Monday was named National League Player of the Week. He was 9-for-23 (.391) last week with eight runs batted in and seven scored.

Four of Henderson's nine hits were for extra bases, two doubles, a triple and a home run, as he led the Mets to five wins in six games played last week.

LIFE IN THE BIG APPLE — According to N.Y. Post columnist Paul Zimmerman, New York's bid for the 1984 Olympics is a giant ripoff. Zimmerman claims only New York and Los Angeles are interested in staging the '84 event.

Writing in the N.Y. Times, Murray Chass says, "The Yankees, instead of playing games, hold meetings. The owner meets with the manager, the manager meets with the players, the players meet with the owner.

"In meeting after meeting, the Yankees clear the air. They clear the air in the clubhouse and they clear the air in the hotel. They clear the air before games and they clear the air after games.

"They're supposed to be a baseball team, but they've cleared more air than a smog remover."

Both Don Gullett and Catfish Hunter are reported to have arm and shoulder problems and both will see, or have seen, Dr. Frank Jobe while the Yanks are in Anaheim to play the Angels.

It could only happen in New York City: Seen on the news on television was a two-minute film report showing people plagued by dog droppings all over the sidewalks using a device to pick up and clean up. Official name of the device, believe it or not, is a "Pooper-Scooper." Needless to say, it seemed to work super duper.

Goodwin bet paying off

ANAHEIM (AP) — In June 1975 the California Angels bet $100,000 that Danny Goodwin was the best amateur baseball player in the nation.

They may have lost the bet, but it wasn't a totally wasted investment.

Goodwin tripled home the winning run in the fifth inning, scored the third run and put a fourth run in scoring position in the seventh inning Monday night to lift the Angels to a 4-1 victory over the New York Yankees before a crowd of 34,852 at Anaheim Stadium.

Goodwin went into the game batting .196 and it appeared for awhile that the Angels' $100,000 bonus investment in him was bad money.

After signing as the No. 1 pick in the nation, Goodwin had developed a sore arm and become so erratic as a thrower he was seldom used as a catcher in the minors before being called up a month ago.

Frank Robinson, California's batting coach, thinks Goodwin has the best swing on the club. Goodwin's triple missed being a home run by about a foot.

"I didn't get as much wood on it as I wanted," said Goodwin. "I saw it hit the fence and then drop to the ground, so I kept running."

The triple scored Rance Mullinkis, who had reached base on an error by Chris Chambliss. It put the Angels ahead, 2-1, and proved to be the winning run.

Goodwin scored on a sacrifice fly by Terry Humphrey.

Ken Brett outdueled Catfish Hunter and picked up his third straight win on a six-hitter.

The Angels are winning a gamble with Brett, too, after neary having to write off their investment in him. Minutes before the trading deadline on June 15, the Angels sent $400,000 and pitchers Don Kirkwood and John Verhoeven to the Chicago White Sox for Brett.

He lost his first four decisions before turning it around with his current win streak.

Miami waives drug suspects

By The Associated Press

Randy Crowder and Don Reese, the Miami Dolphins linemen who were suspended last May when they were arrested on drug charges, have been placed on waivers.

The team responded Monday to an order by the National Football League's Player-Club Relations Committee that the two be traded, reinstated or waived.

Crowder and Reese were suspended after their arrests. They argued that their suspensions were unfair because they hadn't yet been proven guilty.

Any team that picks the players up would have to pay the Dolphins a third-round draft choice or work out some other mutually satisfactory compensation.

In other NFL training camps, the Dallas Cowboys reported that All-Pro offensive tackle Rayfield Wright had undergone surgery on his knee. Three incisions were made to free a constricted area that was pressing on a nerve.

Doctors said Wright would be out of action for at least two months. His convalescence, coupled with the retirement of veteran guard Blaine Nye, have been a major headache for the Cowboys.

At Green Bay, 11-year veteran offensive lineman Bob Hyland, the last active link to the Green Bay Packer championship teams of the Vince Lombardi era, was placed on waivers at his own request.

"Bob felt he wasn't making the progress that he felt he should be making and that we did," said Bart Starr, the team's coach and general manager who quarterbacked the Lombardi-coached Packers to three consecutive NFL championships in the mid 1960s.

The Packers signed guard Tom Lyons, a free agent who was released two weeks ago by the Denver Broncos, to replace Hyland.

In another development, the Packers announced the retirement of quarterback Don Milan, who has been plagued by injuries.

Brad Van Pelt, who'd played out the option year of his contract with the New York Giants, then reported nine days late for camp, agreed to terms with the club. Giants operations director Andy Robustelli said Van Pelt would play on a multi-year contract.

Ray White, a starter at middle linebacker last year, ended his dispute with the St. Louis Cardinals, signing a series of one-year contracts. The club also announced the signing of free agent punter Mike Wedman of the University of Colorado.

NBA free agents wait, hope

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association players are finding that free agency is not all it was cracked up to be.

Most of the 55 players who became free agents at the close of last season have discovered little interest in the marketplace for their talents. Only three have changed teams. Two signed with their old clubs. The rest sit and wait—anxiously, since training camp is barely more than a month away.

Larry Fleisher, executive director of the NBA Players Association, is not happy about this lack of movement and has raised the possibility of court action unless the situation improves.

"We're all concerned and unhappy," Fleisher said Monday. "I'm not certain where it's going to lead."

One place might be the courtroom of U.S. District Judge Robert L. Carter. He's the judge who approved the longterm agreement signed last year between the NBA and its Players Association.

Under that agreement, a player got the right to play out the final year of his contract and become a free agent, but through the 1980 season any team signing such a free agent must give his old team compensation. If the clubs can't agree on compensation, then Commissioner Larry O'Brien makes the decision.

The first free agent to change hands this winter was Len Robinson, the muscular young forward who went from Atlanta to New Orleans, signing a fouryear contract for a reported $1.6 million. The clubs have been unable to agree on compensation, but O'Brien has not yet made a ruling.

Would a decision by the commissioner on the Robinson compensation issue open up the free agent logjam?

"That works on the assumption that there is legitimacy on the part of the clubs," said Fleisher, "and that one of the reasons they're not signing players is that they don't know what kind of compensation they're going to have to pay. I'm not convinced that's the only reason they're not signing players. I think that's one of two reasons. The other is that they simply don't want to sign any players."

That is why Fleisher is considering legal action. He feels the agreement between the NBA and the Players Association, which had been hailed as a landmark among sports-labor pacts, is being violated.

Take the case of Bobby Dandridge, the forward who was Milwaukee's top scorer the past two years and has averaged between 18.4 points and 21.5 points per game in each of the past seven seasons. At the age of 30, with a number of good years left, Dandridge has been unable to sell his services for what he feels they are worth since becoming a free agent.

"Things just aren't working out the way they were supposed to," said Dandridge. "At first I thought I'd be with Washington. Now I don't care. I just want to get the thing worked out. It's disappointing to be in limbo."

To win a court case, however, Fleisher would have to show intent among NBA club owners to keep hands off free agents—in effect, to prove conspiracy.

"We would have to show that there is bad faith and that there is intent on the part of all the teams not to sign players," said Fleisher.

Does he think such a conspiracy exists?

"It would sure look that way, wouldn't it?" he replied. "I would think so."

Thinking it is one thing; proving it is something else.

"That's a very difficult thing to do," conceded Fleisher. "Particularly when you get a case like Bobby (Dandridge), who at least on the surface has received a couple of offers. You get into the problem of measuring how much he's worth. That's a tough line to draw."

Of the 55 free agents at the end of last season, Robinson went from Atlanta to New Orleans, Jamaal Wilkes moved from Golden State to Los Angeles and Glenn Hansen went from Kansas City to New Orleans. The Kings will receive a draft choice as compensation for Hansen, a reserve guard-forward. The case of Wilkes, a first-rate forward, is unresolved and may wind up before O'Brien.

Following are the 50 National Basketball Assocation players who had become free agents and remain unsigned:

Atlanta (3) — Randy Denton, Geoff Petrie, Claude Terry.
Boston (4) — Jim Ard, John Havlicek, Kevin Stacom, Sidney Wicks.

Kramer organizes tennis tournament

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The first Southern California Tennis Championships, carrying a purse of $100,000, will be played Sept. 16-26 at the Los Angeles Tennis Club, it was announced Monday.

The event moves into the time that had been used for the Pacific Southwest tournament, a Grand Prix circuit fixture that has been moved to late March and is now played indoors at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion.

Jack Kramer of the Southern California Tennis Assocation Association said in announcing the new tournament that Arthur Ashe, Stan Smith, Roscoe Tanner and Raul Ramirez had already signed entry forms.

Kramer said he hopes the event will be added to the Grand Prix circuit next year, and added that tournament officials want to move it at the same time from the 3,300-seat Los Angeles Tennis Club to the suburban Calabassas Park Tennis Club, which seats nearly double that.

Cotton Fitzsimmons named Braves coach

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Cotton Fitzsimmons has beaten out at least two other candidates for the head coaching position of the Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association.

Braves President Norm Sonju confirmed to the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle that the 45-year-old former coach of the Phoenix Suns and Atlanta Hawks had been selected for the NBA's only vacant head coaching position.

"We just need a few contract details completed," Sonju said. "We'll announce it soon, probably this week."

The newspaper reported that the former junior college coach from Moberly, Mo., was picked over ex-Milwaukee Bucks Coach Larry Costello and Braves Director of Player Personnel Bob MacKinnon.

Fitzsimmons, last year's director of player personnel for the Golden State Warriors, reportedly was offered a three-year, non-guaranteed contract, or a two-year, guaranteed contract with a two-year, non-guaranteed option.

"John Y. Brown (the Braves' owner) and I both felt strongly that we need a strong, agressive coach with a good courtside appearance," Sonju said. "We wanted someone who was strong on the X's and O's and who conducted organized workouts, but also someone who was exciting.

"We looked for someone in the mold of Bill Fitch, Kevin Loughery or Larry Brown. We think Cotton fits that mold."

Fitzsimmons had a 97-67 record with the Suns and a 140-180 showing in four seasons with Atlanta. He was conducting a basketball camp in Hannibal, Mo., Monday and was unavailable for comment.

Pro soccer now faces union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Johnny Kerr has played soccer in the United States since 1968 and believes the time is right for the players to organize in the union. The National Football League Players Association agrees with him.

Kerr, who toiled for the Cosmos, the Detroit Cougars and most recently for the Washington Diplomats, has been feeling out members of the North American Soccer League to find out if they are interested in becoming a member of the union.

Apparently they are. Some 265 of a minimum 306 have signed authorization cards permitting the NFL players Association to be their representative in talks with management on wages, hours and working conditions.

A meeting of player representatives of the 18 teams and alternates, soon to be elected, will be held in Washington on Aug. 29.

Kerr gave a personal recollection as an example for the need of a union.

He said in 1969-70 season he was fined $15 by the then Washington Darts because he and several other players refused to practice in the rain when, he said, there were no shower facilities available near the playing field.

"I was only a semi-pro at the time and we were practicing three or four times a week," said Kerr, who has been spearheading the organization of the union. "I complained about the lack of facilities, but to no avail. When the coach fined me, the only recourse I had was to appeal to the general manager who backed the coach.

"Then the only thing I could do was go to the commissioner," he said. "Naturally he backed the team."

Typical of the comments by the other players in the league was one by Alan Merrick, team captain of Minnesota Kicks who is quoted as saying the issue is not the club but the players' position in the league.

"The standard contract in the NASL is one-sided for the club," said Merrick. "If (Kick's Coach) Freddy Goodwin decided he didn't want me, I could be terminated tomorrow without further pay."

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, said he was amazed at the response the union had received from the players in the soccer league.

"We needed only 30 per cent or 100 players in order to force an election if necessary," he said, "to our amazement, over two-thirds responded favorably."

TENNIS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Topseeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina came from behind to post a 1-6, 6-0, 6-1 victory over second-seeded Eddie Dibbs in the finals of the $125,000 Louisville International Tennis Classic.

Vilas could do little right in the opening set, but was almost flawless thereafter. The 24year-old Vilas, who won his third title here in four years, suffered a service break in the opening game of the match. Dibbs, a 5-foot-7 battler from Miami Beach, Fla. made quick work of the Argentinian for the rest of the set.

In the third set, Dibbs held his first serve, but the relentless Vilas ripped a bushel of passing shots in winning the final six games and the match. Vilas collected $20,000 for his victory while Dibbs picked up $10,000.

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. — Defending champion Jimmy Connors defeated Jim Delaney of Potomac, Md. 6-3, 6-3 in the first round of a $125,000 international tennis tournament.

Connors withstood a last-minute challenge by Delaney, just as a thunderstorm began to drench the red clay court.

No. 10 seed Bob Lutz won easily over Jan Norbac of Sweden 6-0, 6-1 and fifth-seeded Harold Solomon defeated Wilheim Trinsloo of South Africa, 6-1, 6-2.

BARCELONA — Corado Barazzutti beat Manuel Orantes 7-5, 7-5, 6-1 to give Italy a 3-2 victory over Spain in their European B zone finals of the Davis Cup tennis tournament.

Italy will meet France in the European inter-zone finals next month.

BOWLING

DAVENPORT, Iowa — Mike Berlin of nearby Muscatine, Iowa, captured his third Professional Bowlers Association title with a runaway 237-pin victory over Tommy Hudson in the $60,000 Quad Cities Open at Plaza Bowl North.

The victory enabled Berlin, 33, to join Mark Roth with four victories and Hudson with three victories as the only multiple winners on the tour this year.

The $6,000 first prize boosted Berlin's earnings for the year to $40,515 and moved him from seventh to fifth on the money list.

He finished with a match play record of 18-6, the best of the 24 finalists, and a 42-game pinfall of 9,722. Hudson finished with 9,485.

Elks win marathon contest

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Baseball fans at Ralph Welch Park Monday night saw the Elks (National No. 1) squad defeat the Pomona Police (American No. 2) 10-6 in 11 innings to conclude a wild night of Little League baseball which also featured a donnybrook on the Northeast diamond.

The Elks scored four times in the 11th to wrap up a four hour and 40 minute contest which began at 7:30 p.m. The final out was recorded at 12:08 a.m. on a strikeout.

There were three other games played in the Pomona City Senior Division Tournament Monday night along with the Elks-Pomona Police contest. Straw Hat Pizza (American No. 1) picked up a six inning 9-0 victory over the Northwest Dodgers and will meet the Elks squad Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the winners bracket.

In the losers bracket, Taco Rita defeated Ted Greene's No. 1 squad, 2-1, and the Southwest D.A.V's defeated the Northwest A's, 5-3. Taco Rita (Southwest No. 2) will meet the Northwest Dodgers tonight in a 6:30 p.m. contest. The Pomona Police face the D.A.V squad at 6:30 on the Southwest diamond.

Chuck Mikel rapped a single with the bases loaded to break up a 6-6 deadlock in the 11th. He was credited with two RBI. Before the Pomona Police could retire the Elks' batters four runs had crossed the plate. The Elks had loaded the bases on two walks and a bunt single by Mike Johnson.

The Elks had led 6-2 entering the sixth frame when the Pomona Police scored three times to cut the National squad's lead to 6-5. A Don Williamson base hit in the seventh sent the game into overtime at 6-6.

Robbie Kato had three hits in five at bats for the Pomona Police as they stranded 14 base runners in 11 innings. They missed opportunities to win the contest in both the eighth and ninth stanzas. A total of 23 base runners were stranded as the Elks left nine men on base.

The Falgout brothers (Lloyd and Sean) led Straw Hat Pizza to its 9-0 win. The game ended in the sixth when a king size brawl broke out.

John Dennis was the hero in the D.A.V.'s victory with a three-run double in the sixth as Stan Conley struck out 11 Northwest A's in recording the win.

AL opens sectional

SAN BERNARDINO—The Section 6 Little League Tournament gets under way tonight at the L.L. Western Regional Headquarters, with Alta Loma (the District 21 champs) slated to meet Northview of Covina (the District 19 titlist).

Tonight's contest and the other three tilts in the tourney will start at 7 p.m. at the Regional Headquarters diamond. Alta Loma is expected to start Chris Spiker, who won two games in District competition, on the hill tonight.

Wednesday night's game pits Chino National (the District 23 champion) vs. Bassett (the District 60 champ). After an off-day Thursday, Pomona American (the District 20 titlist) will meet the winner of tonight's Alta Loma-Northview game on Friday.

The Sectional finale is slated to go Saturday night.

Local golfer wins

CALABASAS — Andy Koppel of Upland fired a one-under par 71 Monday to win the seventh tournament on the Western Amateur Golf Association summer tour.

Koppel, 20, a student at Cal Poly Pomona, birdied the 18th hole to win by one stroke over seven other golfers in the field of 122.

Koppel, who shot a 36-35 for his 71 round, recorded three birdies and 12 pars on the Calabasas Park course. It was his first triumph in the Western Amateur summer tour.

There are four tourneys remaining on the tour.

Tied at 72 Monday were Matt Ellison, Ventura; Alex Petric, Vista; Bill Viele, Hemet; Gary Backlund, Calabasas; Tom Gorrell, Long Beach; and Dave Stanley, Bakersfield.

In a playoff, Ellison finished second, Petric third.

Fight results

TOPEKA, Kan. — Tony Chiaverini, Shawnee, Kan., knocked out Alfonzo Aguirre, San Antonio, 3, middleweights.

Superintendent's pay raise approved

The Pomona school board has approved a 6 per cent pay hike for Supt. Charles Carpenter, increasing his annual salary from $40,000 to $42,400.

The raise was given as a personnel item during a recent budget study session. Carpenter became superintendent a year ago. The raise was effective Monday.

The increase makes the superintendent's salary competitive with those salaries in other school districts in Los Angeles County.

These include the Hacienda La Puente Unified School District, $42,000 last year; Palos Verdes Unified School District, $46,000; Charter Oak School District, $40,000; Los Angeles City School District, $58,000; Beverly Hills School District, $52,000; and Glendale School District, $49,000.

Children's films to be shown

Three free children's films will be shown Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. at the San Dimas library.

The films are "Granny Lives in Galway," "Morris the Midget Moose," and "Parade of Bugs." The library is located at 145 N. Walnut Ave.

Display of prostheses planned

A display of prostheses for women who have had mastectomies is planned at the Pomona office of the American Cancer Society on Thursday.

A volunteer from Reach-to-Recovery will be present from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to discuss the items on display.

The Pomona office is at 111 W. Center St.

ALL IT TOOK TO GET REAL TASTE IN A LOW 'TAR' WAS TEN YEARS, A FEW GOOD MEN AND STUBBORNNESS BEYOND BELIEF.

In Decade we've accomplished something that many thought impossible: delivering real cigarette taste with only 5 mg. of tobacco 'tar.'

Of course, like all things worthwhile, it wasn't easy. The final ecstatic shout of, "Eureka, we did it!" was a long time coming —ten years, in fact. But when you succeed in doing the impossible, who counts the years?

The Decade "Total System"

How were we able to keep the taste in a low 'tar' when so many others have failed? Mainly by developing our unique "Total System" in which every part of a Decade cigarette is arranged in perfect balance with each other. The tobacco, the filter, and even the paper. Only by concentrating on these parts were we able to perfect the whole.

The Tobacco. "Flavor Packing,"™ plus fifteen tobaccos boost taste.

Take the tobacco, for example. Its taste is boosted by a very unique method called "Flavor Packing" which allows us to concentrate a special patented tobacco flavorant in each Decade cigarette.

The Filter. Unique "Taste Channel" gives first puff impact.

Our filtration process is also unique. Simply, we've created a "Taste Channel" within the filter to give you that first puff impact you've come to expect from only the higher 'tar' cigarettes.

The Paper. High porosity paper controls burn rate.

Even our high porosity paper is specifically designed to give an efficient burn rate that delivers optimum taste with a minimum of 'tar.'

The result. A completely new kind of low 'tar' cigarette.

So try a pack for yourself. Regular or Menthol. And who knows, after you smoke your first Decade, you may shout "Eureka" too.
